PSEi 5,629 (–0.01%) Tests the Nov-2025 Floor and Holds; Foreigners Sell ₱1.25B; GCash Offer Opens Tomorrow

The PSEi dipped to 5,589.59 intraday, just 5 points above the Nov-2025 low of 5,584.35, then recovered to close almost flat at 5,629.03. That left a 3.4% loss for the week. Breadth improved inside the index, with 17 of 30 members higher, but foreigners sold a net ₱1.255B for a fourth straight day (₱4.64B in four sessions), again led by SM, AC and ICT. Block crosses totalled ₱2.63B, led by ₱1.27B in GTCAP. The peso rebounded 24 centavos to ₱62.535 after a weak US jobs report cut Fed-hike bets. Mynt's ₱6.60 GCash offer runs Oct 6–12.

THE CALL — ACTIONABLE HIGHLIGHTS

● IPO WATCH MYNT (GCash) ₱6.60 final — Offer Oct 6–12: we would subscribe

The PSE circular confirms the ₱6.60 price: 8.03B shares (₱53.0B), plus a 1.2B-share overallotment that would bring the total to ₱60.9B. Analysts call the price “balanced, not cheap.” Trading Edge estimates 20.4x 2026 earnings against about 25% annual EPS growth and sees fair value near ₱8. That is a roughly 21% cushion to ₱8, within our margin-of-safety rule of buying below ₱7.00. Risks: El Niño could strain GCash's rural and lower-income users, and the offer week may pull cash from other index names. Listing is Oct 20.

● ACCUMULATE FPH ₱87.00 (unch.) — New ₱5B buyback equals about 13.5% of the company

First Philippine Holdings reinstated a ₱5B share buyback running Oct 1, 2026 to Sep 30, 2028. At ₱87 that would buy back about 57.5M shares, roughly 13.5% of the 424.5M outstanding (market value about ₱36.9B). It also declared a ₱1.10/share cash dividend (₱467M). Foreigners were net buyers on Oct 1. A buyback this large relative to its size gives the stock a strong floor. Accumulate, but buy slowly: Friday's value was only ₱5.7M.

● ACCUMULATE AC ₱515.00 (–1.53%) — Foreigners sold again but the price held above ₱500

Foreign flow turned back to selling (–₱271.0M), the second-largest net sale of the day. AC still held ₱512–523, well above our ₱500 hold line, and two blocks crossed at ₱520 and ₱525, above its close. Mynt's pricing confirms a reference value for AC's stake. Stay with Accumulate; a close below ₱500 would trigger a review.

● MONITOR GLO ₱1,554 (+1.24%) — ₱1 short of our re-entry level

GLO touched ₱1,555 intraday but closed at ₱1,554, just under our re-entry trigger, on ₱219.6M of value with small foreign buying (+₱4.6M). A Philippines–Singapore subsea cable fault slowed international traffic on Oct 3, and service was fully restored on Oct 4. Mynt's offer week is the catalyst. One close above ₱1,555 moves GLO back to Accumulate.

● AVOID ICT ₱860.00 (–0.81%) — Fourth day of foreign selling; ₱840 intraday low

ICT drew another ₱235.5M of net foreign selling, about ₱783M over four sessions, and touched ₱840 before recovering. It still accounts for 29% of main-board value, so its flows drive the index. Stay out until ICT recovers ₱884 (Friday's high) and foreign selling eases.

GLOBAL MARKETS

Wall Street rallied on Friday after a weak September jobs report. Payrolls rose only 29,000 against about 84,000–90,000 expected, unemployment rose to 4.2% from 4.1%, and wage growth slowed to 3.0% y/y, the lowest since May 2021. Futures now price well under a 15% chance of an October Fed hike, and the dollar fell. Nvidia hit a record intraday high near $238 (above $5.7T market value) and Tesla rose 5.2% on deliveries, while Nike fell 4.8% on weak guidance. The S&P 500 finished the week flat (+0.01%). In Asia, Hong Kong fell 2.6% on its return from holiday and Japan gave back 0.9%, while Korea, Taiwan and Australia gained on chip strength.

*Hang Seng compared with its Sep 30 close (HK was closed Oct 1).

- The bigger picture: AI is still the main support for stocks, and a soft landing remains possible. But bond markets are demanding higher risk premiums: high yields and elevated oil keep the “higher-for-longer” and inflation risks alive, which weighs on valuations.
- China: weak construction and infrastructure spending is hurting copper, and EV demand is soft. Bitcoin held above $80,000 after briefly topping $87,000.

COMMODITIES

Oil eased on Friday after Europe agreed, under US pressure, to release emergency diesel stocks as part of a G7/IEA plan targeting about 100M barrels of diesel and other reserves. That reversed Thursday's jump on Chinese refinery export suspensions and reports of more US troops heading to the Middle East. The worry has shifted from crude to refined products. Gold firmed after the weak payrolls report but remains capped by a 10-year yield near 5.3%.

FX & RATES

The peso ended a four-day slide, gaining 24 centavos to ₱62.535 as the dollar fell on the weak payrolls data, although it touched ₱62.825 intraday. Support remains ₱61.94; the ₱63.00 line held. A record-breaking El Niño is adding to the selloff in Southeast Asian local-currency bonds, which could push benchmark yields, including PH yields, higher. September CPI is due this week; the BSP expects 6.4–7.4%.

PHILIPPINES STRATEGY

A test of support, not yet a turn. The index tested the Nov-2025 low and closed 40 points above it, and 17 of 30 members rose. That is the first sign of buyers stepping in. But foreign funds are still leaving (₱4.64B in four days), and the index has lost five sessions in a row. We need a close above 5,730 before calling a bottom.

Where we lean in: Subscribe to Mynt (Oct 6–12). Accumulate FPH (₱5B buyback), AC and ALI. Re-enter GLO above ₱1,555. Companies buying back their own shares now include OPM, SMPH, SM, URC and ICT (Oct 1), and FPH's new programme starts now. Buybacks cushion prices but have not stopped foreign selling (SM -₱300.7M, URC -₱100.8M).

What to avoid: ICT, banks (BDO -₱111.3M), SCC (-4.96%) and PX until the Padcal strike is resolved. PX rose 3.78% on ₱101M of local buying, but the labour risk is unresolved. Also avoid governance-overhang names.

- SEC: the SEC proposes mandatory three-year accreditation for third-party debt collectors, with a public registry and fines of ₱60,000–₱200,000 per offence. Financing companies that use unaccredited collectors face fines of up to ₱2M. Comments close Oct 15, alongside the proposed ₱120M broker-dealer capital floor (comments close Oct 14).

Industrial and Property were the only gainers: REITs bounced (AREIT +4.76%) and MER stabilised. Mining & Oil recovered from 18,827 to close at its session high. Holding Firms value includes ₱1.27B of GTCAP blocks. Sector values include block sales.

FOREIGN FUND FLOW

Foreigners bought ₱3.971B and sold ₱5.226B, a net sale of ₱1.255B. Three names took most of it: SM (-₱300.7M), AC (-₱271.0M) and ICT (-₱235.5M), followed by BDO and URC. Buying rotated into yield names: MER (+₱26.0M), AREIT (+₱21.8M), RCR (+₱21.0M) and TEL (+₱15.1M), as the weak US payrolls lowered rate expectations.

CORPORATE STANCE CARDS

● MONITOR LTL (PNB Holdings) ₱1.20 (unch.) — PNB is open to selling its 49.75% stake

PNB owns 23.35B LTL shares and says it is looking for a strategic partner at “best value” because it is “not really a real estate company.” LTL listed Sep 25 with 46.93B shares, about 23.9B of them distributed as a property dividend. It has stayed pinned near ₱1.20 on heavy turnover (₱288.4M Friday). A strategic buyer would be a re-rating catalyst; until then, expect continued selling from shareholders who received the dividend shares.

● MONITOR MER ₱416.00 (−0.29%) — Energy sales edged up in the first eight months

Meralco's January–August energy sales edged higher, a recovery from the 1H decline as demand picked up in the second half. MER traded from a ₱435 high back to its ₱416 low on ₱136.8M of value, but foreigners were the top net buyers (+ ₱26.0M). The 900MW baseload tender and the ₱2.64B refund are still pending. Hold.

● MONITOR MWIDE ₱5.15 (−3.20%) — Waiting on GSIS for a ₱3.5B Quezon City terminal

Unit MWM Terminals, which runs the Parañaque terminal, has proposed a ₱3.5B integrated terminal for about 58,000 passengers on a 3-hectare GSIS lot at Commonwealth and Elliptical Avenue, near MRT-7 stations. The PPP Center endorsed the proposal on Jul 1, and GSIS is still evaluating it. Upside if approved, but timing is uncertain.

● MONITOR FRUIT ₱0.65 — ₱750M PNB credit line for expansion

The facility funds store expansion, its brand portfolio, and possible international moves: bringing foreign brands in and taking its own brands abroad. It adds leverage for a micro-cap, so watch execution. Fruitas also reported share buybacks last week.

● MONITOR AC (AC Health) — Second St. Joseph Drug–SUGI pharmacy opens in Eastwood

The Japanese-inspired wellness pharmacy, run with St. Joseph Drug and Japan's SUGI Holdings, opened its second branch four months after the first at One Ayala. It is small for AC, but it extends Ayala's consumer-healthcare footprint.

SMARTWATCH — WHAT MOVES THE TAPE NEXT

LEARN — SHARE BUYBACKS

The concept. In a share buyback, a company uses its own cash to purchase its shares in the market. The repurchased shares are retired or held as treasury stock, so each remaining share owns a bigger slice of the company's earnings. Investopedia notes buybacks can signal that management believes the shares are undervalued, and they return cash to shareholders without the commitment of a regular dividend.

The arithmetic. If earnings stay the same and the share count falls by x%, earnings per share rise by about $x \div (1 - x)$. FPH's ₱5B programme at ₱87 would retire about 57.5M of 424.5M shares (13.5%). Fully executed, that lifts EPS by about 15.6%, before counting the interest income lost on the cash spent.

Applied to today's market. Last week OPM, SMPH, SM, URC, ICT and FPH all reported or announced buybacks. That is useful support near the 5,584 floor, because these are buyers that do not care about the peso. But buybacks only cushion the fall: SM and URC were still among the biggest foreign sales on Friday. A buyback creates value only if the shares are bought below intrinsic value; buying expensive shares, or borrowing to buy them, destroys value.

Takeaway. Size the buyback against the company: the ratio of buyback to market cap shows how strong the price floor is. ₱5B against FPH's roughly ₱36.9B market cap is unusually large, which is why we rate FPH Accumulate today.
