GLOBAL MARKETS

Wall Street rallied in the latest session the desk pasted (Dow +3.03%, S&P 500 +1.58%, Nasdaq +1.44%); the desk did not mark the levels as close or live, and the file was saved after the US close. Desk X posts attribute the surge to the Democrats' reported sweep of both chambers in the US midterms, with investors expecting policy gridlock, and to a collapse in crude of more than 8% to below $90 a barrel; they add that US futures had risen and that investors blamed President Trump, the war in Iran and US-Israel ties for Republican losses (X posts, not independently verified). Asia was mixed in the latest session: Shanghai (+2.16%), Vietnam (+1.97%), Australia (+1.76%), Hang Seng (+1.67%), SENSEX (+0.50%) and Jakarta (+0.32%) rose, while the KOSPI (−3.80%), Taiwan (−0.83%) and Malaysia (−0.33%) fell and Singapore was flat (−0.01%); Thailand gained 0.52%. The desk gave no reason for the KOSPI's fall. The Nikkei is not shown because the pasted figure is implausible.

COMMODITIES

Oil fell sharply while metals were mixed. Brent fell 8.67% to $94.62 (the desk pasted the change as +8.98 but the percentage as −8.67%; the level and the desk's crude-collapse posts confirm the direction) and WTI stood at $88.35; the pasted WTI change (+0.26%) conflicts with the 96.60 shown last edition and is not used. Gold rose 0.81% to $4,105.80, silver 0.86% to 52.73 and COMEX copper was flat (−0.02%) at 642.80¢; the priors for gold, silver, copper and cocoa do not tie to last edition, so those moves are indicative. The pasted coal figure (145.20, +31.22%) does not tie to the 149.50 shown last edition and the per-pound nickel change was not supplied, so neither move is shown.

Lower oil is the relevant sensitivity for fuel-heavy names such as PAL, whose loss the desk attributes to fuel costs; PAL rose 8.04% to ₱4.30.

FX & RATES

The peso firmed on the PSE's conversion rate: USD 1 = ₱63.470 applied to Nov 4 trades against ₱63.740 on Nov 3 (a 0.42% peso gain). The desk's USD-PHP and PHL 10-year cells both read 8.334, which cannot be a peso rate, so neither is shown. The US 10-year yield eased 2.9bp to 4.864% (prior 4.893 vs 4.943 shown last edition). USD-JPY fell 0.19% to 158.13, USD-CNY rose 0.07% to 6.6748 and EUR-USD rose 0.17% to 1.1247.

PHILIPPINES STRATEGY

A bank-led rebound lifts the PSEi back to the middle of its week-long range. The PSEi gained 70.75 points to 5,694.92, reversing Nov 3's 56.18-point drop, but it remains below the Oct 29 close (5,705.58) and the Nov 3 open (5,708.03), the levels that capped the last four sessions. The advance rested on one sector: Financials rose 3.82% on ₱1.39B while the equal-weighted PSEi-30 gained only 0.47% and decliners outnumbered advancers 97 to 94. Foreigners returned as net buyers (+₱483.9M), concentrated in four names (BDO, BPI, URC, MBT: +₱655.2M combined).

What the tape shows

- Earnings season is steering flows. BDO's 3Q26 results (per the desk's X post) coincided with a +₱274.9M foreign buy, and the other large banks rose with it; the desk supplied no news for BPI, MBT or URC, so the reason for their buying is not stated.
- Narrow, not broad. Cap-weighted +1.26% against equal-weighted +0.47%; 13 of 30 PSEi-30 names fell, led by PLUS (−7.29%), DMC (−3.06%) and GLO (−1.96%). Holding Firms (−1.07%) and Property (−0.25%) lagged.
- Foreign flow turned, but is selective. After −₱258.8M on Nov 3, net buying of +₱483.9M still included GLO (−₱145.2M), PX (−₱74.1M) and JFC (−₱42.3M) as the heaviest sales.
- Macro calendar (desk): BSP Governor Remolona says the central bank is still in a tightening cycle (policy rate 5.5%; next decision Dec 17); the Philippines sells ₱30B of 6.625% 2033 bonds on Nov 4 (result not supplied); 3Q GDP is due Nov 9; 3Q rough rice output fell 17.8% YoY, the lowest for the period since 2019.

Risks to watch (desk items, not verified)

- Policy rate path: the desk's read that BSP is still tightening is a headwind for rate-sensitive Property (−0.25%), which lagged the rally.
- Oil and US politics: the desk's X posts tie the US rally and the oil drop to the midterm outcome; both could reverse, and the KOSPI's −3.80% shows regional dispersion.
- Concentration: the index gain depended on a handful of heavyweights; a pause in bank buying would leave the equal-weighted picture exposed.

LEARN — READING A BANK'S QUARTERLY RESULTS

The concept. A bank earns by lending at higher rates than it pays on deposits, so three numbers tell you most of the story: loan growth (how fast the balance sheet is expanding), the NPL ratio (the share of loans not being repaid, a measure of loan quality) and book value per share (what the equity is worth per share). Price-to-book is the share price divided by book value per share, the standard yardstick for valuing a bank. Compare profit growth with loan growth, and the first-nine-month total with the full-year consensus.

BDO 3Q26 (desk X post)	Reported	What it tells you
Net income, 3Q26	₱22.89B (+2% YoY; +11% QoQ)	Steady growth; the quarter was stronger than 2Q
Net income, 9M26	₱63.6B (+0.8% YoY)	About 74% of full-year consensus, near the 75% straight-line pace
Gross customer loans	₱4.1T (+16% YoY)	Balance sheet growing much faster than profit
NPL ratio	1.60% (1.77% a year earlier)	Loan quality improving
Book value per share	₱123.60 (+6%)	At ₱121.90, price-to-book is 0.99x

Why it matters today. Financials rose 3.82% on a day when BDO, BPI and MBT drew ₱541.4M of the ₱483.9M net foreign inflow (the remainder of the market was net sold). Loans growing 16% while 9M profit grew 0.8% is the kind of gap to question: the answer usually lies in margins, provisions or funding costs, which the desk's post does not detail.

How to use it. (1) Check whether 9M profit is tracking the full-year estimate (about 75% after three quarters). (2) Read the NPL ratio's direction before its level. (3) Compare price-to-book with the bank's own history and its peers rather than with other sectors. (4) Treat loan growth well above profit growth as a prompt for questions, not a verdict. Takeaway: a bank's results are read as a set; one strong number (here, loan quality) does not confirm the rest. Further reading: search Investopedia for "price-to-book ratio" and "non-performing loan".
