THE CALL Healthy pause — the rally digests, the rate story deepens

After the +6.13% melt-up, the PSEi took a breather: down just 27.13 pts (-0.43%) to 6,245.75 — but the close masks two powerful undercurrents. First, foreigns bought a net ₱939.97M ($15.58M), the FOURTH straight inflow day, and YTD net selling has narrowed to $194.95M from over $227M a week ago. Second, the PHL 10-year yield extended its plunge to 6.928% — through 7% — as the peso firmed to a two-month high of 60.315 and Moody's assigned a Baa2 rating to new PHL global bonds. The pullback was orderly and rotational: profit-taking hit the banks (Financials -1.58%) and the rally leaders (ICT, SM, ALI all saw heavy foreign selling into strength), while Mining (+2.66%) and defensives (MONDE, SGP, MER, SMPH) drew fresh inflows. The big wildcard now is the BSP: the market is split between a measured small hike and a "jumbo" move to anchor inflation expectations. Our posture: stay constructive but selective — accumulate the rate-winners (REITs, property, quality banks) on this dip, lean into the foreign-favored defensives, and use the AREIT block clear-out (75M shares at ₱35.60) as an entry rather than a warning.

Global markets are digesting the peace-trade gains with more discrimination. The Dow pushed into record territory above 52,000 for the first time, but the S&P 500 and Nasdaq slipped as the SpaceX-led euphoria failed to broaden into the rest of tech. The key macro signal: oil's selloff is now being read as a demand story — lower prices expected to stay — rather than purely a geopolitical-premium unwind, and US 10-year yields eased ~5 bps toward 4.42–4.43% with the curve flattening as growth-versus-inflation debates resume. Japan's Nikkei held near record highs after central-bank announcements. For the Philippines, the combination of sub-$82 oil, a firmer peso and a collapsing local yield remains the most supportive macro mix in months — the question is simply how much of it is already priced after a 6% surge.

Commodities

Commodity	June 16	June 17	% Chg

Sugar (¢/lb)	14.23	14.19	-0.28%

Crude stabilized in the low-$80s (WTI $81.45, Brent $83.70) after the post-deal collapse — the market now treating softer prices as a demand signal likely to persist. Gold eased slightly to $4,338 and silver to $69.96, while copper jumped 2.43% to $653.35 and nickel firmed — the metals strength underpinning the local Mining sector's +2.66% gain (APX, PX, NIKL). Sustained sub-$82 oil keeps the disinflation/rate-cut narrative alive and supports airline (CEB, PAL) and logistics cost structures, while copper's strength is constructive for the copper-gold development stories (NIKL, the DHI/Tampakan angle).

Fixed Income & Currencies

FX & Rates	June 16	June 17	% Chg
PHL 10yr Bond Yield (%)	7.115	6.928	-2.63%
US 10yr Bond Yield (%)	4.472	4.430	-0.94%
USD-PHP	60.794	60.315	-0.79%
USD-JPY	160.25	160.39	+0.09%
EUR-USD	1.1590	1.1615	+0.22%

The rates rally is the dominant theme: the PHL 10-year yield broke below 7% to 6.928% — down ~60 bps in a week — while the peso rose to a two-month high of 60.315 on the Iran deal. Demand for duration was confirmed at auction: the BTr sold ₱30B of 7-year bonds at an average 6.779%, and T-bond yields dropped broadly as the deal boosted demand. Moody's assigned a Baa2 senior unsecured rating (stable) to the government's new global bond offerings, reinforcing the sovereign credit story. The US 10-year eased to 4.430%. The lower-yield backdrop is the single strongest tailwind for REITs, property and rate-sensitive equities — even as the BSP rate decision injects two-way risk.

Philippines — Market Strategy

A textbook consolidation. The PSEi slipped 27.13 pts (-0.43%) to 6,245.75 after an intraday high of 6,396.23, with mildly negative breadth (84 advances vs 92 declines). The decline was concentrated and rotational: profit-taking hit the rally's leaders, with the heaviest foreign selling in ALI (-₱312.3M), SM (-₱251.6M) and ICT (-₱246.3M) — names that had led the surge — while fresh foreign money rotated into defensives and laggards: SMPH (+₱52.4M), SGP (+₱51.3M), BPI (+₱51.3M), CNVRG (+₱23.4M), MER (+₱22.6M) and MONDE (+₱17.4M). Crucially, the aggregate stayed positive: net foreign buying of ₱939.97M marked a fourth consecutive inflow session, and YTD net selling narrowed further to $194.95M. Block-sale value exploded to ₱4.07B, dominated by the AREIT placement (75M shares across three crosses at ₱35.60, ~₱2.67B) plus ALI crosses (₱410.4M + ₱262.0M) and URC (₱184.1M + ₱21.5M).

Strategy: buy the dip in the rate-winners, respect the BSP risk. The yield break below 7% is a structural positive for REITs (AREIT now post-block, RCR, MREIT), property (SMPH drawing inflows, RLC) and quality banks (BPI, MBT on the foreign bid). The persistent foreign accumulation in defensives (MONDE, SGP, MER) is the tell for where institutions are positioning. Treat the heavy foreign selling in ALI/SM/ICT as profit-taking within an uptrend rather than a reversal — ALI at RSI ~33 with a long-run PT of ₱30 is a buy-on-dips, though index-exclusion chatter is a near-term overhang. The wildcard is the BSP: a "jumbo" hike would favor banks/financials and pressure property/industrials, while a measured move sustains the rate-winner trade. Active buybacks (MRSGI, OPM, JFC) continue underneath.

ALI / AREIT ₱13.00 / 36.40 -3.85% / -5.45%

AREIT $44M Block Crosses at ₱35.60 — 75M Shares Placed; ALI Pares Stake

Ayala Land's placement executed: ~75 million AREIT shares crossed in block sales at ₱35.60 (₱1.61B + ₱791.3M + ₱267.0M tranches), the ALI stake-paring deal to raise up to ~$44M and lift AREIT's free float. The mechanics weighed on both names — AREIT fell 5.45% to ₱36.40 as the below-market block reset the price, while ALI dropped 3.85% to ₱13.00 (RSI ~33) on the heaviest foreign selling of the session (-₱312.3M) amid index-exclusion chatter and a cyclical property slump. AREIT also unveiled a refreshed reinvestment plan adding Arca South Mall & Office, raising Enara (₱289.6M→₱358.5M) while trimming Laurean, Gardencourt, Vertis North BPO 4&5 and Mandarin Oriental allocations.

The block is now largely absorbed — removing the overhang we flagged — and AREIT's reinvestment reshuffle tilts toward higher-yielding retail/office assets (Arca South). With the 10-year yield through 7%, the REIT's valuation math has improved markedly even as the placement reset the entry. ALI's pain is foreign-flow and sentiment-driven, not a change in long-run asset value (PT ₱30).

View — AREIT: the overhang is clearing into a lower-yield regime — accumulate post-block toward the ₱35.60 anchor. ALI: deep value at RSI ~33; buy on dips for patient capital, mindful of index-rebalancing headline risk.

ACCUMULATE — ON WEAKNESS AREIT block absorbed into a sub-7% yield world; ALI deep-value dip-buy. Accumulate both on weakness.

ICT ₱960.00 +1.05%

ICTSI's Iloilo (VCT) Adds Maersk PH6 Service to China Trade Hubs

ICTSI's Visayas Container Terminal in Iloilo added Maersk's weekly PH6 service, giving Panay and Western Visayas exporters/importers direct access to Yantian (Shenzhen) and Hong Kong, linking onward to Asia-Pacific, US, Europe and Middle East markets. The route (inaugurated by the Maersk Bahamas) deepens VCT's role as a regional gateway under ICTSI's 25-year Iloilo concession. ICT rose 1.05% to ₱960 — though foreigns took ₱246.3M of profits into the strength after the name led the relief rally.

Incrementally positive but small relative to ICT's global scale; the strategic point is the dollar-earning, geographically diversified, recession-resilient franchise that the market increasingly prizes as a hedge against domestic macro risk. The foreign profit-taking is rotation after a strong run, not a thesis change.

View — ICT remains the highest-quality, most liquid PSEi name with global dollar earnings — a core hold. The Iloilo expansion compounds the network story. Accumulate on pullbacks; the foreign selling is digestion, not exit.

ACCUMULATE — ON WEAKNESS Dollar-earning global franchise, network compounding; foreign selling is rotation. Accumulate on dips.

First Gen Independent Directors Reaffirm Support for ₱61.9B Prime Infra Hydro Deal

First Gen's three independent directors (Morales, Chua, Ayala) issued a joint statement reaffirming support for the company's 33% stake in the Wawa (600-MW) and Pakil (1,400-MW) pumped-storage hydro projects of Razon-led Prime Infra, saying they exercised objective, independent judgment and that the projects benefit First Gen and shareholders. They project ~₱16B in annual earnings from the stake. The reaffirmation answers the Lopez family majority's allegation of a "scandalous" ₱50B transaction premium; First Gen earlier clarified the FGEN Aqua Power acquisition cost was ₱61.875B (₱12.5B existing + ₱49.375B new shares). FGEN closed ₱15.96 (+? on the day) but with ₱2.07M of foreign selling.

The independent-director endorsement is a partial governance positive — it provides a fiduciary defense and quantifies the earnings case (₱16B/yr, 2,000-MW capacity) — but it does NOT resolve the underlying intra-Lopez control dispute, which remains live and now spans First Gen, ABS-CBN and Lopez Holdings. The stock trades on headlines, not the hydro fundamentals.

View — A step toward clarity but not closure. The hydro pipeline has genuine value, yet the family/governance conflict caps conviction. We keep FGEN on governance watch — the directors' defense is reassuring but the dispute's resolution is the real catalyst.

GOVERN — GOVERNANCE WATCH Independent directors defend the deal, but intra-Lopez dispute unresolved. Governance watch.

GLO ₱1,722.00 +?

GCash Parent Mynt Eyeing $1–1.5B IPO Filing as Soon as June — Globe's Hidden Value Crystallizes

Globe Fintech Innovations (Mynt), parent of GCash, is reportedly planning to file as soon as June 2026 for an IPO to raise $1–1.5 billion at a targeted valuation of at least $8B — what would be the largest stock offering in Philippine history (rivaling Monde Nissin's 2021 record). Mynt — a JV of Globe, Ayala and Ant Group, with MUFG holding ~8% (which set a $5B mark in 2024) — has secured an SEC-approved stock split (a classic pre-IPO step). First Metro estimates GCash accounts for ~32% of GLO's valuation. GLO rose to ₱1,722 with ₱10.0M of foreign net buying; separately, GLO's Asticom and Workday are pushing AI-powered enterprise platforms locally.

This is the catalyst that crystallizes GLO's most valuable hidden asset. A successful Mynt listing at ~$8B would surface a large embedded stake, provide a public valuation marker, and potentially unlock a re-rating of GLO itself (and AC, a Mynt shareholder). The IPO also re-opens the local primary market alongside the pending GCash/Maya pipeline.

View — The Mynt IPO is a high-conviction value-unlock catalyst for GLO (and a positive read-through to AC). Combined with telco defensiveness and the AI-enterprise push, we are constructive. Accumulate GLO ahead of the filing; watch for pricing/timing confirmation.

ACCUMULATE Mynt/GCash $1–1.5B IPO surfaces ~32% of GLO value; re-rating catalyst. Accumulate.

Lufthansa Technik Expands Clark Footprint — MRO Tailwind for the Aviation/Clark Cluster

Lufthansa Technik expanded its Clark footprint via a new lease deal, deepening the Philippines' maintenance-repair-overhaul (MRO) cluster and the broader Clark aviation ecosystem. The news lands alongside the sector read that airlines should benefit from Q2 travel demand and — critically — the post-Iran oil collapse that reverses the fuel-cost headwind. CEB rose toward ₱31.70 with ₱4.9M of foreign net buying, even as management has flagged a softer Q3 (May passengers -1.3% YoY) under the OLD high-oil regime.

Two reinforcing tailwinds for the aviation complex: lower crude (the dominant cost lever, now sub-$82) and a deepening MRO/aviation infrastructure base at Clark (positive for MacroAsia/MAC and the Gokongwei aviation chain). The forward setup improves precisely as backward-looking Q3 caution gets priced.

View — The fuel-cost reversal plus Clark MRO expansion strengthen the structural aviation case. Look through the high-oil-era Q3 caution; accumulate CEB on the oil tailwind, with MAC as a secondary MRO/aviation-services beneficiary.

ACCUMULATE — SECTOR Oil collapse + Clark MRO expansion re-rate aviation; look past high-oil Q3 caution. Accumulate.

JGS ₱26.05 PT 31.70

JG Summit Trades at a Deep SOTP Discount — ~22%+ Upside to Sum-of-the-Parts

JG Summit is flagged as a dip-buy on a significant market-cap discount to its sum-of-the-parts (SOTP) value — analysts value the conglomerate well below the combined worth of its individual businesses (URC, banking, petrochemicals, real estate, air transport, Meralco stake), implying potential upside of over 22% to a ₱31.70 price target. JGS closed ₱26.05 with ₱0.37M of foreign net buying on the consolidation day.

Holding-company discounts are persistent in PH large-caps (the same dynamic pressuring AC), but JGS's discount looks wide versus the quality of its underlying assets — particularly a recovering URC and stable utility/banking stakes. A lower-rate environment and any value-surfacing event (asset sale, buyback, clearer capital allocation) are the catalysts to close the gap.

View — A value play on conglomerate-discount mean-reversion. The ~22% SOTP upside is attractive for patient capital, but the discount needs a catalyst to close. Accumulate on weakness toward the low-₱26s; PT ₱31.70.

ACCUMULATE Wide SOTP discount vs quality assets; ~22% upside, needs a catalyst. Accumulate on weakness.

AC ₱399.60 Buy 375–400

Ayala Corp Under Index-Rebalancing & Foreign-Outflow Pressure — Value Emerges in the ₱375–400 Zone

Ayala Corp slipped to ₱399.60 (intraday high ₱419.80) as global funds continued to exit large-cap PH equities on forced index rebalancing, persistent macro headwinds and caution on domestic consumer spending — capital rotating toward safer or more dynamic global markets. Despite the day's drift, AC still drew ₱6.2M of net foreign buying and a ₱54.1M block crossed at ₱409.10. The pressure mirrors the broader holdco-discount and foreign-flight theme also weighing on ALI and SM.

The selling is flow- and index-mechanics-driven rather than a deterioration in AC's underlying franchises (banking via BPI, power via ACEN, real estate via ALI, plus the Mynt/GCash stake set to be surfaced by IPO). A reaffirmed A- credit and embedded GCash value argue the intrinsic worth sits above the tape. The ₱375–400 band is an accumulation zone for the quality holdco.

View — Quality at a discount. AC's index-driven weakness is an opportunity for long-term holders, with the Mynt IPO a potential value-surfacing catalyst. Accumulate in the ₱375–400 zone; size for continued rebalancing volatility.

ACCUMULATE — ON WEAKNESS Index/flow-driven weakness vs intact franchises + GCash optionality. Accumulate ₱375–400.

SEC Clears Global One Rental-Pool Program Covering 6,340 Condo-Hotel Units

The SEC cleared Alliance Global's Global One rental-pool program covering 6,340 condo-hotel units, a structure that lets unit owners pool their properties into a managed rental arrangement — monetizing AGI's (Megaworld-linked) hospitality/residential inventory and generating recurring management economics. AGI rose to ₱8.26 with ₱0.92M of foreign net buying; the company's buyback was also active during the week.

The rental-pool clearance is a modest but recurring-revenue-positive development that improves the cash-conversion of AGI/Megaworld's large condo-hotel pipeline and supports occupancy/yields. It dovetails with the broader tourism-and-leisure recovery and AGI's ongoing buyback support.

View — A small structural positive that improves recurring economics on existing inventory. Constructive on AGI within the property/leisure recovery and buyback-supported complex; accumulate selectively.

MONITOR — POSITIVE BIAS Rental-pool program adds recurring economics on 6,340 units; buyback supportive. Accumulate selectively.

42 PHL Firms Make Fortune Southeast Asia 500; Moody's Baa2 on New Global Bonds

Forty-two Philippine companies made the Fortune Southeast Asia 500, underscoring the scale of the country's corporate champions across banking, conglomerates, power, retail and telecoms. Separately, Moody's assigned a Baa2 senior unsecured rating (aligned with the sovereign, stable outlook) to the government's new global bond offerings, and the BTr sold ₱30B of 7-year bonds at 6.779% into strong post-Iran-deal demand. The backdrop: a debate over whether the BSP delivers a measured small hike or a "jumbo" move to anchor inflation.

The Fortune 500 representation and the Baa2 sovereign reaffirmation are constructive for the PH equity narrative and cost of capital — they support the foreign re-engagement already visible in four straight days of net buying. The BSP decision is the swing factor: banks/financials benefit from higher rates, while property/industrials/discretionary services prefer a measured path.

View — The sovereign and corporate credit signals reinforce the constructive macro turn. Position around the BSP outcome: quality banks (BPI, MBT) for a hawkish surprise; REITs/property for a measured move. Stay net constructive on the lower-yield, firmer-peso regime.

MACRO MONITOR — CONSTRUCTIVE Baa2 reaffirmation + corporate scale support the re-rating; BSP path is the swing factor. Constructive.
