THE CALL Hawkish Fed jolt — risk-off, but the domestic story holds; BSP today

The global mood flipped hawkish overnight and the PSEi gave back a chunk of the rally, falling 130.94 pts (-2.09%) to 6,114.81. The trigger was external: new Fed Chair Kevin Warsh HELD rates at 3.75% at his inaugural meeting but signaled potential HIKES later this year on sticky inflation, sending US stocks lower, crude below $80 (WTI $75.89) and gold down on a firmer dollar. Foreigns turned net SELLERS of ₱127.54M — snapping a four-day buying streak — concentrated in ICT (-₱378.9M), SMPH (-₱75.5M) and SM (-₱67.0M). But look closer and the domestic story is intact: BANKS were the lone green sector (+1.36%) on heavy foreign buying (BDO +₱252.4M, MBT +₱61.5M), GLO surged 5.05% on the formal Mynt/GCash IPO authorization, and AC bought ₱457.6M of ALI on weakness. The local catalyst is now front and center — the BSP is expected to deliver a quarter-point hike today (June 18), with some still flagging a "jumbo" risk. Stay constructive but selective: own the banks into a hawkish global regime, accumulate quality on this dip (AC/ALI, GLO on the IPO unlock), and keep AREIT on the standing accumulate as the yield round-trips.

PSE figures per the June 17, 2026 DQR (authoritative). The "June 18" global column reflects the latest available reads; some source prints (Hang Seng, STI) appear mis-keyed in the brief and are shown as supplied — verify against Bloomberg before distribution.

The risk-off was made in Washington. New Federal Reserve Chair Kevin Warsh held the policy rate at 3.75% at his first meeting but struck a hawkish tone — citing persistent inflation and resilient data, with a growing number of policymakers now projecting rate hikes later this year. US equities fell (Dow, S&P 500 and Nasdaq all lower), crude slid below $80, and gold dropped on a stronger dollar. The signal flattens the case for near-term Fed easing and pressures emerging-market risk assets and currencies broadly. For the Philippines, the read-through is two-sided: a higher-for-longer US rate path caps how far local yields can fall and weighs on the peso, but it also sharpens the relative appeal of PH banks — and lands on the very day the BSP is expected to hike.

Commodities

Commodity	June 16	June 17	% Chg
WTI Crude ($/bbl)	80.75	75.89	-6.02%
Brent Crude ($/bbl)	83.17	78.63	-5.46%
Gold COMEX ($/oz)	4,351.60	4,329.20	-0.51%
Silver COMEX ($/oz)	70.19	69.90	-0.41%
Copper COMEX (¢/lb)	637.85	646.95	+1.43%
Nickel ($/MT)	17,718.95	17,771.45	+0.30%
Coal ($/MT)	145.78	143.80	-1.36%
Corn (¢/bu)	441.75	447.25	+1.25%
Wheat (¢/bu)	600.50	621.25	+3.46%
Cocoa ($/MT)	3,868.00	4,237.00	+9.54%
Sugar (¢/lb)	14.23	14.37	+0.98%

Oil's selloff deepened — WTI -6.0% to $75.89 and Brent -5.5% to $78.63 — as the market reads softer prices as a demand signal expected to persist, reinforced by the firmer dollar. Gold slipped to $4,329 and silver to $69.90 on the hawkish-Fed dollar bid, while copper firmed 1.43% to $646.95 and agriculture jumped (cocoa +9.5%, wheat +3.5%). For the Philippines, the further oil drop is the silver lining of the hawkish jolt — deeply disinflationary, supportive of airlines/logistics and the BSP's medium-term room — even as the rate-path repricing dominates near-term sentiment.

Fixed Income & Currencies

FX & Rates	June 17	June 18	% Chg
PHL 10yr Bond Yield (%)	6.928	6.979	+0.74%
US 10yr Bond Yield (%)	4.430	4.461	+0.70%
USD-PHP	60.315	60.392	+0.13%
USD-JPY	160.39	160.67	+0.17%
USD-CNY	6.6561	6.7610	+1.58%
EUR-USD	1.1615	1.1510	-0.90%

Yields backed up modestly on the hawkish Fed: the PHL 10-year ticked up to 6.979% (from 6.928%) and the US 10-year to 4.461%, partially unwinding the post-peace-deal rally. The peso softened slightly to 60.392 but held the ₱60 handle; note USD-CNY jumped to 6.7610, a yuan-weakness signal worth watching for regional FX spillover. Importantly, the Philippines pressed its funding advantage WHILE rates were low — raising $2.5B from its second international bond sale of the year (Moody's Baa2) and selling ₱30B of 7-year paper at 6.779% the prior session. The BSP is widely expected to hike 25 bps today; the curve has already priced much of it, and a measured move would keep the rate-winner trade alive once the global jolt passes.

Philippines — Market Strategy

A broad, externally-driven pullback. The PSEi fell 130.94 pts (-2.09%) to 6,114.81 — closing at the session low (range 6,114.81–6,232.24) — with negative breadth (72 advances vs 90 declines) as the hawkish-Fed shock hit the rally's leaders. Services (-4.58%) and Holdings (-2.66%) led the decline, dragged by ICT (-6.25%) and the conglomerates, while Mining (-1.61%) gave back gains on the oil drop. Crucially, FINANCIALS bucked the tape (+1.36%) on a strong foreign bid into the banks ahead of the BSP decision: BDO +₱252.4M, MBT +₱61.5M, BPI +₱26.1M. Foreigns were net sellers of just ₱127.54M overall, a mild outflow that snapped the four-day streak but stayed far smaller than the rally's inflows; MTD net selling is $377.48M and YTD $197.06M. Block-sale value normalized to ₱855.8M (SMPH ₱252.3M, URC ₱162.3M + ₱66.1M, GTCAP ₱113.7M). Strategy: own the banks, buy quality on the dip, respect the global regime shift. The clearest signal of the day was the rotation INTO banks (BDO, MBT, BPI) on heavy foreign buying — the right posture for a higher-for-longer global rate path and a BSP that is hiking. Use the pullback to accumulate quality at better levels: GLO on the Mynt/GCash IPO value-unlock (the catalyst is now formal), AC and ALI where the parent is buying its own subsidiary on weakness (stake up to 53.58%), and the foreign-favored defensives (MONDE, EMI). Treat the heavy foreign selling in ICT/SMPH/SM as profit-taking on the leaders within a still-constructive trend rather than a top. AREIT stays a standing accumulate — the yield back-up to 6.979% is a minor round-trip, not a reversal of the structural rate-down story. The swing factor is today's BSP move: a measured 25 bps sustains the setup; a jumbo surprise would extend the bank trade and pressure rate-sensitive property/REITs near-term.

Corporate News & Investing Insight

GLO ₱1,809.00 +5.05%

Mynt (GCash Parent) Authorizes IPO Filing — 12% of Post-IPO Capital; GLO Surges to Near 52-Week High

It's official: Mynt's board and shareholders authorized filing a registration statement with the SEC and a listing application with the PSE for a potential IPO — the first formal step toward the long-anticipated GCash listing. The offer will equal 12.0% of Mynt's post-IPO capital stock (par ₱0.03), consisting of both primary and secondary shares. Mynt — a JV of Globe, the Ayala group and Ant Financial — has been targeting a valuation of at least $8B (a raise widely pegged at $1–1.5B, which would be the largest IPO in Philippine history). GCash equity earnings contributed ~30% of Globe's pre-tax income in Q1. GLO jumped 5.05% (+₱87) to ₱1,809 on ₱491.6M turnover with ₱42.9M of foreign net buying, near its 52-week high of ₱1,860.

This is the catalyst we flagged, now formalized. A successful Mynt listing surfaces GLO's most valuable hidden asset (First Metro estimates GCash at ~32% of GLO's value), provides a public valuation marker, and should drive a re-rating of GLO — with a positive read-through to AC (a Mynt shareholder). It also re-opens a moribund local IPO market and broadens the bourse's tech/fintech exposure.

View — High-conviction value-unlock now in motion. GLO is our preferred way to own the GCash listing; the 5% pop has further to run as the deal progresses. Accumulate GLO; positive read-through to AC. Watch for pricing, timing and the primary/secondary split.

ACCUMULATE Mynt IPO formally authorized (12% of capital, ~$8B target); surfaces ~32% of GLO value. Accumulate.

AC / ALI ₱399.80 / 13.64 +0.05% / +4.92%

Ayala Corp Buys ₱457.6M of ALI on Weakness — Raises Stake to 53.58%, Signaling Deep Value

Ayala Corp acquired 35 million ALI shares for about ₱457.6M (at ₱13.04 and ₱13.10), lifting its stake to 53.58% from 53.15% at end-March — a parent-buying-subsidiary signal that analysts read as confidence that ALI's price sits at bargain levels and does not reflect its asset and earnings potential. ALI rallied 4.92% to ₱13.64 (though foreigns still net-sold ₱155.4M), while AC was flat at ₱399.80 with ₱31.0M of foreign net buying. The move directly answers the foreign-flight/index-rebalancing pressure that had driven ALI to deep-value, sub-book levels.

Insider/parent accumulation at the lows is one of the most reliable value signals — management is voting with the balance sheet that ALI is mispriced. Combined with the lower-yield property tailwind and ALI's prime landbank, this reinforces the deep-value dip-buy thesis (PT ₱30) and supports AC itself (whose NAV embeds ALI plus the soon-to-be-surfaced GCash stake).

View — The parent's purchase is a strong confidence signal. Accumulate ALI on the deep-value thesis (now with parent support) and AC as the discounted holdco with ALI + GCash optionality. Buy-on-dips both.

ACCUMULATE Parent buys ALI at bargain levels, stake to 53.58%; confidence signal + property tailwind. Accumulate.

ICTSI Leads the Risk-Off Unwind — ₱378.9M Foreign Sell as the Rally Leader Corrects

ICT fell 6.25% to ₱900 on the heaviest foreign net selling of the session (-₱378.9M) and the largest turnover (₱2.51B), as the stock that had led the relief rally bore the brunt of the hawkish-Fed risk-off. The decline was flow-driven profit-taking rather than news; ICTSI's fundamentals (global, dollar-earning, geographically diversified port franchise) are unchanged, and the prior session's Iloilo-Maersk expansion underscores the network growth story.

Sharp corrections in the leaders are normal after a vertical move, and ICT's ~6% drop on heavy foreign selling looks like position-trimming into a global risk-off rather than a thesis break. The dollar-earnings profile is actually a relative HEDGE in a strong-USD, hawkish-Fed world — making the pullback an opportunity in the highest-quality liquid name.

View — The correction is flow, not fundamentals — and the dollar-earnings franchise is a hedge for exactly this regime. Accumulate ICT on the pullback toward ₱880–900; it remains a core large-cap holding.

ACCUMULATE — ON WEAKNESS Flow-driven correction in a dollar-earning global franchise — a hedge for a strong-USD regime. Accumulate.

PLDT Home Ties Up with Meralco / MSpectrum on Bundled Broadband + Solar

PLDT, through PLDT Home, partnered with Meralco and its solar arm MSpectrum to offer bundled broadband-and-solar packages to households — subscribers get access to MSpectrum solar (design, permitting, installation, maintenance, financing) alongside connectivity. The MVP-group collaboration aims to "own the whole home," combining connectivity with renewable energy as electricity costs rise. TEL was essentially flat at ₱1,108 (-0.09%) with ₱12.3M of foreign net buying. Separately, ePLDT is pushing an AI-powered contact-center platform for enterprises.

A sensible, recurring-revenue-adjacent bundling play that deepens household stickiness and ARPU optionality, leveraging intra-group synergies (PLDT + Meralco + MGEN solar). It is incremental rather than transformational, but it fits the broader telco pivot beyond pure connectivity into energy and AI-enterprise services.

View — A modest strategic positive that supports the connected-home/ARPU narrative; not a near-term needle-mover. Monitor TEL for the data-center/AI and bundling optionality; the foreign buy on a down day is mildly encouraging.

MONITOR Broadband+solar bundling deepens household stickiness; incremental, intra-group synergy. Monitor.

Banks ₱SECTOR +1.36%

Financials Buck the Sell-Off Ahead of the BSP — Foreigns Pile Into BDO (+₱252.4M), MBT (+₱61.5M)

Financials were the lone green PSEi sector (+1.36%, +26.11 pts) on a broadly red day, powered by a strong foreign bid into the banks ahead of the BSP rate decision: BDO drew ₱252.4M of net foreign buying (the day's largest single-name inflow), MBT ₱61.5M (+1.50%) and BPI ₱26.1M. The Philippines is also pushing a Qualified Domestic Minimum Top-Up Tax (QDMTT) to align with the 15% global minimum tax, and raised $2.5B in a second global bond sale.

The rotation into banks is the textbook response to a hawkish global rate path plus a domestic central bank that is hiking — higher rates support net interest margins. With the BSP expected to lift the policy rate today, the banks are the highest-conviction sector for the current regime, and the foreign bid confirms institutional positioning.

View — Banks are the clearest beneficiary of a higher-for-longer global path and a hiking BSP. Accumulate the quality names (BDO, MBT, BPI) — the foreign inflow into the sector on a -2% index day is the strongest signal on the board.

ACCUMULATE — SECTOR Banks the lone green sector on a hawkish-rate path + BSP hike; heavy foreign bid. Accumulate BDO/MBT/BPI.

SM Prime Sets Balea Suites Turnover for Q4 2027; ₱252.3M Block Crosses Amid Property Sell-Off

SM Prime's leisure-residential arm said it is on track to turn over Balea Suites — the second tower of its ₱3B Pico Terraces development at Hamilo Coast, Batangas — by Q4 2027, with most units already taken up on strong reception from millennial/Gen-X second-home buyers. The operational update landed on a rough tape: SMPH fell 5.34% to ₱18.42 on ₱75.5M of foreign net selling (second-heaviest) and a ₱252.3M block cross, as property bore the brunt of the rate-back-up and risk-off.

The Balea Suites progress is a small positive data point on residential demand, but SMPH's move was dominated by the macro: rising yields and foreign selling hit the rate-sensitive property/mall-REIT complex hardest. The leasing/residential fundamentals remain intact; the de-rating is a discount-rate story, not a demand story.

View — The sell-off is rate-driven, not fundamental. SM Prime's mall-and-residential franchise remains a core property holding; the pullback toward ₱18 is an accumulation opportunity for patient capital once the BSP/Fed dust settles. Accumulate on weakness.

ACCUMULATE — ON WEAKNESS Residential demand solid (Balea Suites); de-rating is rate-driven, not fundamental. Accumulate on weakness.

Lopez Energy Complex in Focus — FPH Draws ₱13.4M Foreign Buy After Hydro-Deal Endorsement

First Philippine Holdings (FPH) rose to ₱82 with ₱13.4M of foreign net buying, outperforming on the back of the prior session's reaffirmation by First Gen's independent directors of the ₱61.9B Prime Infra pumped-storage hydro deal (₱16B/yr from a 33% stake). FGEN itself was little changed at ₱15.94 with a small foreign sell. The intra-Lopez control dispute — spanning FGEN, FPH, Lopez Holdings and ABS-CBN — nonetheless remains unresolved and continues to inject headline risk across the complex.

The independent-director endorsement gave the Lopez energy names a relief bid (FPH the cleaner vehicle), but the governance overhang is not closed. The hydro pipeline has genuine long-term value (2,000-MW capacity, energy-security angle), yet the family/SEC dispute caps conviction until resolved.

View — A relief bounce on the hydro endorsement, but the governance dispute is the real swing factor. We keep the Lopez energy complex (FGEN, FPH) on governance watch — constructive on the assets, cautious on the unresolved control fight.

GOVERN — GOVERNANCE WATCH Hydro-deal endorsement lifts FPH, but intra-Lopez dispute unresolved across the complex. Governance watch.

Lufthansa Technik Bullish on Philippine MRO Growth — Clark Cluster Deepens

Lufthansa Technik signaled a bullish stance on Philippine maintenance-repair-overhaul (MRO) growth, building on its recent Clark lease expansion and reinforcing the country's positioning as a regional aviation-services hub. The read-through favors the Clark/aviation cluster, including MacroAsia (MAC) — a key local MRO and aviation-services player — which closed ₱3.91 (foreign net sell a modest ₱0.23M on the risk-off day).

A deepening MRO base is a structural, multi-year positive for the aviation-services chain, layered on the cheaper-fuel tailwind for carriers. MAC is the most direct listed beneficiary of Clark MRO expansion, though it is a smaller, less-liquid name better suited to patient positioning.

View — Structural aviation-services tailwind. MAC is the niche MRO/aviation-services beneficiary of the Clark cluster build-out; accumulate selectively for patient capital, alongside the broader CEB/PAL fuel-cost theme.

MONITOR — POSITIVE BIAS Clark MRO cluster deepens; MAC the niche beneficiary, smaller/less liquid. Accumulate selectively.

BSP Expected to Hike 25 bps Today; PHL Raises $2.5B in Global Bonds, Pushes Global Minimum Tax

The BSP is expected to raise its key rate by a quarter-point today (June 18) to anchor inflation expectations — the dominant near-term local catalyst after the hawkish Fed turn. The Philippines also raised $2.5B from its second international bond sale of the year, seizing low borrowing costs (Moody's Baa2), and is pushing a Qualified Domestic Minimum Top-Up Tax (QDMTT) to ensure large multinationals pay an effective 15% corporate rate under the global minimum-tax framework.

A measured 25-bps BSP hike is largely priced and would be net-supportive of banks while leaving the rate-winner trade intact once the global jolt fades; a jumbo surprise would extend the bank trade and pressure property/REITs near-term. The successful $2.5B raise underscores solid sovereign access; the QDMTT is a modest medium-term fiscal positive with limited direct equity impact.

View — Position around the BSP outcome: banks (BDO, MBT, BPI) for the hike and the hawkish global path; quality property/REITs (SMPH, AREIT) for accumulation if the move is measured. Stay net constructive — the domestic macro (sovereign access, disinflating oil) remains supportive beneath the global noise.

MACRO MONITOR — CONSTRUCTIVE BSP hike today is the swing factor; $2.5B raise confirms access. Banks for the regime; quality on dips.
