AT A GLANCE — ACTIONABLE HIGHLIGHTS

Session snapshot PSEi 6,277.95 ▼ -8.36 (-0.13%) • Value ₱6.18B • Breadth 97 up / 96 down / 57 flat • Foreign ₱(323.68M) (net foreign selling)

- ▶ PSEi slipped a fractional 8.36 pts (-0.13%) to 6,277.95 on flat breadth (97 up / 96 down); a firm Mining & Oil (+0.59%) and Industrial (+0.97%) tape offset weakness in Services and the banks.
- ▶ Foreigners were net sellers of ₱323.68M — but AC drew the single largest inflow (+₱76.7M) while SM (-₱102.6M) and BPI (-₱102.4M) led the outflow.
- ▶ ICT dominated turnover at ₱1.74B (28% of the whole market) the same day Razon topped the 2026 Forbes PHL rich list on ICTSI's global expansion — reiterate ACCUMULATE.
- ▶ Gold plays in focus: OceanaGold (OGP) Q2 profit more than doubled and drew +₱6.4M foreign buying as bullion held near record ~US$4,300/oz on Strait-of-Hormuz risk.
- ▶ PHL 10Y eased to 7.262% but stays above our 7% caution line — keep BDO/BPI/MBT on MONITOR; heavy foreign selling hit both BDO and BPI.
- ▶ CEB printed a ₱5.49B Q2 net loss (fuel shock) — AVOID; ALI faces MSCI Standard Index deletion risk at the August review despite Ayala Corp's US$59M open-market buying.

THE CALL

The Philippine Stock Exchange index closed a whisker lower on Thursday, easing 8.36 points, or 0.13%, to 6,277.95 in a session that was more about rotation and positioning than direction. Breadth was almost perfectly split — 97 advancers against 96 decliners and 57 unchanged — and total turnover was a light ₱6.18 billion, underscoring a market content to wait for the next catalyst rather than commit fresh conviction in either direction.

The pattern mirrored the overnight tone from Wall Street, where the S&P 500 fell for a second straight day as investors took profits after recent highs. That was profit-taking and caution, not panic: oil pushed higher on renewed Strait-of-Hormuz risk, bonds stayed in focus ahead of key US labor data, and Bitcoin softened. Higher energy costs revived the worry that the Federal Reserve may have less room to ease — a theme that also colours the local rates picture.

Beneath the flat headline, the local tape had clear internal leadership. Mining & Oil (+0.59%) and Industrial (+0.97%) carried the day as gold's run toward record highs lifted the miners and power names firmed, while Services (-0.44%), Holding Firms (-0.38%) and Financials (-0.33%) leaked. Foreign investors were net sellers of ₱323.68 million, but the flow was two-sided and name-specific rather than a broad retreat — Ayala Corp absorbed the day's largest single inflow even as SM Investments and BPI saw the heaviest outflows.

PHILIPPINES STRATEGY

Our reading of Thursday is constructive-neutral. A ₱6.18-billion tape with even breadth is a market resting, not rolling over; the index has held comfortably inside its 6,233–6,306 intraday band and remains well above the 5,584 low of its 52-week range. The actionable signal is in the flow and the earnings, not the level.

On rates, the PHL 10-year eased to 7.262% from 7.358%, a welcome move, but it remains above the 7% line at which we grow cautious on the banks. With foreigners hitting BDO (-₱38.1M) and BPI (-₱102.4M) hard, we keep the big three lenders (BDO, BPI, MBT) on MONITOR pending a sustained break back below 7%. Metrobank, notably, bucked the group with +₱22.7M of foreign buying and a firmer close.

The clearer opportunity set sits in dollar earners and gold. ICT remains our preferred foreign-flow vehicle and dominant turnover name, and the Forbes headline is a reminder of the franchise's global trajectory. In mining, OceanaGold's doubling of Q2 profit and the broader Hormuz-driven bid under bullion keep the gold complex (OGP, APX, PX, AT, NIKL) on our selective-accumulate radar. In staples, Century Pacific's resilient first half reinforces its defensive appeal against a still-soft consumer backdrop.

CORPORATE UPDATES

ICT Int'l Container Terminal Services ₱1,000.00

Razon tops 2026 Forbes PHL rich list as ICTSI expansion drives fortune to record US$21.8B

ICTSI chairman and president Enrique K. Razon, Jr. topped Forbes' 2026 Philippines' 50 Richest list for the first time, with his net worth nearly doubling to a record US$21.8 billion — the biggest gainer in dollar terms after adding US$10.3 billion. Forbes attributed the jump to ICTSI's global port expansion, which lifted the company's shares. The ranking came as the combined wealth of the 50 richest fell 8% to US$79 billion amid slow first-quarter GDP (2.8%), an Iran-driven energy shock and a weaker peso (per BusinessWorld / Forbes Asia). ICT again dominated the local tape, printing ₱1.74 billion in value, roughly 28% of the entire market's ₱6.18-billion turnover.

Analysis. The Forbes headline is symbolic, but it rests on a real driver: a diversifying, dollar-denominated global port network with the MICT concession secured to 2063. ICT remains the market's premier dollar earner and its dominant two-way foreign-flow vehicle — today's modest -₱18.7M net foreign outflow is noise against its liquidity. We continue to treat pullbacks as accumulation opportunities.

OGP OceanaGold (Philippines), Inc. ₱34.95

OceanaGold PH Q2 profit more than doubles on higher metal prices

OceanaGold Philippines reported that second-quarter profit more than doubled year-on-year on higher realized gold and copper prices at its Didipio mine (per BusinessWorld). The result extends a powerful run: Q1 2026 net income had already surged more than fourfold to US$34.7 million on near-doubled revenue of US$158.4 million, and full-year 2025 profit jumped 152% to US$76.5 million on record realized gold of ~US$3,494/oz. Management guides 2026 output of 85,000–105,000 oz gold and 13,000–15,000 MT copper at an all-in sustaining cost of US$975–1,100/oz. OGP drew +₱6.4M of net foreign buying and closed at ₱34.95.

Analysis. OGP is the cleanest listed proxy for the gold rally, and the macro backdrop is squarely supportive — bullion held near a record ~US$4,300/oz as Strait-of-Hormuz risk and shifting rate expectations reignited safe-haven demand. With strong free cash flow, a rising dividend and disciplined AISC, the earnings-to-price case is compelling while gold stays bid.

Stance: ACCUMULATE — best-in-class gold cash-flow story leveraged to record bullion.

CEB Cebu Air, Inc. (Cebu Pacific) ₱28.90Cebu Air swings to ₱5.49B Q2 net loss as fuel shock bites

Cebu Air posted an attributable Q2 net loss of ₱5.49 billion, reversing a ₱8.51-billion profit a year earlier (which had included a ₱4.76-billion one-off from free replacement engines). Revenue rose 7.1% to ₱35.24 billion, but operating expenses surged 40.9% to ₱37.97 billion as flying-operations costs more than doubled to ₱20.25 billion on an unprecedented jet-fuel spike; the quarter produced a ₱2.7-billion operating loss. First-half net loss reached ₱5.9 billion even as H1 revenue hit a record ₱68.6 billion (+8%) and traffic grew ~4% to 14.5 million passengers, with domestic market share widening to ~60% (per BusinessWorld / company). CEO Michael Szücs called it the toughest post-pandemic operating environment; management flags Q3 as likely loss-making too. Shares closed unchanged at ₱28.90.

Analysis. The demand story is intact — record revenue, higher traffic, expanding share — but the P&L is hostage to fuel and the peso, and management's own guidance points to more red ink before a Q4 recovery window. With net debt/EBITDA elevated, we see no margin of safety at current levels until oil retreats or hedging cushions materialize.

Stance: AVOID — structurally sound franchise, but fuel-driven losses and Q3 guidance keep risk skewed down.

CNPF Century Pacific Food, Inc. ₱32.10Century Pacific first-half income rises 6% to ₱4.1B; revenue up 15%

Century Pacific Food reported first-half net income after tax up 6% to ₱4.1 billion, with consolidated revenue up 15% to ₱45.8 billion and Q2 revenue up 16% (per BusinessWorld). Excluding one-off provisions tied to June's General Santos earthquake (subject to insurance claims), core net income rose 10% and core operating income 18%. The branded segment grew 13% and OEM exports surged 26% on improving tuna and coconut demand. CFO Chad Manapat cited fuel-driven cost pressure and measured, below-inflation pricing; the company maintains its ₱8-billion 2026 capex program. CNPF drew a small +₱0.6M net foreign inflow and closed at ₱32.10.

Analysis. This is exactly the defensive profile we want against a soft, inflation-squeezed consumer: affordable staples (Century Tuna, 555, Argentina, Birch Tree), a growing export leg, and cost discipline that protected core margins despite an earthquake hit. The reported headline understates underlying momentum once the one-off is stripped out.

Stance: ACCUMULATE — resilient staples compounder; core growth intact.

MAC MacroAsia Corp. ₱3.76Lufthansa Technik–MacroAsia JV breaks ground on bigger Clark MRO hub

Lufthansa Technik Philippines — the JV between Germany's Lufthansa Technik AG and Lucio Tan-led MacroAsia Corp. — broke ground on the first phase of a new Clark aircraft-maintenance facility spanning ~157,000 sqm, with a nine-figure-dollar investment (estimated ~US$400M) and ~1,200 skilled jobs; first operations are targeted for 2028. President and CEO Holger Beck said Phase 2 would be roughly double the size and investment of Phase 1. Clark is planned for ~9 widebody bays (versus 7 in Manila) and could become LTP's largest Philippine base, while NAIA base-maintenance operations continue under a renewed long-term lease (per BusinessWorld / Manila Bulletin). MAC drew +₱0.19M foreign buying and closed at ₱3.76.

Analysis. MacroAsia is a long-duration play on the Philippines becoming a regional widebody MRO hub. The Clark build-out materially expands recurring, dollar-linked maintenance capacity and adds Boeing 787 capability. It is a slow-burn, capex-heavy thesis with a small float — position sizing matters — but the strategic direction is clearly positive.

Stance: SPECULATIVE BUY — multi-year MRO expansion; size positions for a long horizon.

ALI Ayala Land, Inc. ₱15.32ALI at risk of MSCI Standard Index deletion despite Ayala Corp's US$59M open-market buying

Ayala Land faces a high probability of removal from the MSCI Philippines Standard Index at the August review, which could trigger forced selling by passive funds tracking the benchmark — this despite parent Ayala Corp's roughly US$59 million of open-market share buying in support. Analysts flag a ~₱14 share-price threshold ALI must hold to avoid breaching the minimum market-cap requirement; the stock closed at ₱15.32 (up on the day) but bled -₱34.3M of foreign selling. ALI has also trimmed 2026 capex to ~₱50 billion from ₱70–80 billion amid a soft residential market and geopolitical uncertainty (per First Metro Securities / Manila Bulletin / BusinessWorld).

Analysis. The index-deletion risk is a stock-market event, not a business event: ALI still controls ~₱1 trillion of assets and a dominant recurring-income platform (malls, offices, hotels, estates) trading near ~0.6x book. Parent buying provides a floor and signals conviction. We would use index-driven weakness to build positions, while acknowledging a potential passive-flow air-pocket around the review.

Stance: DEEP VALUE — accumulate weakness; MONITOR the MSCI review flow.

AC Ayala Corp. ₱493.00Ayala Corp draws the day's largest foreign inflow (+₱76.7M) amid open-market buying

Ayala Corp absorbed the single largest net foreign inflow of the session at +₱76.7 million and was the second most active name by value (₱346.07 million), closing at ₱493.00. The buying coincides with the parent's ongoing open-market share purchases (~US$59 million) supporting the Ayala complex, and AC remains a constituent of the MSCI Philippines Standard Index even as flagship ALI faces deletion risk. First-quarter attributable net income was ₱11.95 billion (-5.1%), with the Street looking for a Q2 recovery toward ₱12.8–13.2 billion led by BPI (per BusinessWorld).

Analysis. AC is our preferred way to own the Ayala franchise through the current property de-rating: a diversified holdco (BPI, ALI, ACEN, Globe) where parent buybacks and MSCI membership provide relative flow support versus the beleaguered subsidiaries. Today's decisive foreign bid reinforces that relative preference.

GOLD Philippine Gold & Base-Metal Miners APX ₱14.90 · PX ₱9.95 · AT ₱15.00 · NIKL ₱4.12 · LC ₱0.228PH & Asian gold shares may follow bullion higher on Hormuz optimism

With gold testing fresh record territory near US$4,300/oz — powered by shifting macro and geopolitics, including Iran's move to bar US and Israeli shipping through the Strait of Hormuz — Philippine and Asian gold shares are positioned to track bullion higher (per desk/Bloomberg theme). Among the local complex on Thursday: Apex Mining (APX) was heavily traded at ₱129.97M value but saw the market's largest single foreign outflow (-₱45.4M); Philex (PX) turned over ₱213.52M (-₱15.3M foreign); Atlas Mining (AT) traded ₱134.29M (-₱10.5M); Nickel Asia (NIKL) ₱47.36M (-₱1.7M); and OceanaGold (OGP) drew net buying. Mining & Oil was the day's best sector (+0.59%).

Analysis. We stay constructive on the gold complex while bullion holds its bid, but flows were two-sided — foreigners took profits in APX and PX even as the sector index rose, so we prefer the cash-flow leaders (OGP for gold; disciplined names over speculative ones). Base-metal exposure (NIKL) is more of a hedge on the global cycle than a gold play.

Stance: SELECTIVE ACCUMULATE — favour cash-flow leaders (OGP) over higher-beta

DMC DMCI Holdings, Inc. ₱7.26DMCI-PDI enters the office market with ₱1.2B One Fortis Plaza in Makati

DMCI Project Developers (DMCI-PDI), the property arm of DMCI Holdings, is entering office development with One Fortis Plaza — a ₱1.2-billion, 17-storey tower on a 2,400-sqm site along Chino Roces Avenue, offering 15 units of ~1,400 sqm each, targeting an EDGE green rating and completion by April 2028 within the Makati Southwest Gateway redevelopment (per BusinessWorld / Manila Bulletin). Separately, the Consunji family held a top-five spot on the 2026 Forbes list (~US$3 billion). DMC drew a strong +₱22.7M net foreign inflow — third-largest of the day — though it closed off intraday highs at ₱7.26.

Analysis. The office push is a measured diversification that leverages DMCI's engineering pedigree and adds a recurring-income leg to a group already anchored by construction, Semirara coal/power and DMCI Homes. The name screens attractively on the group's cash generation and dividend track record, and today's institutional inflow is encouraging.

Stance: ACCUMULATE — cash-generative, dividend-friendly holdco with a growing recurring-income leg.

BANKS BDO • BPI • MBT BDO ₱123.20 • BPI ₱101.00 • MBT ₱67.00Rates still above the line: PHL 10Y at 7.262% keeps banks on watch

The PHL 10-year yield eased to 7.262% from 7.358% but remains above the 7% level at which we grow cautious on the banks. Foreign investors were sizeable sellers of the big two on Thursday — BPI (-₱102.4M) and BDO (-₱38.1M) — while Metrobank bucked the trend with +₱22.7M of buying and a firmer close. Sector context is supportive on fundamentals: China Bank's first-half net income rose 11% to ₱14.5 billion and PNB's climbed 17% to ₱14.6 billion (per BusinessWorld), pointing to still-healthy franchise earnings.

Analysis. Bank fundamentals remain solid, but the tape is telling us positioning matters more than earnings right now — passive/foreign flows are the swing factor while long yields sit above 7%. We keep BDO and BPI on MONITOR pending a sustained move back below 7%, and note MBT's relative flow strength as a preferred name within the group.

Stance: MONITOR (BDO, BPI) — await sub-7% 10Y; MBT preferred on relative flows.

SMARTWATCH SUMMARY

- ▶ Share buybacks (8/6/26): JFC, SM, SMPH, AGI, OPM and FRUIT disclosed buyback activity — a supportive undertone for index heavyweights (JFC, SM, SMPH).
- ▶ PH labour: Unemployment ticked up to 4.9% in June 2026 from 4.8% in May — a mild softening consistent with the slower growth backdrop.
- ▶ Energy / geopolitics: Oil jumped (WTI +3.6%, Brent +3.6%) as Iran moved to bar US and Israeli ships from the Strait of Hormuz; higher energy costs revive Fed-caution fears.
- ▶ Gold: Bullion held near a record ~US$4,300/oz; supportive for OGP, APX, PX, AT and the broader Mining & Oil sector (+0.59%).
- ▶ Bank earnings: China Bank H1 net income +11% to ₱14.5B; PNB +17% to ₱14.6B — franchise earnings healthy even as flows stay cautious.
- ▶ International: S&P 500 down a second day on profit-taking; SGX FY operating profit S$887.2M; Nintendo's FY2027 guidance (op income ¥370.0B, net ¥310.0B, sales ¥2.05T) sits below consensus.
- ▶ Suspension: Robinsons Retail (RRHI) remains under exchange suspension (Gokongwei/JE Holdings ₱48.30 voluntary-delisting tender); no trades recorded.
