ACTIONABLE HIGHLIGHTS · THE CALL

The market broke down: PSEi -0.61% to 6,061.81 (-37.42) toward the 6,000 line, on the worst breadth of the run — 51 advancers vs. 144 decliners. Mining & Oil crashed -3.27% as gold/copper retraced, and foreigners sold a genuine ~₱1.0B net (the heaviest of this run), with the banks the casualty — BDO -₱165M, MBT -₱146M. A one-off ₱25.8B FGEN block (delisting) inflates the day's totals — see below.

CAUTION — BREAKDOWN, RATES & THE FGEN BLOCK

- Banks (BDO / MBT) — The clearest casualties of a record-low peso (₱62.71) and a PHL 10-yr at a new-high 7.47%: BDO -₱165.4M and MBT -₱145.7M foreign, both down. Avoid the sector while the yield/FX vise tightens.
- FGEN (delisting block) — Regular shares crashed -11.9% to ₱23.70 on the confirmed delisting option, while a ₱25.77B block (715.9M sh) crossed at ₱36.00 — a controlling-stake transfer, not a broad minority tender. Avoid the regular market until tender terms are clear.
- Level — Breadth 51/144 and ~₱1.0B of real foreign selling put the 6,000 support squarely in play; a decisive break opens our 5,800 objective.

MONITOR — A MIXED SETUP INTO MONDAY

- Oil relief — WTI -3.0% and Brent -3.4% eased off their spike (Saudi Petrolina shut, but crude fell Friday) — a relief for a fuel-importer, though Middle-East risk stays elevated.
- AT (Atlas Mining) — Fell -7% to ₱21.50 as copper slid on US refined-copper-tariff uncertainty; foreign turned seller (-₱15.5M) after four buy-days. The Dominion/Tampakan vote is TODAY (14 Sep) — hold into the binary.
- ICT — Still the largest active name but foreign buying faded to +₱188.5M (from +₱500-628M). The single-name prop is normalising — don't rely on it to hold the index.

ACCUMULATE — SELECTIVE, ON REVERSALS

- ALI / AC — Foreign flow reversed to buying — ALI +₱69.7M (close +2.4% to ₱15.06) and AC +₱8.6M — after days of heavy selling. Tentative accumulate on the Ayala flow turn; watch for follow-through.
- APX — Foreign kept buying (+₱75.0M) and gold recovered +0.95% toward $4,400 on its safe-haven bid. Accumulate on dips, but take profits into strength near the ₱23 target.
- Energy (SMC / MER) — SMC +1.3% to ₱62.80; the US pledged to back major PHL LNG and nuclear projects (countering China) — a structural tailwind for energy/infra.

SESSION DASHBOARD

PSEi Close	6,061.81	-37.42 (-0.61%)
Intraday Range	6,042.86 – 6,103.42	52-wk: 5,584.35 – 6,673.61
Breadth (A / D / U)	51 / 144 / 54	Worst breadth of the run · Traded 249 · Trades 90,230
Total Volume / Value	1.55B sh · ₱32.70B	≈ ₱6.9B ex the ₱25.8B FGEN block
Foreign Buying / Selling	₱28.63B / ₱29.63B	Net -₱999.47M (real); gross inflated by the FGEN cross
Block Sales	859.50M shares	₱26.86B — ₱25.77B is one FGEN block (see below)
USD-PHP	₱62.709 (record low)	Peso weaker, 2nd day · DQR ref ₱62.535

The FGEN block (₱25.77B at ₱36.00) is a single delisting-related crossing; stripping it out, market turnover was ≈₱6.9B and the ₱999.5M net foreign SELLING is the real flow signal — the heaviest single-day outflow of this sequence.

GLOBAL MARKETS

Prior close vs. latest close. US staged a late rally as crude plunged intraday (Dow +1.0%); Asia fell sharply on the energy/inflation squeeze. PSEi followed Asia lower.

Crude eased off the spike (WTI back below $100) — a relief for a fuel-importer — after Saudi shut the East–West Petrolina (7Mbbbl/day) on drone attacks; Brent still posted its biggest weekly gain since July. Gold recovered +0.95% on its safe-haven bid; copper was flat but PHL copper names (AT, PX) sank on US refined-copper-tariff uncertainty.

PHILIPPINES STRATEGY

Macro. The domestic picture deteriorated: the peso weakened a second day to a record ₱62.71, the PHL 10-yr climbed to a new run-high 7.47%, and the index broke below 6,100 on the worst breadth (51/144) and heaviest real foreign selling (~₱1.0B) of this sequence. June FDI net inflows were a modest $447M. The offsets are external: crude eased off its spike and gold recovered, and Washington's pledge to back PHL LNG and nuclear projects is a structural energy-security positive.

Where we lean in. We stay defensive with the 6,000 line in play. Avoid the banks (the record-low peso and 7.47% yield are a direct squeeze) and the FGEN regular market (delisting terms unclear after the ₱36 block). We would use the oil relief and gold's safe-haven bid selectively — APX on dips, energy/infra on the US LNG-nuclear backing — and note the tentative reversal of foreign flow into the Ayala names (ALI, AC) as the first constructive signal in days. Atlas' Tampakan vote today is the metals event; hold into it given the copper-tariff overhang. Keep dry powder for a 6,000 test.

*Industrial value ₱27,278.5M is inflated by the ₱25.77B FGEN block; ex-block it was ~₱1.5B. Mining & Oil (−3.27%, −726.7 pts) was the day's worst as gold/copper retraced; Financials (−1.58%) was hit by bank outflows.

FOREIGN FUND FLOW

Net foreign SELLING ₱999.47M — the heaviest real outflow of this run (the gross ₱28.6B/₱29.6B figures are inflated by the FGEN cross). The banks bore the brunt: BDO -₱165.4M and MBT -₱145.7M (-₱311M combined), with SM -₱79.6M. Buying narrowed to ICT, APX, and a reversal into ALL and TEL.

ICT led again but its ₱1,496.5M is down from ₱1,891.8M, and BDO's ₱625.5M reflects heavy foreign-driven selling, not accumulation. FGEN's ₱380.3M is regular-market only — its ₱25.77B block sits under Block Sales.

The ₱25.77B FGEN cross (715.9M sh at ₱36.00, a ~52% premium to the ₱23.70 regular close) is a controlling-stake transfer tied to the delisting — it accounts for ~96% of the day's block value and ~79% of total market turnover, and is the reason grand-total value (₱32.70B) and gross foreign flows (~₱29B) look outsized. CNVRG (₱721.6M) and CREC (₱282.2M) were the other sizeable crosses.

CORPORATE STANCE CARDS

FGEN · A ₱25.8B delisting block at ₱36 — and a –11.9% crash in the open market

First Gen's regular shares collapsed –11.9% to ₱23.70 (from ₱26.90) after the group confirmed a delisting is an option, even as a single ₱25.77B block — 715.9M shares at ₱36.00 — crossed the tape. The block price is a ~52% premium to the regular close, which points to a controlling or affiliate stake transfer rather than a tender open to all minorities; parent FPH also fell (close ₱98).

Analysis. The divergence between the ₱36 block and the ₱23.70 public price is the whole story: a large holder appears to have exited at a negotiated level while minorities, facing the prospect of an illiquid, soon-to-delist stock, sold down. Until a formal delisting tender and its price and mechanics for minority holders are disclosed, the risk is asymmetric to the downside. We avoid the regular market and wait for the tender terms.

Stance: SPECIAL SITUATION · AVOID REGULAR MARKET PENDING TENDER TERMS

Banks (BDO / MBT) · The casualties of a record-low peso and a 7.47% yield

The large-cap banks led the foreign selling: BDO –₱165.4M (close –2.5% to ₱115.10) and MBT –₱145.7M (close ₱63.05), a combined –₱311M, with PNB (–₱21.9M) and CBC (–₱9.1M) adding to it. The backdrop is punishing — the peso hit a record ₱62.71 and the PHL 10-yr rose to a new run-high 7.47%.

Analysis. Rising funding costs, mark-to-market pressure on bond books, and a weakening currency are a direct squeeze on bank earnings and sentiment, and foreign investors are voting accordingly. We stay Avoid on the sector until the peso and the 10-yr stabilise; a durable low in the index likely requires the bank outflows to abate first.

Stance: AVOID

AT · Atlas drops –7% into the Tampakan vote as copper wobbles

Atlas Mining fell –7% to ₱21.50 as Philippine copper names slid on a Reuters report that the White House has yet to decide on refined-copper tariffs; foreign investors turned net sellers of –₱15.5M, the first outflow after four straight buy-days. The Dominion (Sy/Consunji) stake and the Tampakan copper-gold merger go to a shareholder vote today, 14 September.

Analysis. The re-rating thesis is intact but the near term is now binary and headwind-laden: a copper-tariff cloud plus the vote itself. We move to Hold into the event — a clean vote and copper stabilisation would restore the accumulate case with the ₱50 target, while a delay or a soft copper tape argues for patience. Do not add ahead of the result.

Stance: HOLD INTO THE 14 SEP VOTE · PT ₱50

ALI / AC · Foreign flow reverses into the Ayala names

After days of heavy selling, foreign flow turned buyer on the Ayala complex: Ayala Land drew +₱69.7M (close +2.4% to ₱15.06, bucking the down market) and Ayala Corp +₱8.6M. ALI also flagged that flood-risk measures are now built into its projects — a small but relevant resilience signal.

Analysis. This is the first constructive flow signal in the index leaders for several sessions and worth acting on tentatively — the distribution that has weighed on the Ayalas may be exhausting. We move ALI back to a cautious Accumulate on the flow reversal and firmer price, watching for two or three days of follow-through before sizing up.

Stance: ACCUMULATE (TENTATIVE, ON FLOW REVERSAL)

APX · Gold's safe-haven bid keeps foreign buyers engaged

Apex Mining held near ₱18.16 with continued foreign buying of +₱75.0M even as base metals wobbled, supported by gold's +0.95% recovery toward $4,400 on a powerful safe-haven bid amid the energy and rate turmoil.

Analysis. Gold's divergence from copper favours APX over the copper-levered miners (AT, PX) into a tariff-uncertain tape. We keep a selective accumulate-on-dips stance, but with the stock near the ₱23 target and a one-day +₱75M print that may carry passive flow, we would also take profits into strength rather than chase.

Stance: ACCUMULATE ON DIPS · TAKE PROFITS INTO STRENGTH

Energy (SMC / MER) · US LNG-nuclear backing · A structural tailwind amid the energy squeeze

San Miguel rose +1.3% to ₱62.80 as Washington pledged to back major LNG and nuclear-energy projects in the Philippines, explicitly to counter China's supply-chain dominance and regional influence. Meralco was flat at ₱480. Separately, Manila Water (MWC) will raise East-Zone tariffs ₱0.08/cu.m from 1 Oct on a forex adjustment.

Analysis. US backing for LNG and nuclear is a genuine, multi-year positive for domestic energy and infrastructure builders and financiers (SMC, MER, and the power names), reinforcing the energy-security theme in a session otherwise dominated by risk-off. We are constructive on the beneficiaries and would accumulate energy/infra exposure on weakness.

Stance: CONSTRUCTIVE · ACCUMULATE ON WEAKNESS

SMARTWATCH

WEB (PhilWeb)	Shares rose after the JKS investment disclosure; foreign bought +₱10.0M (close ₱15.50). The ₱4.22B B2B-gaming pivot remains the driver — special situation.
MWC	East-Zone tariff up ₱0.08/cu.m from 1 Oct (forex/FCDA adjustment). Razon's Trident Water is the controlling shareholder. MWC closed ₱35.00, foreign −₱7.2M.
TEL	PLDT drew the day's fourth-largest foreign buy (+₱63.2M, close ₱1,152) — consistent with the data-centre-REIT / Maya deleveraging thesis and a defensive-yield bid.
Arthaland FOO	Series H preferred (ALCPH) follow-on: offer ₱500, offer period 14–25 Sep, listing 2 Oct — a fixed-income-style primary raise.
IPO / Brokers	Aznar Shipping filed for a up-to-₱737M IPO (Dec listing). Separately, a higher minimum-capital bar may push smaller brokers to rethink business models (regulatory watch).
Mining flow	Copper names sank on US refined-copper-tariff uncertainty: PX −₱16.4M, AT −₱15.5M, NIKL −₱0.7M foreign. Gold-levered APX (+₱75.0M) diverged.
Buybacks	Share buy-backs flagged in URC, SM and OPM.
