

DA MARKET SECURITIES, INC.

PSEi closes Friday June 5 at 5,938.38 (+0.44%, +26.45 pts) — a week-ending gain powered by a major inflation surprise: PHL May CPI eased to 6.8% from 7.2% in April, quashing fears of an off-cycle BSP rate hike and pushing the index to a session high of 6,000.24. JFC surged +2.48% to PHP 136.30 as CPI relief reactivated consumer sector buying. ACEN was the percentage leader among most-active names, surging +11.3% to PHP 3.45 on PHP 203M value. AEV gained +3.86% to PHP 33.60 on PHP 26.7M net foreign buying. BPI received PHP 63.8M in net foreign inflows. A massive GTCAP block of PHP 705M (1.47M shares @ PHP 479.90) and another PHP 163M tranche (334K shares @ PHP 487) dominated block activity. Meanwhile, Monday June 8 markets open with Wall Street selling off sharply — the Nasdaq plunged 4.77%, its worst day since March, as strong US jobs data reignited Fed rate hike fears. PAL officially confirmed oneworld membership — a defining moment for Philippine aviation.

Monday June 8 Context: US markets sold off sharply on Friday June 5 (US session, after PHL market close): S&P 500 fell -2.64% to 7,383.74, NASDAQ plunged -4.77% to 25,709.43 — its worst one-day decline since March — as stronger-than-expected US jobs data reignited fears of a Fed rate hike before year-end, sending US 10-year Treasury yields to 4.536%. Bond traders now price rising odds of a Fed tightening move. PSEi opens Monday at 5,938 already having priced the PHL inflation relief; the key risk is whether the US rate-hike narrative creates fresh foreign selling pressure on Philippine assets.

GLOBAL MACRO

Wall Street Tumbles — Worst NASDAQ Day Since March: US equities experienced a sharp selloff as June 5 US non-farm payrolls data came in stronger than expected, reigniting fears that the Federal Reserve may need to raise interest rates again before year-end. The NASDAQ plunged 4.77% — its worst single-day drop since March 2026 — as technology stocks bore the brunt of the rate-hike repricing. The S&P 500 fell 2.64% to 7,383.74 and the Dow Jones declined 1.35% to 50,866.78. US 10-year Treasury yields surged to 4.536% from 4.472%. Bond traders now see rising odds of at least one more Fed hike in 2026, which, if realized, would be a further headwind for global risk assets including Philippine equities and REITs.

JPMorgan Upgrades Tesla: JPMorgan raised Tesla from Underweight to Neutral, increasing its December 2027 price target dramatically from USD 145 to USD 475. The bank cited potentially underestimated long-term value in Tesla's autonomous driving, humanoid robotics, and energy storage platforms. This signals growing institutional recognition of AI-adjacent investment themes beyond pure semiconductor plays.

China Escalates Taiwan Patrols; US–Philippines Security Reaffirmed: China escalated naval and air patrols near Taiwan in response to Japan–Philippines joint defense exercises. US Secretary of State Marco Rubio reaffirmed Washington's security commitments to the Philippines, including continued efforts to ensure peace and security in the South China Sea, and pledged support for developing the Luzon Economic Corridor. The US–Philippines strategic partnership remains a geopolitical anchor for investors.

Xi Jinping Visits North Korea: Chinese President Xi Jinping began a two-day state visit to Pyongyang on June 8–9, his first trip in seven years. The visit underscores deepening China–North Korea ties amid North Korea's expanding nuclear program and its closer alignment with Russia. The geopolitical backdrop adds uncertainty to Asian defense and energy markets.

PHILIPPINES STRATEGY

May Inflation Surprise Drives PSEi to 6,000 Intraday — Friday's Key Catalyst. The PSEi's closing gain of 26.45 points to 5,938.38 on Friday June 5 understates what was a more dynamic session: the index hit an intraday high of 6,000.24, briefly touching the psychologically significant 6,000 level for the first time in recent weeks, before retreating on profit-taking. The catalyst was unambiguous: PHL May 2026 CPI eased to 6.8% from April's 7.2%, a downside surprise against consensus estimates that effectively killed off fears of an emergency off-cycle BSP rate hike. The data was released during the session by the Philippine Statistics Authority.

May inflation easing was primarily driven by moderating transport costs — transport CPI slowed to 16.2% from 21.4% in April, with diesel inflation collapsing from 122.7% to 58.5% as recent pump price rollbacks filtered through. However, the YTD average inflation of 4.5% still exceeds the BSP's 2.0–4.0% target band, and rice inflation rose to 15.6% while electricity climbed to 8.9%. The market's reaction was nonetheless decisive: the inflation print "soothed off-cycle rate hike fears" (2TradeAsia.com) and triggered a 1.40% intraday surge before the close moderated to +0.44%.

Market breadth improved markedly from the prior session: 97 advances vs. 84 declines, with 236 issues traded. Net foreign selling narrowed sharply to PHP 103.7M (–USD 1.686M) from PHP 298.9M the prior day — the smallest foreign outflow in five sessions. Total foreign participation of PHP 8.57 billion was healthy. Block trades were dominated by two massive GTCAP transactions totaling PHP 867.8M (1.47M shares @ PHP 479.90 and 334K shares @ PHP 487) — suggesting large institutional repositioning. YTD net foreign selling stands at USD 229.4M, MTD at USD 409.9M. Share buybacks: OPM, FRUIT, SMC, AGI, URC, ALI, SMPH.

Analyst consensus from 2TradeAsia.com: PSEi immediate support at 5,800; resistance at 6,050; secondary resistance at 6,300. The index remains in a downtrend below 6,000. "Moving forward, strong catalysts — particularly ones that point to a further slowdown of inflation and a re-acceleration of economic growth — are needed for the market to break out of its current resistances with conviction." A BSP rate CUT would be the single most powerful catalyst for a sustainable breakout

CORPORATE UPDATES

PAL | PHILIPPINE AIRLINES — JOINS ONEWORLD ALLIANCE AS 16TH MEMBER

Philippine Airlines (PAL), the Philippines' national flag carrier, signed a Memorandum of Understanding (MOU) at the IATA 82nd Annual General Meeting in Rio de Janeiro, Brazil on June 6, 2026, to join the oneworld alliance — becoming the group's 16th member airline and only the second full member based in Southeast Asia (after Malaysia Airlines). PAL Holdings, Inc. President Lucio C. Tan III called it "a defining and transformative moment" for the carrier. The formal integration process is expected to take 12–24 months, with full operational membership anticipated in 2027.

For PAL's passengers, oneworld membership provides access to a global network of nearly 1,000 destinations across 170+ countries and territories, as well as reciprocal elite status recognition, lounge access, priority boarding, and mile-earning/redemption across partner carriers including American Airlines, British Airways, Cathay Pacific, Japan Airlines, Malaysia Airlines, Qantas, and Qatar Airways. PAL adds 31 unique Philippine and international destinations to the oneworld network and currently serves 29 domestic destinations plus 40 international routes across Asia, North America, Australia, and the Middle East. For PSE investors, PAL's oneworld membership is a long-term structural positive for PAL Holdings (PSE: PAL), as it signals the airline's recovery to global-standard operational quality and unlocks codeshare revenue opportunities with some of the world's most profitable carriers.

ACEN | ACEN CORP. — +11.3% SESSION SURGE; 52-WEEK HIGH TERRITORY

ACEN Corp. (ACEN) was the percentage standout of the June 5 session, surging +11.3% to PHP 3.45 on PHP 203.8 million in turnover — the fifth-most active stock of the day. The stock touched an intraday high of PHP 3.45 (matching the close) after opening at PHP 3.10 and hitting a low of PHP 3.08, suggesting broad and sustained buying throughout the session. Net foreign buying of PHP 548,880 was modest but positive, with the bulk of buying likely domestically driven. The move came in the context of the May CPI surprise (6.8%), which reduced fears of an additional BSP rate hike — a direct positive for renewable energy developers like ACEN that carry significant capital expenditure programs financed partly through local debt.

ACEN is Ayala Corp.'s listed renewable energy subsidiary and one of the Philippines' largest RE developers with an installed and committed capacity of approximately 4.0 GW across solar, wind, hydro, and geothermal projects. The company is pursuing an aggressive target to become carbon-neutral by 2025 and has an international RE portfolio spanning Australia, Indonesia, Vietnam, and India. The Iran–US crisis-driven acceleration of energy transition is a long-term structural tailwind for ACEN's business model. RSI should be monitored as the stock approaches overbought territory after an 11%+ single-session move.

● ACCUMULATE on pullbacks — Inflation relief + energy transition tailwinds; monitor RSI post-surge | ACEN @ PHP 3.45

JFC | JOLLIBEE FOODS — +2.48% INFLATION CATALYST; OVERSOLD RSI RECOVERY

Jollibee Foods Corp. (JFC) closed June 5 at PHP 136.30 (+2.48% from PHP 133.00), with PHP 246.6 million in turnover, benefiting directly from the May CPI relief as consumer sector equities re-rated on reduced rate hike fears. Net foreign selling was minimal at PHP 282,473 — essentially flat — suggesting the move was largely domestically driven. JFC's weekly RSI at 29.82 (oversold) from the prior session is now recovering as price action improves. The stock has now recovered approximately 7.4% from its MSCI-forced 52-week low of PHP 126.90 on May 29, building a solid base structure. An inflation reading of 6.8% — above target but moderating — is constructive for QSR operators like JFC, as it suggests some relief from the extreme price-level environment that has pressured consumer discretionary spending. If the CPI trajectory continues to moderate toward 5–6% in the coming months, JFC's domestic business should see incremental traffic recovery. The combined thesis — MSCI removal fully priced, RSI oversold, inflation moderating — makes JFC one of the cleanest risk/reward setups in the PSEi.

● ACCUMULATE — RSI recovery underway; inflation relief catalyst; MSCI dip fully absorbed | JFC @ PHP 136.30

TEL / GLO | TELCO SECTOR — FOREIGN COMPETITION FEARS VS. FIBER EXPANSION

PLDT Inc. (TEL) closed June 5 at PHP 1,142 (+0.44%), with net foreign buying of PHP 35.5 million — a partial recovery after the stock lagged the broader market during the week. Analyst commentary from Unicapital Securities noted that TEL "may have come under pressure following disclosure from the DICT that a Japan-based telecom company is looking to enter the Philippines, raising expectations of heightened competition." The analyst placed immediate support at PHP 1,120 and resistance at PHP 1,180, and flagged the stock as potentially oversold at current levels with recovery potential. TEL reported Q1 2026 consolidated revenue of PHP 54.91 billion (+2.8% YoY) with attributable net income of PHP 8.87 billion (–1.7% YoY) as higher financing costs weighed on the bottom line.

Globe Telecom (GLO) closed June 5 at PHP 1,680 (–1.18%) with net foreign selling of PHP 17.5 million. The company announced the expansion of community-based broadband centers across the Visayas — including Aklan, Capiz, Antique, Samar, Leyte, Bohol, and Cebu — as part of its Globe At Home push to widen fiber access in underserved provincial markets. Globe Q1 2026 attributable net income fell 20% year-on-year to PHP 5.55 billion, affected by higher financing costs and the absence of one-off gains, even as core data revenues grew strongly. The Visayas fiber expansion aligns with Globe's provincial growth strategy as internet demand continues to grow outside Metro Manila.

MER | MERALCO — RSI 26.85 OVERSOLD; REVENUE +5.5% BUT MARGIN PRESSURE

Meralco (MER) closed June 5 at PHP 556 (–1.78%) with PHP 173.2M in turnover and net foreign selling of PHP 54.3M. Weekly RSI has compressed to 26.85 — deeply oversold territory. The company reported revenue growth of 5.5% in the most recent period, partly offset by expenses rising 7.2%, resulting in slower 2.0% net profit growth. Attributable earnings and EPS grew by approximately 3.7%, reflecting continued earnings expansion despite margin pressure from higher operating costs. At RSI 26.85, MER technically warrants dip-buy consideration for investors with a medium-term horizon — utility stocks at these RSI levels historically precede meaningful recoveries.

● MONITOR — RSI 26.85 oversold; utility fundamentals intact; revenue growth positive | MER @ PHP 556.00

ALI | AYALA LAND LOGISTICS — PRIORITIZES STABILITY AMID COLD-CHAIN ROLLOUT

Ayala Land Logistics Holdings Corp. (ALLHC) announced it is prioritizing operational stability as it expands its cold-chain logistics infrastructure across the Philippines. The company is rolling out temperature-controlled storage and distribution facilities targeting the food service, pharmaceutical, and retail sectors — high-growth logistics niches underserved by existing providers. ALI closed June 5 at PHP 14.16 (+1.14% recovery from the June 4 52-week low of PHP 13.94), with PHP 109.7M in turnover and net foreign selling of PHP 25.7M. The recovery off the 52-week low is constructive, though selling pressure remains elevated. ALLHC's logistics business represents an emerging value-add within the broader ALI ecosystem as cold-chain demand grows with urbanization.

SEC / PSE | SECURITIES LENDING CLEARANCE TRANSFERRED TO PSE

The Securities and Exchange Commission (SEC) confirmed it is shifting the clearance process for securities lending transactions to the Philippine Stock Exchange (PSE), in a regulatory streamlining move aimed at improving market efficiency. Securities lending — where shares are borrowed by market participants to facilitate short-selling and hedging strategies — has historically been processed through the SEC. The transfer to the PSE places clearance within a more operationally integrated exchange infrastructure, potentially reducing processing time and friction. This follows the PSE's earlier announcement of a market-making framework for exchange-traded products, signaling a broader effort to modernize the Philippine capital market structure. For AREIT and other REIT investors, improved securities lending infrastructure could enhance secondary market liquidity over time.

🟡 MARKET POSITIVE — SEC-to-PSE clearance transfer improves market structure; long-term REIT liquidity positive | PSE @ PHP 210.00

BANKS | APRIL 2026 NET LOANS GREW ROBUSTLY; BPI STRONGEST FOREIGN INFLOW

Philippine banks reported robust net loan growth in April 2026, primarily driven by double-digit expansions in total assets, business credit demand, and consumer lending — a positive indicator for the Financials sector. The data supports the thesis that the domestic credit cycle remains healthy despite elevated interest rates. BPI was the standout in the June 5 session, receiving PHP 63.8 million in net foreign buying — the largest banking sector foreign inflow of the day — as it closed at PHP 94.75 (+1.88%). BDO received PHP 35.4M in net foreign selling, while MBT saw PHP 16.8M in net outflows despite modest volume. The Financials sector outperformed on June 5 (+0.49%), supported by the inflation print easing rate hike fears which compress bank valuation multiples.

🟢 ACCUMULATE — BPI: PHP 63.8M NFB; strong loan growth macro; Financials sector leader | BPI @ PHP 94.75

17 MONDAY JUNE 8 — SESSION PREVIEW & KEY CATALYSTS

Downside Risk: Nasdaq -4.77% and S&P 500 -2.64% on Friday US session (post-PHL close). Strong US jobs data + rising Fed rate hike odds. US 10-year at 4.536%. This combination typically pressures EM equities Monday morning. PSEi support at 5,800; watch for foreign selling re-escalation.

Upside Buffer: PHL May CPI at 6.8% is already priced into the Friday close. BSP signaled no immediate rate action. SmartWatch focus for Monday: ACEN (post-surge consolidation), SGP (overbought RSI), AEV (momentum), ICT, JFC, BPI.

Monday SmartWatch: ACEN, SGP, AEV, ICT, AP, JGS, PGOLD, MONDE, WEB, JGS (dual-watch), AREIT, BPI, MBT, GTCAP.
