Wall Street was mixed on Tuesday (Dow +1.02%, S&P 500 +0.28%, Nasdaq −0.02%): the desk attributes the gains to robust corporate results and easing crude, while a tech rotation and concerns over foreign AI-semiconductor names weighed on the Nasdaq. It happened after the PSE closed, so it is the overnight signal for today. Asia was split. KOSPI (+2.83%) and Jakarta (+5.65%, single-source, after Monday's −3.64% fall) rebounded, with Shanghai (+0.12%) and Kuala Lumpur (+0.24%) slightly higher; Nikkei (−1.30%), Taiwan (−1.13%), Thailand (−0.99%) and Hang Seng fell, and India had no new print. The desk notes that capital is rotating into bullion despite elevated energy costs and yields, and that past rate spikes have triggered precious-metal liquidations.

A thin index gain on a record listing day. The PSEi gained 0.14% with more decliners than advancers (105 to 84), while Mynt's ₱54.66B of GCASH trading (regular plus blocks) swamped everything else. The market's own signal is clearer in the regular tape: main-board value excluding GCASH was ₱4.18B, foreigners were net sellers of GCASH and ICT but net buyers of AC, SM, BDO and MER (issue-level sum excluding GCASH: +₱131.2M), and the cap-weighted gain (+0.14%) was larger than the equal-weighted +0.05%. The next test is whether GCASH holds ₱6.60 without the blocks.

What the tape shows

- Holding firms and property led: Holding Firms +1.46% (SM +2.40%, JGS +2.35%, AC +1.11%) and Property +0.89% (SMPH +2.30%, ALI +1.57%); Industrial added 0.50% (MER +2.01%).
- Services and mining lagged: Services −1.31% (TEL −3.85%, GLO −2.53%, ICT −1.18%) and Mining & Oil −2.13% (AT −3.27%, PX −3.13%, OGP −3.13%).
- Standing house rule: banks stay on watch while the PHL 10-year is above 7% (8.030% today); Financials gained only 0.13% (BDO +1.28%, MBT +0.65%, BPI −0.85%) even as foreigners bought BDO (+₱71.8M) and MBT (+₱37.6M).

Risks to watch (desk items, not verified)

- Mynt follow-through: ₱1.11B of foreign net selling in regular trading and ₱50.33B of blocks at the offer price leave the stock's next sessions as the key read on demand; the desk says key backers remain supportive while leadership evaluates buyout options and alliances.
- Global tone: a Nasdaq dip on AI-semiconductor concerns, rotation into bullion and high energy costs and yields keep risk appetite uneven; the Jakarta rebound (+5.65%) follows Monday's MSCI-related fall.
- Market structure: the SEC issued MC No. 28-2026, the first framework for equity and fixed-income market making, and cleared Aznar Shipping's ₱670M IPO (subscription Dec 1–8, targeted debut Dec 18). A headline also quotes PSE's Yuchengco on a lawsuit over SEC term limits.

The concept. In an IPO the company and its underwriters set an offer price before trading starts. On listing day the market sets its own price: if demand exceeds the shares available, the stock trades above the offer price; if not, it trades at or below it. Listings also tend to print block crosses, which are large negotiated trades that move many shares without moving the price, so volume and value on the day can overstate everyday demand. Reading a first day means comparing the open, high and close with the offer price, separating regular trading from blocks, and checking what foreign accounts did.

GCASH (Mynt), Oct 20 DQR and desk notes	Value
Offer price (desk X post: closed unchanged on listing date)	₱6.60
Open / high / low / close	₱6.60 / ₱6.76 / ₱6.60 / ₱6.60
High vs ₱6.60	+2.4%
Regular volume / value	650.3M shares / ₱4,326.6M
Block crosses (nine, all at ₱6.60)	7,626.0M shares / ₱50,331.9M
Net foreign, regular trading	−₱1,111.9M
Share of the day's grand-total value	92.8%

Why it matters today. GCASH touched ₱6.76 and closed at ₱6.60, so a small early premium (+2.4% at the high) had gone by the close, and foreign accounts were net sellers of ₱1.11B in regular trading. The ₱50.33B of blocks at the same ₱6.60 says more about allocation and placement than about open-market demand, and the DQR shows no counterparties. The day therefore shows the offer price being met, not yet beaten. The real test is whether ₱6.60 holds in the next sessions without the blocks. GCASH is not in the PSEi-30, so the index moved just 0.14% while Financials' value ballooned to ₱55.15B.
How to use it. (1) A new listing has no prior close in the DQR, so judge it against the offer price, the open and the high, not a percentage change. (2) Split regular value from blocks before reading "turnover". (3) Watch the following sessions: does the price stay at or above the offer, and do foreign accounts keep selling? Takeaway: a listing day shows how the offer price meets the market; the first week shows whether it holds.
