US futures are modestly lower in thin Sunday evening trading, contrasting with mixed but stable Asian futures. While Asia shows resilience in select indices like ASX and Nikkei, US contracts reflect caution ahead of the new week.

President Trump said Saturday that time was running out on his 10-day deadline for Iran to make a peace deal with the US and threatened that the Islamic Republic would face “all hell” in 48 hours.

President Donald Trump asked Congress to enact a $2.2 trillion budget for discretionary programs, seeking a massive increase in defense spending, while also renewing his push for steep cuts to domestic agencies.

WTI crude surged above $110 a barrel on Thursday after U.S. President Trump signaled a further escalation in the Iran war in the coming weeks. Markets were shut on Friday for a holiday, but prices resumed their climb at the start of Asian trading on Monday

Economists expect the upcoming Consumer Price Index (CPI) report to show a 1% increase for March 2026—the sharpest one-month spike since 2022. This "first snapshot" of inflation since the start of the U.S.-Israel war with Iran primarily reflects a rapid surge in energy costs

- Semirara Mining & Power Corp. (SMPC) — Coal Contract Extension Bid
- Semirara Mining and Power Corp. (SMPC) expressed confidence it can submit a mining plan meeting DoE requirements to extend its coal operating contract on Semirara Island, which expires in July 2027. Chairman Isidro Consunji underscored the mine's unique technical challenge — it operates below sea level, requiring specialized equipment such as deep diaphragm walls and high-power water pumps that no other Philippine operator has. The DoE is opening 18 coal blocks across 18,000 hectares for bidding this year, with documents due April 28.
- SMPC supplies about 38% of the country's baseload power, and Consunji warned that any operational disruption could raise electricity costs, increase inflation, and force coal imports. Meralco PowerGen has expressed interest in partnering with SMPC for the auction, while San Miguel Corp. has reportedly explored the area.
- Analysis: SMPC occupies a near-irreplaceable position in the country's energy supply chain. The very specificity of below-sea-level mining gives it a credible "incumbent advantage" argument in any bid. The entry of Meralco PowerGen as a potential co-bidder signals that strategic alliances may form to navigate the auction. However, the DoE's insistence on opening the bid signals regulatory intent to introduce competition regardless, creating headline policy risk for SMPC even if the odds favor its renewal.
- Recommendation: Watch closely. If SMPC wins the bid, it removes a major overhang and could be a near-term re-rating catalyst for the stock. The April 28 deadline is the key date. Investors holding SMPC for its dividend yield should not panic but monitor bid outcome disclosures. Those with higher risk tolerance may consider accumulating ahead of April 28 given the strong operational arguments in SMPC's favor.

- Converge ICT — Fiber Business Spinoff Under Review
- Converge ICT CEO Dennis Anthony Uy confirmed that the plan to carve out fiber assets into a separate unit remains under active study, noting that network sizing, automation, and back-end systems must all be ready before implementation. He said the plan could be beneficial if done in tandem with the Konektadong Pinoy Act, which promotes infrastructure sharing. Bloomberg had previously reported that Converge plans to spin off its fiber business — valued at around $1 billion — and sell about a 40% stake in the new unit. F
- or 2026, Converge set a capital expenditure guidance of P18–23 billion, primarily for expanding 900,000 new ports in the Visayas and Mindanao, plus investing in network reliability. The company also recently launched a P5-billion, 12-MW data center in Angeles, Pampanga, scalable to 36 MW and AI-ready.
- Analysis: The fiber spinoff, if executed, would be a major value-unlocking event, surfacing the intrinsic worth of Converge's passive infrastructure against a backdrop of persistent market undervaluation of telco stocks. The Konektadong Pinoy Act provides a regulatory tailwind for infrastructure sharing, which could make the new unit attractive to third-party capacity buyers. However, the CEO's "still on the study table" framing suggests timing remains highly uncertain. The expansion into Visayas and Mindanao also signals Converge is pursuing growth rather than simply monetizing existing assets.
- Recommendation: The spinoff possibility keeps Converge interesting from a value realization angle, but execution uncertainty means the trade is more speculative than near-term. Monitor regulatory developments under the Konektadong Pinoy Act and any formal SEC filings for the spinoff. For long-term investors, the underlying fiber network build-out and data center capacity expansion present solid secular growth drivers regardless of the spinoff outcome.

- Globe Telecom — Candle Cable System Consortium
- Globe Telecom joined the Candle Cable System consortium to strengthen the Philippines' digital backbone by connecting the country to submarine cable links across Asia. The system is a massive 8,000-km submarine cable with 24 fiber pairs linking Japan, Taiwan, the Philippines, Indonesia, Malaysia, and Singapore, with a total capacity of up to 570 terabits per second — one of the highest in Asia. The consortium includes Meta, SoftBank, IPS Inc., Telekom Malaysia, PT XLSmart, and NEC Corporation, with NEC as the system supplier.
- Globe will serve as both investor and landing partner, with the cable connecting to its station in Nasugbu, Batangas, complementing another landing point in Baler, Aurora. The dual landing sites are designed to improve network reliability and reduce disruptions from typhoons or earthquakes. The system is expected to become operational in 2028.
- Analysis: This is a strategically significant partnership for Globe, placing it alongside hyperscalers like Meta in a high-capacity transpacific-adjacent system. The dual landing station design (east and west coast) addresses long-standing resilience concerns for an archipelago prone to natural disasters. The 570 Tbps capacity will meaningfully support enterprise, AI, and cloud workloads at scale. The 2028 operational timeline means near-term financial impact is limited, but it strengthens Globe's infrastructure narrative for enterprise and B2B clients.
- Recommendation: Positive for Globe's long-term competitive positioning against PLDT, particularly in the enterprise and data services segment where margins are higher. No immediate earnings impact to model in. Investors already holding Globe may view this as reinforcing the investment thesis; new investors should assess alongside Globe's broader capex commitments and near-term earnings trajectory.

- Megawide Construction — Baguio Terminal & Cavite BRT Update
- Megawide plans to begin construction of the P1.2-billion Baguio City Integrated Terminal (BCIT) by Q3 2026, with completion expected in approximately two years. The BCIT will be developed under a 40-year lease with the city government and is designed to initially serve seven southbound routes, including La Union, Pangasinan, Tarlac, Pampanga, Bulacan, Metro Manila, and Cavite, with capacity for up to 25,000 passengers daily.
- Separately, Megawide is targeting partial operations of its P1.87-billion Cavite Bus Rapid Transit project by May, with full system completion expected by yearend. About 10 buses will be deployed initially, serving the Imus-to-One Ayala P2P corridor with projected ridership of nearly 5,000 passengers. The project had faced regulatory delays, with the original partial opening planned for September 2025 pushed back due to franchise processing issues with the LTFRB.
- Analysis: Megawide is building a formidable mobility infrastructure portfolio, PITX, Cavite BRT, BCIT, and the South Luzon Integrated Terminal Exchange, that positions it as the Philippines' leading private multimodal transport operator. The Cavite BRT's May start (if met) would validate the franchise framework for privately operated busways, a precedent with broad implications. At the same time, the recurring delays expose execution risk, particularly in regulatory coordination. The Baguio terminal adds Northern Luzon to Megawide's geographic reach.
- Recommendation: Megawide is a compelling infrastructure play for long-term investors willing to tolerate project timing risk. The eventual recurring income from all these terminals and BRT operations — estimated by management at P300–400 million annual net income once at full scale — could significantly re-rate the stock. Track the May Cavite BRT launch as the near-term litmus test for execution credibility.

FGEN 18.38

- First Gen Corp. — Lopez Family Governance Crisis
- First Gen issued a statement emphasizing that its P125-billion transactions with Prime Infrastructure Capital Inc. — including the P50-billion sale of a 60% stake in its natural gas business and a planned P75-billion investment in Prime Infra's hydro assets — underwent full board review and were unanimously approved by all directors, including those representing different family factions.
- The family feud centers on allegations by the Gabby Lopez-led majority bloc that they were not informed of these deals until after completion. The board voted 5–2 on February 27 to remove Piki Lopez as Lopez Inc. president, though a court-issued preliminary injunction has allowed him to remain in post.
- The dispute also stems from disagreements over whether to use P2 billion from Lopez Inc.'s reserve fund to support ABS-CBN, which has struggled since losing its franchise in 2020.
- Analysis: This is arguably the most consequential corporate governance story in the Philippine market this year. The dispute pits public-company disclosure obligations — which Piki Lopez's camp cites to justify non-disclosure to the family holding company — against the rights of a controlling bloc to be informed of major strategic pivots. The involvement of Enrique Razon through Prime Infra adds a layer of strategic complexity: the transactions effectively brought a powerful outside player deep into the Lopez energy empire.
- Recommendation: First Gen's operational continuity appears intact (the injunction holds, and management says it's business as usual), but the governance cloud creates uncertainty that prudent investors should price in. The P75-billion hydro investment is a major capex commitment that needs stable governance to execute well. Avoid adding exposure until the court case and shareholder dynamics are resolved. Existing holders should monitor developments at the May shareholder meetings.

AEV 30.00

- Aboitiz InfraCapital — Laguindingan Airport Airside Upgrades
- Aboitiz InfraCapital (AIC) has completed a series of upgrades to the airside facilities of Laguindingan International Airport to improve safety, efficiency, and reliability. Enhancements include clearer apron markings to guide aircraft and ground personnel, as well as additional Foreign Object Debris (FOD) bins to reduce risks during takeoff and landing.
- The upgrades are part of AIC's broader push to improve reliability at Laguindingan as passenger volumes recover and place added pressure on airport infrastructure, with earlier works also including runway inspections, rubber removal, crack sealing, and repainting of apron bollards.
- Laguindingan logged 2.35 million passengers with three airlines in 2025, and AIC officially took over operations and maintenance of the airport in April 2025. AIC also operates Mactan-Cebu and Bohol-Panglao airports, with its total network serving around 16 million passengers by end-2025, accounting for over 20% of the country's passenger traffic.
- Analysis: The Laguindingan upgrades are incremental but operationally important — airside safety and on-time performance are table stakes for attracting new airline routes. AIC's rapid pace of improvement since taking over in April 2025 reflects a well-executed post-concession ramp-up. As Mindanao continues to grow in economic importance, Laguindingan's role as the region's gateway airport positions AIC for meaningful passenger volume growth. The multi-airport network also gives AIC operational economies of scale.
- Recommendation: AIC's airport portfolio is a strong long-term infrastructure asset, though it remains a private subsidiary of Aboitiz Equity Ventures (AEV). For AEV investors, the airport segment is a key value driver to track. Watch for announcements on Laguindingan's terminal expansion plans and potential new airline route additions as the key near-term catalysts.

COSCO 7.06

- Cosco Capital — Full-Year 2025 Profit Results
- Cosco Capital grew its earnings by 3.4% to P15.96 billion in 2025, driven by strong operating performance from its major business segments.
- Consolidated revenue rose 10.6% to P262 billion from P237 billion in 2024. The grocery retail segment, led by Puregold Price Club and S&R Membership Shopping Club, accounted for 68% of total net income, followed by liquor distribution at 23.5%, commercial real estate at 7%, and energy and minerals at 1%.
- The company's board approved a 20% regular dividend equivalent to P0.265 per share totaling P1.86 billion, plus a 10% special dividend of P0.133 per share, for a combined payout of about P2.8 billion reflecting a dividend yield of 5.77%.
- Analysis: Cosco's results are solid but show a deceleration profit growth of 3.4% in full-year 2025 compares to 9.3% in H1 2025, suggesting some second-half softness. Revenue growth of 10.6%, however, remains robust and reflects improving consumer demand across its segments. The grocery segment's same-store sales growth at both Puregold (4.1%) and S&R (6.1%) confirms healthy underlying demand. The combined 5.77% dividend yield is attractive in the current rate environment and gives income-oriented investors a reason to stay.
- Recommendation: Accumulate or hold for dividend income. Cosco's diversified portfolio, grocery, liquor, real estate, provides defensive characteristics, and the consistent payout policy rewards long-term shareholders. Monitor H1 2026 results for any indication that the top-line momentum is translating into improved bottom-line growth, which could drive a re-rating of the stock.

SM 633.00

- SM Prime Holdings — Harrison Plaza ₱6-Billion Redevelopment
- Summary: SM Prime Holdings will invest more than P6 billion to redevelop the former Harrison Plaza site in Manila, with completion of the new mall targeted for 2027. The project is part of SM Prime's P150-billion mall investment program for 2026 to 2030, which includes the redevelopment of 16 existing malls and the construction of 12 to 15 new lifestyle centers. SM Harrison Plaza will have an estimated gross floor area of more than 200,000 square meters, comparable to SM City Davao and SM City Clark, and will incorporate nature-inspired architectural elements, open layouts, community spaces, and green areas. The project is expected to serve office workers, residents, and students in Malate and Ermita, and may attract local and foreign visitors due to its proximity to the Manila Zoo, Rizal Memorial Sports Complex, the Cultural Center of the Philippines Complex, and Manila Bay.
- Analysis: The Harrison Plaza redevelopment is a bold urban renewal bet, returning SM Prime to one of Manila's most historically significant commercial sites. Its location near Manila Bay's increasingly popular waterfront and major cultural institutions gives it a differentiated catchment area compared to suburban malls. The P150-billion, 5-year program underscores SM Prime's confidence in the resilience of the Philippine mall sector despite e-commerce headwinds. Execution risk exists, but SM Prime has a strong track record of delivering on large-scale mall projects.
- Recommendation: Bullish long-term signal for SM Prime (SMPH). The pipeline of 12–15 new malls plus 16 redevelopments through 2030 is a durable revenue growth driver. SMPH's 2025 full-year net income grew 7% to P48.8 billion, providing a solid financial foundation for this expansion. Investors with a 2–3 year horizon should view the Harrison Plaza opening in 2027 as a meaningful earnings contributor.

MWIDE 2.85

- Megawide Construction — Cavite BRT May Launch Target
- Megawide is targeting partial operations of its P1.87-billion Cavite BRT project by May, with its P2P service from Imus, Cavite to One Ayala set to launch first. About 10 buses will be deployed initially, with projected ridership of nearly 5,000 passengers per day. The full BRT system, covering dedicated bus lanes through Kawit, Imus, General Trias, Tanza, and Trece Martires, is expected to be completed by yearend. The BRT project faced regulatory delays as the LTFRB processed its franchise, which has no precedent given it is the country's first busway with a private operator. Philstar.com The project involves 47 stations and three terminals in total and is being developed jointly with Maplecrest Group under a 30-year concession from the Cavite provincial government.
- Analysis: The Cavite BRT is both a commercial project and a proof of concept for privately operated BRT systems in the Philippines. Success will set a template for similar projects elsewhere, expanding Megawide's addressable market. The route change from PITX to One Ayala is a pragmatic market-driven decision that should help initial ridership, given the strong Cavite-to-Makati commuter demand. The franchise novelty that caused delays could still create further regulatory friction as full operations scale up.
- Recommendation: Megawide's mobility infrastructure business is its most exciting long-term value driver. A successful May launch — even partial — would be a significant positive signal for the stock. Track ridership numbers in the first 60–90 days as a key leading indicator for the project's commercial viability and future BRT concession wins.

MPI, GTCAP 524.00

- Metro Pacific Health — Nine Awards at Healthcare Asia 2026
- Metro Pacific Health Corp. (MPH) secured nine major awards at the Healthcare Asia Awards 2026 in Singapore, becoming the Philippines' most awarded hospital group at the event. MPH won Health Promotion Initiative of the Year — Philippines, while Asian Hospital and Medical Center received Marketing Initiative of the Year and Technology Innovation of the Year. MPH operates 28 hospitals nationwide, including Makati Medical Center, Asian Hospital, Cardinal Santos Medical Center, Davao Doctors Hospital, and Riverside Medical Center. MPH is the healthcare arm of Metro Pacific Investments Corp. (MPIC), which has stated plans to expand its hospital portfolio to as many as 50 facilities within five years.
- Analysis: Nine awards at a regional competition of this caliber is a meaningful validation of MPH's quality and innovation positioning. The recognition of Asian Hospital specifically for technology innovation aligns with the broader push across private hospital groups to deploy AI, telemedicine, and digital health tools. MPIC's 50-hospital target within five years is ambitious; the awards help demonstrate clinical and operational quality that can support M&A due diligence and partnership negotiations.
- Recommendation: Positive indicator for Metro Pacific Investments Corp. (MPI), for which healthcare is a growing contributor. The awards reinforce MPH's brand as the network expands. Long-term investors in MPI should view healthcare as a defensive, high-growth segment that adds resilience to the portfolio alongside the group's toll roads and water utility operations.

RRHI 46.05

- Robinsons Retail Holdings Inc. (RRHI) — Delisting Plan Drives Share Surge
- RRHI shares surged after its board approved a voluntary delisting and a P48.30-per-share tender offer from controlling shareholder JE Holdings, Inc. Shares closed at P46.01, up 18.2% from the pre-announcement price of P38.95, becoming the 11th most actively traded stock on the PSE for the week with P457.93 million in transactions. Year to date, the stock has risen 39.3%, sharply outpacing the PSEi's 0.9% decline. The offer represents a premium over recent trading levels, supported by an independent fairness opinion from FTI Consulting Philippines. RRHI President Stanley Co acknowledged that the company's share price has not fully reflected intrinsic value, and the tender offer provides shareholders with a meaningful exit. Shareholders will vote on the delisting at the annual meeting on May 12, 2026.
- Analysis: Analysts describe the trade as now deal-driven rather than fundamentals-driven, with the upside capped at P48.30 while downside risk is meaningful if the transaction fails and the stock reverts to pre-offer levels. The P48.30 offer price, representing a ~32% premium over the one-year volume-weighted average, is fair but not generous.
- Recommendation: Current shareholders holding below P46 may consider tendering at the P48.30 offer for a risk-adjusted return. New buyers near P46 face asymmetric risk: ~5% upside to the offer price vs. potentially significant downside if shareholder approval or regulatory conditions fall through.
