Wall Street and currencies extended losses Thursday, on track for a fourth straight weekly decline, as Iran's defiant stance against U.S. peace efforts fuels a surge in oil and strengthens the dollar.

Nasdaq enters correction territory as U.S. stocks slide on Iran fallout

Brent crude is up over 3% and around the $106 per barrel mark with the US and Iran providing conflicting comments on efforts to end the war.

Google's announcement of TurboQuant, a new AI compression algorithm that reduces key-value memory size by over 6x, caused a significant sell-off in memory and storage stocks Promises to boost efficiency and maintain accuracy without requiring model retraining

Oils Declined, Gold Silver Gained

- Global markets saw crude oil prices decline while gold and silver surged by over 3% and 5% respectively.
- This inverse movement was primarily triggered by signals of diplomatic de-escalation in the U.S.-Iran conflict.

US stocks is facing downward pressure as investors react to escalating geopolitical tensions in the Middle East and rising oil prices.
Gold slips:

- Rising Treasury Yields
- Stronger US Dollar
- Liquidity Squeeze & Forced Selling
- Gulf State Liquidations

President Trump says Iran had provided a "gift" or "present" to the United States as a gesture of goodwill during ongoing negotiations.

- This gift was the safe passage of 10 oil tankers through the strategic Strait of Hormuz, which had been heavily disrupted by recent conflict.

Turkey sold or swapped 58 tons of gold in the two weeks leading up to March 20. Central Bank of the Republic of Türkiye (CBRT) is reportedly preparing to use its gold reserves as a strategic tool to defend the struggling lira amid high inflation and regional volatility.

Philippines Receives Russian Oil After US Sanctions Waiver

- This delivery follows a 30-day sanctions waiver issued by the US.
- 750,000bbls of Russian ESPO Blend crude
- The Sierra Leone-flagged tanker Sara Sky docked at the Petron refinery in Limay, Bataan, at 2:00 PM
- Watch: PCOR

Discovered Production Capacity: The Camago-3 well has been tested to produce up to 60 million standard cubic feet of gas per day.

- The resource is estimated to be approximately 2.5 times larger than the Malampaya East-1 (MAE-1) discovery announced in January 2026.

Philippine peso faces high vulnerability to global energy shocks, with forecasts placing the exchange rate around ₱60-₱60.50 per USD due to risk-off sentiment and rising inflation risks from the US-Iran conflict.

SCC 28.90
PT 35.00

- Semirara reflects a recovery from recent lows, driven by strong operational efficiency and long-term expansion projects despite current market headwinds.
- SCC a top "dividend giant" on the PSE, with yields recently reaching 10.98% to 13.85%.

GTCAP 515.00

- GTCAP (GT Capital Holdings) — FY2025 Net Income +17% to ₱33.68B; Metrobank & Toyota Both Hit Records
- GT Capital reported a 17% increase in its 2025 net income to ₱33.68 billion, driven by contributions from Metrobank and Toyota Motor Philippines. Metrobank posted a ₱49.7 billion net income — its fourth consecutive year of record earnings — supported by loan growth and trading gains. Core profit rose 8% to ₱30.47 billion. GT Capital's pre-provision operating profit climbed 17.1% to ₱78.4 billion. TMP registered ₱19 billion in net income, up 18.9%, as retail sales reached 229,447 units. GT Capital associate MPIC likewise reported a record performance with consolidated core net income of ₱27.1 billion.
- Analysis: This is a genuine triple-record result — Metrobank, Toyota, and MPIC all hitting all-time highs simultaneously. The 17% headline net income growth understates the quality of the result because MPIC is only an associate (not consolidated). Metrobank's fourth consecutive record year, driven by loan growth, stable margins, and trading gains, is the core earnings engine and demonstrates that Philippine banking fundamentals remain intact despite the macro headwinds of peso weakness and rising rates. Toyota's 46.7% market share at 229,447 units shows the Vios/Avanza franchise maintains dominance. The key 2026 risk: if BSP hikes rates at the April 10 meeting, Metrobank's cost of funds rises, though bank earnings tend to benefit from rate hikes on the asset side (loan repricing). Toyota faces auto loan affordability pressure if rates rise. MPIC's infrastructure portfolio (tollroads, water, hospitals) is largely inflation-indexed, providing resilience.
- Stance: ACCUMULATE GTCAP. Triple-record year from three distinct business pillars. P/E deeply discounted. The bank-auto-infrastructure combination is a resilient all-weather conglomerate portfolio. April 10 BSP rate decision is the near-term catalyst.

FDC 4.24

- FDC (Filinvest Development Corp.) — 2026 Capex ₱27.6B (+11.3%); Power Gets 40%, Real Estate 38%
- FDC plans to allocate ₱27.6 billion in capex for 2026 to support expansion and system upgrades, 11.3% higher than the ₱24.8 billion budgeted for 2025. CFO Ven Christian Guce said about 48% will go toward expansion-related projects. Segment breakdown: 40% to power, 38% to real estate, 10% to banking. Expansion projects include a hotel in Baguio and a wastewater treatment plant in Filinvest City, Alabang. Funding options include bilateral loans or capital market instruments.
- Analysis: The capex split power (40%) over real estate (38%) is a deliberate strategic reordering that reflects where FDC sees the best risk-adjusted returns in 2026. Power is the right call: the energy emergency and Middle East shock have reinforced the case for domestic generation expansion. For FDC's power business (Filinvest Cyberzone + energy JVs), the elevated electricity price environment supports investment returns. The real estate capex reduction is a sensible response to the softening property market (PHL 10yr at 7.1%, mortgage rates high). The EastWest Bank home financing partnership with FLI announced earlier this week is precisely designed to address this — stimulating residential demand despite elevated rates. The 48% toward expansion (vs. 52% maintenance/upgrades) signals confidence in growth despite the macro environment.
- Stance: ACCUMULATE FDC. Power-heavy capex allocation is strategically correct in the current energy emergency environment. Banking-property synergy (EastWest + FLI) offsets the real estate softness. ₱27.6B capex at 11% growth while maintaining funding flexibility is a well-managed balance sheet play.

SHLPH 9.50

- SSPC (Shell Pilipinas Corp.) — FY2025 Net Income +69% to ₱2.1B; Core Earnings +28% to ₱3.3B; FCF Reversal to +₱2.1B
- Shell Pilipinas reported a 69% increase in net income to ₱2.1 billion last year, supported by volume growth across fuel and non-fuel segments and cost control. Core earnings rose 28% YoY to ₱3.3 billion. The company ended the year with free cash flow of ₱2.1 billion, reversing the ₱1.6 billion deficit recorded in the previous year. Aviation continued to outperform with 11% higher volumes, delivering its strongest results in the last five years. Fleet Solutions posted 11% volume growth. Non-fuel retail returned to double-digit growth at 11%.
- Analysis: The FCF reversal is the most important number in this result — from -₱1.6B to +₱2.1B. A ₱3.7B swing in free cash flow in a single year represents a structural transformation in SPC's operating efficiency and capital management, not just a volume story. The 69% net income jump is the headline but the core earnings +28% is the more sustainable baseline. This result takes on added strategic significance in the context of the current fuel shock: Shell Pilipinas as the country's second-largest oil distributor with a strong B2B/commercial/aviation franchise is a direct beneficiary of elevated fuel demand and pricing in the near term. Aviation at its strongest in five years (pre-Iran war numbers) signals structural recovery in the segment. The irony: the Iran war creates short-term volume/pricing tailwinds for a distributor even as it disrupts aviation. Fleet Solutions and commercial fuels are non-cyclically resilient.
- Stance: ACCUMULATE SPC. The FCF turnaround story + volume diversification (aviation, fleet, non-fuel retail) + current energy price environment = compelling combination. Timely disclosure in the middle of an energy emergency validates the business model.

AVIATION
PAL 3.40
CEB 29.45

- PAL / CEB — Both Cutting More Flights; PAL Suspends 5 More Routes, CEB Reducing Frequencies to October
- In separate advisories, PAL and CEB said they are adjusting their networks by suspending some routes and reducing flight frequencies.
- PAL is adjusting its schedule due to "changing conditions affecting global aviation." PAL indefinitely suspended its Cebu-Guam flights starting April 16 and Cebu-Ho Chi Minh City services beginning April 19, and also suspended domestic Clark-Siargao (May 4), Cebu-Ozamiz (May 5), and Cebu-Calbayog (May 6) routes.
- CEB went further, suspending routes from Davao and Iloilo to Bangkok, Iloilo to Singapore, and Clark to Hanoi from April through October, while slashing frequencies on flights to Jakarta, Kuala Lumpur, and several Australian cities.
- Analysis: The network adjustments are escalating, not stabilizing. CEB's cuts now run through October 2026 — that is not a tactical adjustment; it is a structural capacity reduction for the full H1 and into H2 2026. The domestic route suspensions (Clark-Siargao, Cebu-Ozamiz, Cebu-Calbayog) by PAL are particularly telling — these are not Middle East-exposed routes, they are domestic leisure/secondary routes being cut for fuel economics. Jet fuel at ~$188-197/bbl vs. $99 pre-war is a ₱1,000+ per liter equivalent impact at scale. CEB's 72% NEO fleet efficiency advantage partially offsets this, but the throughput reduction means yield management becomes critical — fewer seats at higher prices. The negative for investors: reduced frequency means reduced market share and OFW remittance disruptions on key Gulf routes. The positive: capacity cuts by both PAL and CEB reduce competitive intensity and support fare increases.
- Stance: NEUTRAL to MONITOR. Route cuts are a defensive but necessary response. The H2 visibility remains limited — watch Brent trajectory. The CAAP fee relief (April 1) is partial. Full recovery requires Brent below $90 on a sustained basis.

LSC 0.57

- Lorenzo Shipping Corp. — Hikes Authorized Capital Stock to ₱2B from ₱991M
- Lorenzo Shipping's board approved the increase in authorized capital stock to ₱2 billion (2 billion common shares at ₱1 par value) from ₱991.18 million. National Marine Corp. (NMC) subscribed to the new shares, with ₱252M subscribed and ₱151.5M paid up. The PSE article from March 27 confirms the SEC has approved this capital stock hike.
- Analysis: The ₱2B capital stock increase roughly doubling the authorized base provides Lorenzo Shipping with the structural headroom to issue new equity for fleet expansion, debt repayment, or strategic partnerships. The NMC subscription as the primary subscriber signals a strategic investor relationship rather than a pure equity raise. In the context of the Middle East energy shock, Philippine domestic shipping is experiencing a windfall: as aviation cuts routes and fuel costs make air travel more expensive, domestic sea freight and inter-island passenger shipping becomes relatively more attractive. Lorenzo Shipping's inter-island routes (Visayas, Mindanao coverage) position it well to capture this substitution effect. The capital increase is preparatory — the key question is how the new capital capacity gets deployed.

ATI 29.00

- ATI (Asian Terminals Inc.) — PSE Approves April 3 Delisting; Maharlika Completed Acquisition
- Asian Terminals Inc. received PSE approval to exit the main board on April 3, following the completion of its tender offer. ATI is delisting to make way for investments from Maharlika Investment Corp.
- The delisting comes after Maharlika and co-investors increased their stake to 99.26%, exceeding the 95% minimum public float threshold required for delisting. The move caps a transaction that began in December 2025 when Maharlika announced plans to acquire an 11.2% stake in ATI as part of a strategy to invest in strategic infrastructure assets.
- Analysis: ATI's delisting on April 3 is procedurally confirmed and commercially closed — this is a final administrative action. The ₱36/share tender offer price represented a 49% premium to the one-year VWAP, which was a fair exit for minority shareholders. The broader implication: Maharlika's acquisition of ATI (Manila South Harbor, Batangas port) is the Philippines' sovereign wealth fund asserting strategic ownership over critical trade infrastructure — the same playbook as Singapore's Temasek. With the Middle East conflict disrupting global shipping lanes, domestic port infrastructure has become even more strategically valuable. Maharlika taking ATI private removes the overhang of minority pressure and enables long-term infrastructure investment decisions without quarterly earnings scrutiny.

MONDE 6.49

- Monde Nissin — FY2025 Core Net Income Slips 0.8% to ₱9.72B; Reported Net Income Surges to ₱8.6B
- Monde Nissin reported full-year reported net income rising sharply to ₱8.6 billion from ₱450 million a year earlier, driven by higher revenues and improved profitability, particularly in Q4. Core net income attributable to shareholders declined 0.8% to ₱9.7 billion; however, it rose 8.1% to ₱2.5 billion in Q4, driven by higher gross profit. Full-year sales increased 4% to ₱86.5 billion from ₱83.1 billion in 2024, on stronger performance in branded food and beverage and the meat alternative business.
- Analysis: Two headlines in one result. The core net income slip (-0.8% to ₱9.72B) is the operating reality — flat earnings despite 4% revenue growth means margin compression persisted through most of 2025 (edible oil costs, wheat costs). The reported net income surge to ₱8.6B from ₱450M is the turnaround from extraordinary losses in 2024 (Quorn/meat alternative impairments in prior year). The critical positive is Q4 2025 momentum: core earnings +8.1% in Q4 signals that pricing adjustments and cost-saving initiatives are beginning to take effect. The near-term 2026 headwind: wheat at $590-600/bu and palm oil input costs remain elevated, though any Brent de-escalation could ease supply chain cost pressures. Lucky Me! remains the dominant instant noodle brand with strong pricing power.
- Stance: NEUTRAL to MONITOR. Core earnings flat is the honest read — not a great result. Q4 acceleration (+8.1%) is the positive signal to watch. Upgrade to ACCUMULATE if wheat and edible oil costs normalize in H2 2026. The reported net income surge is a one-time recovery, not operational improvement.

PLUS 17.02

- PLUS (DigiPlus) — Partners with Manny Pacquiao; 9 Co-branded Games + MannyPay Integration
- DigiPlus announced an expanded partnership with Manny Pacquiao, featuring co-branded gaming content, brand ambassadorship roles, and payments integration via MannyPay. The collaboration includes the rollout of nine Pacquiao-themed titles during the year, designed around gameplay mechanics familiar to the Philippine market. The collaboration is anchored by a new payments integration with MannyPay, Pacquiao's payment platform. DigiPlus is the first official gaming partner of MannyPay, which is powered by Traxion Pay Inc. and operates under a BSP license. Titles include Super Ace Pacquiao, Boxing King Pacquiao, Pacman's Color Game, Wild Bounty Pacquiao, and Fortune Gems Pacquiao. Pacquiao serves as official brand ambassador for ArenaPlus and GameZone.
- Analysis: This is a two-layer play — content differentiation AND payment channel diversification in a single partnership. On content: nine Pacquiao-themed titles across BingoPlus, ArenaPlus, and GameZone gives DigiPlus a uniquely local, culturally resonant content identity during its recovery phase. Pacquiao is genuinely the single most recognizable brand identity in the Philippines — this is not a generic celebrity tie-up. On payments: MannyPay integration makes DigiPlus the first gaming partner of a BSP-licensed e-wallet that is NOT GCash or Maya. This directly addresses the e-wallet delinking problem — DigiPlus adds a third BSP-compliant payment channel that is independent of the two platforms that were delinked in August. This is structurally important: payment channel diversification reduces the single-point-of-failure risk that caused the Q4 2025 earnings crash.

NEWS, ANALYSIS , INVESTING INSIGHT

GMA7 5.89
GMAP 5.75

- GMA Network — Files Petition vs. SEC Memorandum Circular 7 on Independent Director Term Limits
- GMA Network filed a petition for certiorari before the Makati RTC, challenging the constitutionality of SEC Memorandum Circular 7, Series of 2026, which imposed a maximum cumulative nine-year term limit for independent directors (counting from 2012). GMA alleged the circular was issued "with grave abuse of discretion" and violated Sections 1 and 22 of Article III of the 1987 Constitution. GMA also requested a TRO or preliminary injunction to prevent the SEC from enforcing the circular, saying it would be "forced into a position of scrambling to replace its two incumbent independent directors without the opportunity of conducting an exhaustive vetting process."
- Analysis: GMA is the first publicly listed company to directly challenge the SEC's new independent director term limit rule in court — but it is very unlikely to be the last. The 9-year cumulative limit (retroactive to 2012) effectively forces out many long-serving independent directors of Philippine blue-chip companies at the upcoming 2026 annual stockholders' meetings. GMA's legal argument (constitutional due process and equal protection) is a legitimate challenge — retroactive application of term limits without adequate transition provisions is a governance mechanism that can be challenged on procedural grounds. The broader market implication: if GMA succeeds in getting a TRO, other listed companies facing the same director replacement deadline will likely file similar petitions. This is a governance-sector story that could affect board composition across the PSEi. No direct earnings impact for GMA itself.
- Stance: Governance/regulatory watch. No direct investment catalyst for GMA equity from this filing. The outcome matters for corporate governance across the PSE broadly — watch for TRO decision at the Makati RTC.
