AT A GLANCE — ACTIONABLE HIGHLIGHTSSession snapshot PSEi 6,297.30 ▲ +9.05 (+0.14%) • Value ₱5.20B • Breadth 113 up / 92 down / 52 flat • Foreign net SELLING ₱187.0M

- PSEi steadied with a marginal +0.14% gain to 6,297.30, clawing back part of Thursday's 78-pt drop. Breadth was positive (113/92) but turnover thin at ₱5.2B. Services (+1.19%) and Property (+0.78%) led; Financials (–1.03%) and Mining & Oil (–2.12%) lagged.
- Foreigners were net SELLERS of ₱187.0M, concentrated in index heavyweights: SMPH –₱110.8M, TEL –₱91.0M, ALI –₱72.0M, GLO –₱39.1M.
- Metrobank drew the day's largest single inflow (+₱67.5M) yet Financials still fell 1.03% as BPI and BDO gave back — the Aug-12 bank-accumulation thread has cooled. Banks stay on Monitor with PHL 10Y at 7.335% (still >7%).
- FGEN topped turnover (₱512M) and drew +₱35.7M foreign as the ERC signalled it will weigh power-sector ownership limits after SMC's Ang bought into the Lopez group — a fresh regulatory overlay on the live KKR ₱35/sh take-private tender.
- ICT flipped to a +₱9.7M net BUY — a sharp reversal from its –₱223M exit two sessions ago — firming to ₱982 and lifting Services.
- Earnings/updates: PLDT 1H core income steady at ₱17.3B (Maya offsetting telco softness); GT Capital 1H –11% to ₱16.41B; SM Prime flags a cautious residential-launch stance; Semirara slips on a coal-auction delay; MPTC–SMC tollway merger talks advance.
- Macro: BSP's Remolona signalled a less-aggressive rate-hike path; the Treasury auctions ₱20B of 5.925% 2036 bonds on Aug 18; Ghost Month (Aug 13–Sep 11) keeps activity light.

THE CALL

A quiet, two-sided session that reads more like consolidation than direction. The index held its ground on a marginal gain and positive breadth, but thin ₱5.2B turnover, a ₱187M net foreign sell, and leadership rotating into Services/Property (away from the banks that led earlier in the week) argue for selectivity rather than chasing. The banks are the clearest example: Metrobank attracted the single largest inflow (+₱67.5M) yet the Financials index fell 1.03% as BPI slid to ₱104.00 and BDO gave back to ₱126.00 — evidence that the two-day bank-accumulation thread from Aug 12 has cooled. We keep Banks on Monitor while the PHL 10-year sits at 7.335%, still above our 7% caution line.

Event-driven names dominate the actionable list. First Gen stays the marquee situation: it topped turnover (₱512M) and drew +₱35.7M of foreign buying as the ERC signalled it will weigh power-sector ownership limits following San Miguel's Ang buying into the Lopez group's FGEN — a regulatory overlay on top of the still-live KKR ₱35/share take-private tender. We continue to treat FGEN as a spread-to-tender trade, now with fresh regulatory risk. On the earnings tape, PLDT's steady ₱17.3B 1H core income (Maya offsetting telco softness) and GT Capital's ₱16.41B 1H (–11%) frame a mixed blue-chip picture; heavy foreign selling in PLDT (–₱91M) and SM Prime (–₱110.8M) keeps us patient on entry even where the fundamentals hold. Away from the blue chips, ICT's flip back to net buying and gold's push toward record (≈US$4,448) support our standing Accumulate-on-dips stance on ICT and OGP.

PHILIPPINES STRATEGY

Rotation, not conviction. The index eked out a gain, but the internals point to sector rotation rather than fresh money: Services and Property led while Financials and Holding Firms slipped, and foreigners were net sellers for a second run of sessions (a net US$56.3M PH-equity sell on Aug 13 hit a two-month high; Friday's DQR net sell was a smaller ₱187M). We stay overweight quality earners and event-driven situations, and keep the rate-sensitive banks on Monitor until the 10-year sustains a move below 7%.

BSP's Remolona signalling a less-aggressive hike path is the macro item worth watching — a durable dovish shift, paired with a sub-7% 10-year, would be the trigger to upgrade banks, REITs and property from Monitor. For now we lean on names with their own catalysts: FGEN (tender + regulatory), ICT and OGP (dollar/gold cash flows), LTG and ALI (deep-value holdco/property with buyback support), and treat the heavy but partly block-driven outflows in SMPH, TEL and ALI as reasons for patience on entry rather than signals to exit quality.

CORPORATE UPDATES

FGEN First Gen Corp. ₱30.70FGEN tops turnover as the ERC weighs power-sector limits over the live KKR take-private

First Gen was again the market's most-traded name by value (₱512M) and drew the third-largest foreign inflow of the day (+₱35.7M), closing at ₱30.70. The story gained a regulatory dimension: the Energy Regulatory Commission signalled it will weigh limits on power-sector ownership after San Miguel's Ramon Ang took a stake tied to the Lopez group, raising the prospect of tighter cross-ownership scrutiny across generation. That sits on top of the still-live KKR proposal to buy in and tender for the public float at a reported ₱35.00/share to support a voluntary delisting. At ₱30.70 the stock now trades roughly 12% below the mooted ₱35 tender, having closed most of the gap since the deal surfaced. Foreign investors were net buyers even as the ERC overhang emerged.

Analysis. This remains an event-driven, spread-to-tender situation, but the risk profile has shifted: a regulatory review of power-sector ownership could complicate or delay a take-private that hinges on ownership transfers, widening completion risk even with the price now closer to the offer. We keep any exposure sized to a view on deal odds — and now on regulatory clearance — rather than on First Gen's (solid) recurring earnings.

Stance: EVENT-DRIVEN / TENDER — trade the ~12% spread to a reported ₱35 offer; the new ERC ownership review adds completion risk.

Banks BPI · BDO · MBT BPI ₱104.00 · BDO ₱126.00 · MBT ₱68.90Metrobank takes the day's biggest inflow (+₱67.5M) — but the bank-leadership thread cools

The Financials index was the session's weakest major sector (−1.03%, −20.26 pts) even though Metrobank attracted the single largest foreign inflow of the day (+₱67.5M). MBT itself eased to ₱68.90, BPI slid to ₱104.00 on a small outflow (−₱5.6M), and BDO gave back to ₱126.00 (−₱2.8M). China Bank (+₱2.0M) and Security Bank (+₱2.3M) drew modest inflows, but the broad, concerted bank accumulation seen on Aug 11–12 did not repeat. The PHL 10-year held at 7.335%, still above our 7% caution line, while the US 10-year firmed to 4.68%.

Analysis. One outsized inflow into a single lender against a falling sector index tells us Aug-12's two-day accumulation was more tactical than the start of a durable re-rating. We revert to our standing posture: Monitor the group while the 10-year sits above 7%, and wait for a sustained sub-7% print before turning constructive on the rate-sensitives.

Stance: MONITOR — MBT inflow notwithstanding, the sector lagged; hold the line until PHL 10Y sustains below 7%.

TEL PLDT Inc. ₱1,170.00PLDT holds 1H core income at ₱17.3B as Maya offsets telco softness — but foreigners sell ₱91M

PLDT reported steady first-half core income of ₱17.3 billion, with sustained profitability at digital-banking arm Maya offsetting a modest slowdown in the traditional telco business. Softer consumer spending and rising infrastructure depreciation weighed on the core network segments. Despite the resilient print, the stock slipped to ₱1,170.00 and bled the day's second-largest foreign outflow (−₱91.0M) — a heavy exit for the second-heaviest index name. It was also the second-most-active stock by value (₱487M).

Analysis. The fundamental read is constructive — Maya's contribution is now large enough to smooth cyclicity in the legacy telco, and the dividend profile remains attractive — but a ₱91M foreign exit signals near-term positioning pressure. We stay Accumulate on the earnings and yield case, building only into the flow-driven weakness rather than chasing.

Stance: ACCUMULATE ON WEAKNESS — steady ₱17.3B 1H core with a Maya offset; respect the −₱91M foreign exit near-term.

SMPH SM Prime Holdings ₱18.28SM Prime turns cautious on residential launches; foreigners cut ₱110.8M — the day's largest outflow

SM Prime signalled a more cautious stance on new residential projects, tempering launch plans amid softer demand and a still-elevated rate backdrop. The shares nonetheless firmed to ₱18.28 within a positive property sector (+0.78%), but carried the market's largest single-name foreign outflow (–₱110.8M) and were the fifth-most-active by value (₱253M). Part of that flow is block-inclusive positioning rather than pure sell pressure. The developer remains the country's dominant mall-and-residential landlord with a resilient recurring-income base.

Analysis. A guarded residential posture is prudent given the demand and rate picture, and it protects margins, but the scale of the foreign exit argues for patience on entry. We move to Monitor near-term: recurring mall income underpins value, yet the launch caution and heavy outflow cap upside until flows stabilise.

Stance: MONITOR — resilient landlord, but cautious launch guidance and a –₱110.8M foreign exit warrant patience.

ALI Ayala Land ₱15.60Ayala Land firms to ₱15.60 on ₱384M turnover; the ₱72M foreign “sale” is largely a block

Ayala Land closed higher at ₱15.60 as the fourth-most-active name by value (₱384M), even as the DQR recorded a ₱72.0M net foreign sale. A meaningful portion of that flow ran through a ₱59.3M block cross (4.0M sh at ₱14.83), so the tape overstates pure foreign distribution. The stock continues to screen as deep value against the group's asset base and its parent's continued buyback activity. We have flagged the receding MSCI Standard Index deletion risk as parent buying firms the floor.

Analysis. With a large slice of the day's “selling” explained by a negotiated block rather than an open-market exit, and with a parent-buyback floor plus receding index-deletion risk, the risk-reward stays attractive. We keep ALI as an Accumulate on deep value, using weakness driven by index-flow noise to add.

Stance: ACCUMULATE — deep value with a parent-buyback floor; the ₱72M “outflow” is largely a block, not distribution.

GTCAP GT Capital Holdings ₱514.00GT Capital's 1H net income falls 11% to ₱16.41B on a broad activity slowdown

GT Capital reported first-half net income of ₱16.41 billion, an 11% decline from ₱18.42 billion a year earlier, with basic EPS of ₱75.37. Management attributed the softer result to a broader slowdown in overall economic activity that weighed across its banking, auto and property interests. The stock still rose to ₱514.00 on a modest foreign inflow (+₱8.2M) and traded ₱106M by value. The holdco's core franchises — Metrobank and Toyota Motor Philippines — remain intact.

Analysis. An 11% earnings step-down is a clear cyclical signal, but it reflects the macro rather than franchise impairment, and the market's willingness to bid the stock higher on the print suggests expectations were already conservative. We stay Neutral pending evidence that the auto and banking legs re-accelerate into 2H.

Stance: NEUTRAL — cyclical 1H miss (–11%); core franchises intact, await a 2H re-acceleration.

SMC San Miguel Corp. ₱64.75MPTC–SMC tollway merger talks advance, with Ang set to lead the combined operator

Merger discussions to combine Metro Pacific Tollways (MPTC) with San Miguel's tollroad business are progressing, with Ramon Ang lined up to lead the enlarged operator — a deal that would create a dominant national tollway platform. The stock eased to ₱64.75 on a small foreign outflow (–₱1.7M). The move follows earlier guidance from SMC toward softer near-term core margins in oil and food-and-beverage. Parent Top Frontier was quiet after last week's large block cross.

Analysis. A tollways consolidation would be strategically significant — scale, pricing power and a cleaner infrastructure story — but it is early-stage, and the near-term earnings setup remains margin-pressured. We stay on Monitor: the merger optionality is a medium-term positive that does not yet change the softer 1H earnings profile.

Stance: MONITOR — tollway-merger optionality is a medium-term positive; near-term margins still pressured.

SCC Semirara Mining & Power ₱18.44Semirara slips intraday on a coal-auction delay even as it closes at ₱18.44

Semirara came under pressure after a delay in a coal auction unsettled near-term volume and pricing visibility, though the stock still printed an ₱18.44 close on the DQR with a small foreign outflow (–₱0.9M). The company remains the country's largest integrated coal-and-power producer, with earnings geared to domestic coal demand and power-supply economics. Coal prices were little changed (≈US$129/MT). Turnover was moderate at ₱20M.

Analysis. An auction delay is a timing issue rather than a structural one, but it adds short-term uncertainty to a name already sensitive to coal-price and regulatory swings. We stay on Monitor, treating the pullback as noise around a cash-generative franchise rather than a fundamental derating.

Stance: MONITOR — auction-delay overhang is a timing risk; the cash-generative franchise is intact.

GLO Globe Telecom ₱1,750.00Globe pushes a national underground-conduit policy to curb fibre cuts; foreigners trim ₱39M

Globe Telecom is lobbying for a national underground-conduit policy to reduce the fibre cuts that disrupt fixed and mobile services, aimed at improving network reliability and lowering long-run maintenance costs. The stock firmed to ₱1,750.00 but drew a ₱39.1M net foreign outflow, the fourth-largest of the session, and was among the more heavily traded names by value (₱109M). The policy push complements the group's broader digital-infrastructure investment.

Analysis. The conduit initiative is a sensible reliability and cost play, but it is a slow-burn regulatory effort with no near-term earnings catalyst, and the foreign exit signals investors are trimming telcos alongside PLDT. We stay Neutral on Globe pending clearer evidence that capex discipline is translating into free-cash-flow improvement.

Stance: NEUTRAL — sound long-run reliability play, but no near-term catalyst and telco outflows persist.

LTG LT Group, Inc. ₱14.88LT Group stays cheap and cash-generative — ROE 12.2%, net margin 24.6%

LT Group eased to ₱14.88 on a small foreign outflow (−₱1.6M) but continues to screen as one of the cheapest diversified holdcos on the board. The group has grown earnings at roughly 10.2% annually and revenues about 9.3%, with a return on equity of 12.2% and net margins near 24.6% across its banking (PNB), tobacco, beverage and property interests. That follows its record ₱17.03B first half reported earlier in the week. PNB, its banking leg, benefits from the same sector dynamics lifting Financials.

Analysis. High margins, double-digit ROE and a well-capitalised bank leg, all available at a low earnings multiple, keep LTG attractive on both value and dividend-support grounds. We stay Accumulate, viewing the day's minor drift as an entry rather than a signal.

Stance: ACCUMULATE — cheap, high-margin, cash-generative holdco with a strong banking arm (PNB).

SMARTWATCH SUMMARY

- ▶ BSP policy signal: Governor Remolona indicated a preference for a less-aggressive rate-hike path — a dovish lean that would help rate-sensitives (banks, REITs, property) if the PHL 10-year can sustain a move below 7% (currently 7.335%).
- ▶ ICT flow reversal: International Container flipped to a +₱9.7M net foreign BUY and firmed to ₱982.00 — a sharp turnaround from the −₱223M single-day exit of Aug 12; the franchise (global, dollar-linked port network) is unchanged. Accumulate on dips.
- ▶ Ayala Corp technicals: AC closed ₱511.00 on +₱15.6M foreign buying; immediate resistance sits at ₱505–507.50 where recent pushes stalled, with support around the ₱502 prior close. Accumulate on the BYD/ACMobility and ALI-buyback catalysts.
- ▶ PSE rule change: The Exchange has implemented tightened Minimum Public Ownership (MPO) rules — a structural positive for free-float quality and index integrity over time.
- ▶ Bond supply: The Treasury will sell ₱20B of 5.925% 2036 bonds on Aug 18 — a fresh gauge of long-end demand with the 10-year at 7.335%.
- ▶ Prime Infra / power buildout: Prime Infra says its Wawa pumped-storage project remains on track for 2030, supportive of the power-and-data-center theme (standard data centers run ≈US$8–12M/MW, AI-optimized ≈US$15–20M+/MW; revenue typically 24–36 months post-groundbreaking at 7–16% IRR).
- ▶ Share buybacks (Aug 14): MWC, SMPH, OPM and URC reported buyback activity — a steady floor under selected large-caps.
- ▶ Global funds: Sold a net US$56.3M of Philippine equities on Aug 13 (a two-month high); Friday's DQR net foreign sell was a smaller ₱187.0M (≈US$3.1M).
- ▶ Standing items: RRHI remains suspended at the ₱48.30 tender level (Gokongwei/JE Holdings voluntary delisting); the Chinese Ghost Month (Aug 13–Sep 11) continues to damp launches and participation.
- ▶ International color: A 7.7-magnitude undersea quake struck off Indonesia's Flores region (Saturday); Nintendo rose up to 7.5% in Tokyo as Switch-2 title Pokémon Pokopia crossed 5M units.
