US stocks fell sharply on Monday, May 4, reversing Friday's record-setting gains as escalating Middle East tensions sent oil prices surging and reignited fears of sticky global inflation. The Dow Jones Industrial Average shed 557 points (-1.13%) to close at 48,941.90 — its steepest single-day decline in weeks. The S&P 500 fell 0.41% to 7,200.75 and the Nasdaq slid 0.19% to 25,067.80. All three indices had posted fresh all-time highs on Friday, May 1, driven by Apple's strong fiscal Q2 earnings beat and optimism on Iran peace talks. The reversal was swift: on Monday, the UAE intercepted Iranian missiles for the first time since the ceasefire began, confirmed a fire at its Fujairah oil hub, and a tanker was struck by drones near the Strait of Hormuz. Iran also warned it would target any US forces approaching the Strait.

Brent crude surged 5.8% to $114.44/bbl and WTI jumped 4.39% to $106.42/bbl, levels not seen since mid-2022. Energy stocks were the only S&P 500 sector to gain on the day (+0.6%). US 30-year Treasury yields crossed the 5% mark — a yearly high — as elevated energy prices deepened inflation fears and raised expectations that the Federal Reserve may keep rates elevated longer, or tighten further. Gold fell toward $4,573/oz (-1.55%), weighed by rising real yields, while Bitcoin held near $78,500. Palantir Technologies was a bright spot, surging on record Q1 revenue and profit, and OpenAI raised over $4 billion from investors.

Project Freedom launched: Two US-flagged merchant vessels successfully transited the Strait of Hormuz on Monday, escorted by guided-missile destroyers USS Frank E. Peterson and USS Michael Murphy — the first major success of the newly launched US operation to restore commercial navigation through the contested waterway. President Trump said the US will guide ships through Hormuz amid fresh tensions. Meanwhile, GameStop made a $56 billion bid for eBay (four times its own market cap) and AMD shares hit a $587.82 billion market-cap milestone before traders took profits.

Asian markets on Monday, May 4, were broadly positive at the open, largely pre-pricing the US equity record highs from Friday. South Korea's KOSPI surged 5.12% to 6,936.99 as Samsung Electronics and SK Hynix hit record intraday highs on US tech earnings enthusiasm. Japan and mainland China were closed for Golden Week and Labour Day holidays respectively. The ASX 200 dipped 0.37% to 8,697.10. Hang Seng edged +1.26% to ~25,943. South Korea's won led most Asian currencies higher on the day, with its central bank signaling potential interest rate hikes amid rising inflation and robust growth. Indonesia and the Philippines are both due to release Q1 GDP figures this week.

Gold prices trending lower: Russia, Turkey, Bulgaria, Kyrgyzstan, Azerbaijan, and the Philippines are selling gold reserves to reduce fiscal deficits, manage currency pressures, and navigate broader financial instability — a trend that has pushed gold down ~13% from its late-January all-time high of ~$5,595/oz even as geopolitical risk remains elevated.

PSE MARKET SUMMARY — Monday, May 4, 2026

The PSEi rebounded strongly on Monday, gaining 108.52 points (+1.86%) to close at 5,942.16 — its best session in weeks — as institutional and foreign buying surged on the back of ICTSI's blowout Q1 earnings (+22.6% net income) and broad buying interest across Industrials, Services, and Holding Firms. Market breadth was firmly positive: 102 advances vs. 91 declines and 66 unchanged. Total value traded reached approximately ₱6.52 billion (Grand Total incl. block sales). Overseas investors turned net buyers, posting +$5.541M / ₱341.56M in net foreign buying — a welcome reversal after heavy selling in April.

Sectoral performance: Services surged +4.35% (led by ICT and CEB), Industrials +1.04%, Holding Firms +0.90%, Financials +0.43%, Property +0.40%. Mining & Oil lagged -0.10%. ICT (ICTSI) surged 6.06% to ₱753, registering a 52-week high and leading the PSEi's recovery. SGP (Synergy Grid & Development Phils.) jumped 5.26% to ₱24.00 on grid infrastructure buying. PLUS (DigiPlus) soared 9.72% to ₱14.90 with the highest %chg among PSEi components, likely driven by gaming sector re-rating. MYNLD (Maynilad) hit a 52-week high at ₱22.90.

ICT — ICTSI — Q1 Profit Climbs 22.6% on New Terminal Contributions ₱753.00 +6.06%	ACCUMULATE
Razon-led International Container Terminal Services, Inc. (ICTSI) reported a 22.56% increase in Q1 attributable net income to $293.57 million (recurring net income up 29% to $308.27 million, excluding a non-recurring charge from the sale of its Yantai terminal in China). Gross revenues surged 28.94% to $961.11 million, driven by the Durban Gateway Terminal (South Africa) and Batu Ampar Container Terminal (Indonesia), which were both added to the portfolio in late 2025. Container throughput rose 18% to 4.08 million TEUs. EBITDA grew 26% to $617.87 million. Capital expenditures for 2026 are pegged at $740 million, allocated to expansions at MICT and Manila North Harbor in the Philippines, as well as projects in Mexico, Brazil, and the DRC. At the stock exchange on Monday, ICTSI shares surged ₱43 or 6.06% to ₱753, registering a 52-week high on the back of the earnings release. (Sources: BusinessWorld, Philstar, Hellenic Shipping News) ICTSI's Q1 results are a clear beat — double-digit growth across revenues, EBITDA, and net income in an environment where many peers are navigating Hormuz disruptions by rerouting ships through terminals in ICTSI's broader network. The company's geographic diversification across six continents is proving to be a structural moat rather than just geographic spread. With Philippine terminal expansions at MICT and SLCT (Batangas) proceeding on schedule, ICTSI is positioning its domestic operations as a gateway to capture any Hormuz-driven trade rerouting through Southeast Asia. The 6.06% single-session surge reflects institutional recognition of this earnings quality. For JGS shareholders, ICTSI remains the highest-quality earnings engine within the Summit group. Stance: ACCUMULATE — Blowout Q1 with 22-29% NI growth; geographic diversification is a structural edge. Hormuz rerouting dynamics favor ICTSI's multi-continental portfolio. 52-week high confirms momentum.
MER — Meralco — Q1 Core NI +2% to ₱11.43B; CAPEX Commitment ₱19.5B ₱649.50 -0.38%	ACCUMULATE
Meralco (Manila Electric Co.) reported Q1 2026 net income of ₱10.83 billion, with core net income rising a modest 2% to ₱11.43 billion (from ₱11.17 billion in Q1 2025). Revenues reached ₱120.78 billion. Basic EPS came in at ₱9.61. The company invested ₱19.5 billion in capital expenditure during the quarter — a significant commitment to grid reliability during a declared State of National Energy Emergency. Meralco is primarily owned by Metro Pacific Investments (45.5%), JG Summit Holdings (26.40%), PCD Local & Foreign (14.8%), San Miguel Corp (4.13%), and First Philippine Holdings (3.94%). The stock eased 0.38% to ₱649.50 on Monday. (Source: BusinessWorld, May 5) Meralco's 2% core NI growth in Q1 reflects the structural challenge facing the Philippines' largest electricity distributor: rising generation costs driven by the Hormuz blockade and the declared energy emergency, which are straining its ability to recover costs through the retail electricity supply framework. The ₱19.5B quarterly CAPEX signals that Meralco is doubling down on grid infrastructure — a necessary investment given the intensity of the current energy crisis. With summer demand at peak and PAGASA warning of possible El Niño conditions by midyear, MER faces near-term earnings pressure from higher system losses and generation costs. However, the stock's defensive characteristics — regulated returns, essential utility nature, and the multi-conglomerate ownership structure providing implicit balance sheet support — keep it in the accumulate range for long-term portfolios. Key upside risk: a Hormuz ceasefire that relieves LNG import costs. Key downside risk: further generation cost pass-through delays by ERC. Stance: ACCUMULATE — Regulated utility with essential infrastructure mandate. Near-term pressure from energy emergency costs. Long-term accumulation case on grid expansion cycle. Watch ERC decisions on cost recovery.
RRHI — Robinsons Retail — Q1 Core NI +6.2%; ₱2 Dividend + Tender Offer Exit ₱48.00 +1.69%	TENDER

Robinsons Retail Holdings, Inc. (RRHI) reported Q1 2026 core net earnings of ₱1.32 billion (+6.2%), on net sales of ₱52.76 billion (+10.3%) — demonstrating the underlying health of its multi-format retail operations despite higher financing costs. Attributable net income declined 35.66% to ₱489 million due to interest expenses from the acquisition financing and equity investment losses. The board declared a ₱2 per share cash dividend (~₱2.13 billion), to be paid ahead of the company's voluntary delisting. Combined with JE Holdings' ₱48.30/share tender offer — backed by a fairness opinion from FTI Consulting — total proceeds for tendering shareholders reach ₱50.30/share. The PSE delisting process is proceeding. RRHI closed Monday at ₱48.00, up 1.69%. (Sources: BusinessWorld, GMA News, Inquirer)

RRHI's Q1 core earnings demonstrate that the underlying retail business is performing well, with 10.3% net sales growth outpacing most peers. The tender offer structure is straightforward: ₱2 cash dividend plus ₱48.30 tender offer = ₱50.30/share total proceeds for tendering shareholders, representing a clear premium to the current market price of ₱48.00. With the PSE delisting proceeding as planned, shareholders who do not tender will face illiquidity risk post-delisting. For JGS shareholders, the RRHI exit frees capital to be redeployed within the Gokongwei group. The key question is the tender offer timeline vs. investors' opportunity cost on capital.

Stance: TENDER — Total proceeds of ₱50.30/share (₱2 dividend + ₱48.30 tender) provide a clear and measurable exit. Tender timeline vs. opportunity cost is the primary consideration. Post-delisting holders face illiquidity.

MEG — Megaworld — Q1 Net Income +6% to ₱6.18B; Township Model Delivers ₱2.09 +0.48%

ACCUMULATE

Megaworld Corporation reported a 6% increase in Q1 2026 net income to ₱6.18 billion (from ₱5.83 billion), while consolidated revenues reached ₱21.6 billion (+3.3% YoY). Attributable net income rose 3.88% to ₱5.29 billion. All core segments posted growth: leasing revenues grew 6% to ₱5.6 billion (Megaworld Lifestyle Malls +9% to ₱1.8B; Premier Offices +4% to ₱3.8B); hotel revenues rose 8% to ₱1.5 billion on higher room rates and MICE activity; and real estate sales held steady at ₱13.3 billion (+15% QoQ). The company inaugurated the Mactan Expo convention center during the quarter and will rebrand the Grand Westside Hotel as a Mövenpick property. Megaworld targets 3 million sqm of GLA by 2030, with ₱65 billion in 2026 CAPEX for 19 residential project launches. (Sources: BusinessWorld, Philstar, GMA News)

Megaworld's Q1 results confirm that its township model is delivering stable, compounding growth in a challenging macro environment — exactly the defensive profile that earns premium valuations in a high-rate, energy-squeezed cycle. The 6% NI growth is modest but sequential improvement (+15% QoQ real estate sales) and the upcoming Mövenpick rebranding signal momentum in the hospitality segment. At ₱2.09, Megaworld trades at a significant discount to book value and peer multiples. JGS shareholders are indirect beneficiaries of this performance. The key risk remains office leasing demand resilience if BPO sector growth moderates on AI-driven displacement concerns.

Stance: ACCUMULATE — Stable township model delivering broad-based growth across leasing, hotel, and residential segments. Defensive compounding story at a discount valuation. Watch BPO demand trends for office segment.

PX — Philex Mining — Q1 Net Loss Widens on Padcal Disruptions; Silangan Nears Launch ₱9.15 +2.75%	MONITOR
Pangilinan-led Philex Mining Corp. posted a consolidated net loss of ₱592 million in Q1 2026, reversing a profit from the same period last year. Core net loss was ₱281 million (vs. +₱71M in Q1 2025). The setback stemmed from a structural failure in the Secondary/Tertiary Crushing Plant at Padcal, which slashed ore processing by 42% to 931,000 tonnes. Gold output fell sharply to 2,227 ounces and copper to 1,869 pounds. Revenues reached only ₱1.08 billion against ₱1.42 billion in operating costs. The company noted that the average realized gold price surged 92% YoY to $4,960/oz, which partially cushioned the impact of lower production. Restoration work at Padcal is complete, and throughput is expected to normalize in May 2026. Separately, the Silangan Project (underground mine and TSF substantially complete as of end-April) is targeting first metal production within 2026. (Sources: Tribune, Context.ph) Philex's Q1 loss was a structural disruption event, not a demand signal — the Padcal crushing failure was a one-off equipment failure, and repairs are confirmed complete. With gold prices elevated near $4,573/oz and copper firm, the recovery potential into Q2 is meaningful once throughput normalizes. The more transformative catalyst is the Silangan Project, which — if it achieves first metal production in 2026 as guided — will represent a step-change in Philex's production profile and earnings capacity. For MPIC-affiliated shareholders, Philex (alongside PLDT) is one of First Pacific's key Philippine subsidiaries. The 2.75% Monday rally in PX reflects the market looking through the Q1 loss toward the Silangan upside. Key risk: Silangan commissioning delays. Stance: MONITOR — Q1 loss was event-driven (Padcal equipment failure), not structural. Recovery in May as throughput normalizes. Silangan first metal production is the transformative catalyst to watch in 2026.
ACEN — ACEN — ₱850M Loan Extended for Zambales BESS; P80B CAPEX Program Intact ₱2.78 -2.11%	MONITOR
ACEN Corp. has extended a short-term loan of up to ₱850 million to Palauig Solar 1 Inc., the project company behind the 140-megawatt-hour (MWh) Palauig 1 battery energy storage system (BESS) in Palauig, Zambales. The BESS will be integrated with the existing 63-MW Palauig Solar 1 plant, allowing excess daytime solar generation to be dispatched in the evening — directly addressing grid intermittency during the current energy emergency. ACEN has also sought clearance from DENR for a ₱26 billion solar plus BESS expansion in Zambales. For 2026, ACEN has allocated over ₱80 billion in CAPEX, primarily for domestic renewable capacity expansion. The Ayala Group's listed energy platform has approximately 7 GW of attributable renewable capacity. ACEN fell 2.11% to ₱2.78 on Monday, consistent with broader energy-sector caution amid elevated oil prices. (Sources: BusinessWorld, Philstar) ACEN's Zambales BESS investment is directionally aligned with the government's State of National Energy Emergency response — battery storage is the key enabling technology for the Philippines' renewable energy scaling program. The ₱850M loan is small relative to ACEN's ₱80B CAPEX program but signals execution velocity on the energy storage roadmap. The stock's Monday decline reflects energy market uncertainty (Hormuz disruptions, elevated oil prices) creating near-term headwinds for renewable economics. ACEN's long-term thesis — as the Ayala Group's clean energy platform with significant Philippine and Southeast Asian RE assets — remains intact, but the near-term earnings environment is challenging following the 2025 NI decline of 60% due to weak electricity prices and offline wind assets. Stance: MONITOR — BESS investments aligned with national energy emergency response. Near-term earnings under pressure from 2025 legacy (weak elec prices, offline wind). Long-term RE platform story intact. Watch electricity pricing recovery.

LAND / CDC — City & Land — Trading Suspended Ahead of Merger with Cityland Development Corp. —	GOVERNANCE WATCH
City & Land Developers Inc. (LAND) has been placed under trading suspension by the PSE ahead of its planned merger with its parent company, Cityland Development Corp. (CDC), with CDC as the surviving entity. The merger was approved by shareholders of both companies and is subject to SEC and Philippine Competition Commission clearances. Under the plan, CDC will issue 1.39 billion primary common shares to LAND stockholders at an exchange ratio of 0.88 CDC share per LAND share. The deal is structured as a share swap aimed at streamlining operations, eliminating duplication of functions, and achieving cost savings across the two real estate companies. Upon completion, LAND will cease to exist as a separate legal entity and its shares will be permanently delisted from the PSE. (Source: BusinessWorld, May 5, 2026) The LAND-CDC merger is a straightforward internal restructuring — both companies share common directors and a common real estate development focus, and the consolidation simplifies a dual-listed structure that adds no meaningful strategic differentiation. The exchange ratio of 0.88 CDC shares per LAND share was determined after a company study and validated by an independent third-party adviser. Shareholders who do not participate in the share swap will face illiquidity once LAND is delisted. CDC (as the surviving entity) inherits LAND's ongoing projects including One Hidalgo (Malate) and One Taft Residences — adding scale to its existing City North Tower and Pioneer Heights pipeline. Stance: GOVERNANCE WATCH — Orderly merger proceeding; exchange ratio validated. LAND shareholders should evaluate the swap ratio vs. CDC's post-merger value. Illiquidity risk post-delisting for holders who miss the swap window.
MPI (unlisted); GTCAP — Cavitex C5 Link Segment 3B — Toll Collection Starts Today (May 5) N/A	MONITOR
Effective today, May 5, 2026, the Toll Regulatory Board (TRB) has authorized Metro Pacific Tollways Corp. (MPTC) to begin toll collection on Segment 3B of the Manila-Cavite Expressway (Cavitex) C5 Link, the final piece connecting Sucat Road in Parañaque City to C5 Road in Taguig City. Toll rates: ₱59 (Class 1), ₱117 (Class 2), ₱176 (Class 3) for the Sucat-Taguig segment; ₱97–₱291 for Taguig to Roxas Boulevard or Zapote. The 2-km Segment 3B opened toll-free on March 30 and has served approximately 9,000 motorists daily during the free period. The full Cavitex C5 Link completion cuts travel time between Parañaque and Taguig from 90 minutes to 15 minutes, strengthening the logistics corridor between Cavite's industrial hubs and Metro Manila's commercial centers. MPTC is the tollways unit of Metro Pacific Investments Corp. (MPIC). (Sources: BusinessWorld, Context.ph, AutoIndustriya) For MPIC shareholders, today's toll collection commencement is a clean inflection point for Segment 3B revenue generation. With 9,000 daily vehicles already using the route during the free period, the ramp-up in toll revenue should be relatively immediate. The Cavitex C5 Link completion also reinforces MPIC's tollway portfolio's strategic value — the expressway is now a critical piece of Metro Manila's south-north arterial infrastructure. Given elevated fuel prices from the Hormuz crisis, toll road utilization may moderate slightly (cost-conscious commuters), but the route's significant time savings should sustain demand. This is a positive revenue inflection for MPIC's tollways segment heading into Q2 2026. Stance: MONITOR — Positive revenue inflection for MPIC's tollways segment. Cavitex C5 Link completion adds recurring toll revenue. Watch daily traffic ramp-up vs. baseline 9,000 vehicle count during free period.

INTL — Operation Epic Fury — Hormuz Escalation, UAE Strike, Project FreedomMACRO ALERT

Iran launched missile and drone strikes on the UAE on Monday, May 4 — the first such attacks in weeks — hitting key sites including Fujairah and shattering the fragile ceasefire. The UAE intercepted multiple cruise missiles and confirmed a fire at its Fujairah oil hub; South Korea reported an explosion on a vessel in the Strait of Hormuz. These developments represent the sharpest escalation in the US-Iran conflict since Operation Epic Fury commenced in late February 2026. In response, Brent crude surged ~5% to top $114/bbl and US 30-year Treasury yields crossed 5%, reigniting fears of "sticky" global inflation. President Trump's Project Freedom — the initiative to escort commercial vessels through the Strait — achieved its first milestone, with two US-flagged ships successfully transiting under destroyer escort. However, Tehran warned it would target US forces approaching the strait, deepening the operational risk. For the Philippines, the Hormuz blockade remains the dominant macro risk: elevated energy import costs, a declared State of National Energy Emergency, peso at record lows, and mounting inflation pressure.

Stance: MACRO HEADWIND — Hormuz escalation deepens supply-side inflation shock. Defensive positioning in energy self-sufficiency (SGP, AP, SPNEC), utilities (MER, MWC, MYNLD) and value retail (PGOLD) recommended. Oil-exposed importers (FGEN, CNPF, airlines) remain under pressure.

MACRO — PHL & Indonesia Q1 GDP Due This Week; April Inflation WatchMACRO ALERT

Both the Philippines and Indonesia are scheduled to release first-quarter 2026 GDP figures this week — a critical data point for investors assessing whether domestic economic momentum can sustain itself against the energy price shock. Economists expect Philippine April inflation to hit a 3-year high as oil and food prices continue to surge from the Hormuz disruption. The March trade gap had already widened to its widest in 6 months, agricultural output likely contracted in Q1, and infrastructure spending declined in February. The peso, which has been under sustained pressure from energy import costs and risk-off sentiment, traded near ₱61.49/$ as of Monday's DQR data. Meanwhile, South Korea's won led Asian currency gains after the BOK signaled possible rate hikes — a sign that energy-driven inflationary pressures are forcing central banks across the region to tighten posture. The Philippines' BSP remains in a delicate position: raising rates risks crushing domestic demand, while inaction risks further peso weakness and imported inflation.

Stance: MACRO WATCH — Q1 GDP data this week will define the depth of the Hormuz shock on domestic growth. Stagflationary risk elevated: rising inflation + weakening peso + fiscal pressure = challenging backdrop for rates-sensitive names. Watch BSP signaling.
