Covering the

09 July 2026 PSE session

Member, Philippine Stock Exchange since 1987

THE CALL Profit-taking, not a turn.

A six-session win streak broke as the PSEi slipped 0.82% to 6,223.87 on broad profit-taking — yet foreigners were still net buyers of ₱799M, concentrated in ICT (+₱825M) and BPI (+₱240M). The tape is rotational, not defensive: Services rose while Financials and Conglomerates gave back gains. Stay with the dollar earners and quality on dips; keep banks on a short leash while the PHL 10-year sits above 7% (7.24%).

QUICK HIGHLIGHTS

- ▶ PSEi 6,223.87 (−0.82%, −51.90) — Six-day streak ends on profit-taking; only Services (+0.85%) closed higher.
- ▶ Foreigners NET BUY ₱799M — Despite the dip — ICT +₱825M and BPI +₱240M carried the tape; SM, SMPH, URC sold.
- ▶ Wall Street mixed-to-higher — Nasdaq +1.50% on big-cap tech / AI optimism; Dow −0.83%, S&P +0.53%.
- ▶ Oil surges on Iran risk — WTI +4.55% to $71.91, Brent +5.64% — watch PH energy names (AP, FGEN, MER, ACEN).
- ▶ PHL 10-yr at 7.24% (+14bps) — Above the 7% caution line — banks (BDO/BPI/MBT) stay on MONITOR.
- ▶ ICT completes Brazil logistics buy — Dollar-earner story intact; foreign flow leader again — ACCUMULATE ON DIPS.

THE PHILIPPINE SESSION

▼ 51.90 (−0.82%)	Grand total (DQR)	adv / dec / unch	net BUYING

The PSEi fell 51.90 points (−0.82%) to 6,223.87, ending a six-session winning streak as profit-taking swept the large caps. Breadth was negative — 68 advancers against 111 decliners and 62 unchanged — on ₱6.19B of value. Only Services (+0.85%) closed higher, lifted almost entirely by ICTSI (+2.26% to ₱971.50). Financials (−2.13%) and Holding Firms (−2.05%) led the declines, with Industrials (−1.43%), Mining & Oil (−1.38%) and Property (−1.31%) also softer. Crucially, foreigners stayed net BUYERS of ₱799.2M despite the red tape — ICT (+₱825M) and BPI (+₱240M) more than offset heavy selling in SM, SMPH and URC. The peso weakened for a second day and the PHL 10-year rose to 7.24%.

CORPORATE NEWS & STANCES

ICT ₱971.50 ▲ +2.26%

ICTSI completes its Brazil logistics acquisition, extending the dollar-earner footprint.

International Container Terminal Services said it has closed its acquisition of a Brazilian logistics business, adding to a portfolio that already spans terminals across the Americas, Europe, Asia and Africa. The deal deepens ICTSI's exposure to hard-currency revenue and to the intermodal logistics chain that feeds its container gateways. ICT led the entire market in turnover on Thursday at ₱1.78B in value and closed 2.26% higher at ₱971.50, single-handedly lifting the Services sector into positive territory. Foreign investors were aggressive net buyers of the stock, taking in roughly ₱825M — by far the day's largest inflow and the swing factor behind the market's ₱799M net foreign buy.

ICT remains our cleanest structural long: a peso-hedged dollar earner with a global, diversified terminal base and consistent foreign sponsorship. Bolt-on logistics deals extend the moat without stretching the balance sheet. We would add on any pullback toward the low-₱900s.

BDO ₱123.00 ▼ -2.69%

BDO Unibank launches its sixth ASEAN Peso Sustainability Bond offering.

BDO opened an offer for its sixth peso-denominated ASEAN Sustainability Bond, with a minimum issue size of ₱5 billion, a 1.5-year tenor and a 6.26% per-annum coupon. The offer period runs from July 9 to July 21, 2026, with listing targeted for July 28. Proceeds fund BDO's eligible green and social asset portfolio, reinforcing its franchise as the country's largest sustainability-bond issuer. The stock, however, was among the day's heavier large-cap decliners, closing down 2.69% at ₱123.00 on ₱44M of net foreign selling as the banking board came under profit-taking.

Funding access at a 6.26% coupon is comfortably inside the 7.24% 10-year and underscores BDO's balance-sheet strength. But with the PHL 10-year back above our 7% caution line, near-term multiple expansion for banks is capped. We keep BDO — and the bank complex — on MONITOR pending clearer signs the yield has peaked.

● STANCE: MONITOR

SMPH ₱18.10 ▼ -1.74%

SM Prime opens a ₱7-billion arena in Cebu, widening its experiential-retail lead.

SM Prime Holdings inaugurated a ₱7-billion arena in Cebu, its latest large-format venue anchoring the group's mixed-use ecosystem in the Visayas. The facility is designed to draw concerts, sports and MICE events that lift mall footfall and ancillary spend across SM's surrounding developments. Operationally the story is a positive read on the group's post-pandemic experiential-retail thesis and its regional expansion beyond Metro Manila. The share price did not cooperate, falling 1.74% to ₱18.10 amid the broad property sell-off, and SMPH absorbed one of the day's largest foreign outflows at about ₱54M.

The arena reinforces SMPH's structural footfall advantage, but the tape is currently punishing rate-sensitive property names and foreigners are lightening large caps. Fundamentally sound, technically heavy — we hold at MONITOR and would prefer to accumulate into rate relief.

● STANCE: MONITOR

PCOR ₱2.29 ▼ -0.43%CTA upholds partial excise-tax refunds for Petron in twin rulings.

The Court of Tax Appeals upheld partial excise-tax refunds in favor of Petron across two related rulings, affirming a portion of the company's claims. The decisions provide incremental cash-flow and provisioning relief and reduce a piece of the tax overhang that has shadowed the refiner. Petron shares were little changed, easing 0.43% to ₱2.29 in a quiet session. The ruling is modestly constructive but partial in scope, leaving other claims and the broader margin cycle as the more important drivers.

A favorable, if partial, legal outcome trims tail risk without changing the earnings trajectory, which still hinges on refining margins and volumes. We stay MONITOR on PCOR and would look to the next quarterly print for a cleaner signal.

● STANCE: MONITOR*DELM ₱4.20 ▬ 0.00%Del Monte Pacific cites Philippine business's debt-restructuring efforts to support continued operations.

Del Monte Pacific pointed to ongoing debt-restructuring work at its Philippine business as a basis for supporting continued operations, following well-publicized balance-sheet stress in its US arm. The disclosure frames the local unit as a going concern while the group manages leverage across the wider organization. DELM was untraded on price, holding at ₱4.20 on thin volume. The commentary is reassuring on intent but confirms that deleveraging and refinancing remain front-and-center risks for the name.

Restructuring language is a reminder that the investment case here is a balance-sheet story before it is an earnings story. Until leverage and covenant clarity improve, risk/reward stays unattractive for institutional mandates. We remain cautious.

● STANCE: AVOID / CAUTION*JFC ₱143.50 ▼ -2.38%Buyback tape in focus as Jollibee slips with the consumer complex.

Jollibee Foods eased 2.38% to ₱143.50 as consumer names tracked the market lower, though the desk flagged buyback activity as a supportive undercurrent across several large caps. Corporate repurchases signal management confidence and provide a price floor, and JFC's global store-network expansion continues to underpin the medium-term earnings story. Notably, foreign investors were net buyers of JFC on the day — roughly ₱6M in inflows — a reversal of the profit-taking pressure seen in recent sessions. The pullback looks like index-driven de-risking rather than a company-specific catalyst.

Foreign buying returning on a down day is the tell we wanted to see; the earlier profit-taking impulse is easing. We move JFC back toward ACCUMULATE for patient positions, using weakness in the low-₱140s to add.

● STANCE: ACCUMULATE

WEB ₱13.56 ▼ -0.29%PhilWeb partners with Pragmatic Play to expand its gaming-content services.

PhilWeb tied up with content provider Pragmatic Play to broaden its portfolio of gaming services, adding titles and functionality to its platform offering. The partnership targets the fast-growing online and integrated-gaming segment where content depth drives player engagement and revenue share. WEB was a heavily traded services name, closing marginally lower at ₱13.56 on ₱31M of turnover. The deal is strategically sensible but its earnings contribution will take time to prove out amid a competitive and regulation-sensitive sector.

Content partnerships are the right growth lever, yet gaming regulation and execution risk warrant a wait-and-see posture. We stay NEUTRAL and would want visible revenue traction before turning constructive.

● STANCE: NEUTRAL*ALTER ₱0.76 ▼ -2.56%Alternergy energizes transmission facilities for its Tanay wind project.

Alternergy said it has energized the transmission facilities serving its Tanay wind project, a milestone that moves the asset closer to full commercial contribution. Grid connection is a critical de-risking step for any renewables developer, converting construction spend into revenue-generating capacity. The micro-cap eased 2.56% to ₱0.76 in a soft market for small caps. The news is operationally positive and consistent with the government's renewables push, but ALTER's scale keeps it a higher-beta, liquidity-constrained holding.

Milestone execution is exactly what a developer should deliver, and the RE tailwind is real. Position sizing is the main caveat given limited float and volatility. We stay NEUTRAL with a positive operational bias.

● STANCE: NEUTRAL*TOP ₱1.65 ▲ +0.61%Topline unit and Singapore's Aesen form an offshore-services venture.

A Topline Business Development unit teamed up with Singapore-based Aesen to form an offshore-services venture, extending the group into higher-value marine and energy-services work. The tie-up brings an overseas partner's expertise and potential access to regional offshore contracts. TOP edged up 0.61% to ₱1.65 against a broadly lower tape, showing relative resilience. The venture is early-stage, so the market will want evidence of order flow before re-rating the name.

Cross-border JVs can open new revenue lines, but this is a story to watch rather than to chase at this point in its development. We stay NEUTRAL pending contract visibility.

● STANCE: NEUTRAL

AP · FGEN · MER · ACEN Energy watchlistPhilippine energy shares in focus as oil surges on a second day of US strikes on Iranian targets.

A jump in crude — WTI +4.55% to $71.91 and Brent +5.64% to $76.23 — followed a second day of US strikes on Iranian targets, raising Middle East supply risk and putting energy names on the desk's radar: AP, FGEN, MER, ACR, VVT, ACEN, CREC, SPNEC, ALTER, REDC and RASLAG. Higher oil is a mixed input for the group — supportive for upstream and certain generators, but a cost and margin headwind for fuel-dependent producers and distribution utilities. Aboitiz Power (AP) closed ₱40.80 with ₱3.58M of net foreign buying, though it remains under a governance overhang tied to the DOE outage review. Meralco (MER) firmed to ₱576 as a defensive utility with pass-through mechanics.

Trade the oil impulse selectively: prefer names with pass-through or hedged fuel exposure over pure fuel-cost takers. AP screens interesting on flow but we keep it on GOVERNANCE WATCH until the outage-review overhang clears; MER stays a defensive MONITOR.

● STANCE: GOVERNANCE WATCH
