GLOBAL MARKETS

Wall Street fell on Friday (Dow −1.23%, S&P 500 −0.52%, Nasdaq −0.21%), after the PSE had closed, so it is the overnight signal for today. A desk line says futures were chopping sideways as tech sought footing after a steep 3% retreat, and that the 10-year Treasury yield was about 4.96% after a sharp 17bp fall; that yield line conflicts with the 4.988% pasted in the table, so treat both as unconfirmed. Asia was mostly firmer on Friday: Jakarta (+0.95%), Shanghai (+0.89%), Vietnam (+0.77%), Hang Seng (+0.69%), KOSPI (+0.30%), Kuala Lumpur (+0.21%), Singapore (+0.13%) and Australia (+0.02%) rose, while the Nikkei (−0.34%) and India's SENSEX (−0.17%) fell. The desk says Asian equities stabilised after early losses as money returned to Chinese and South Korean markets, and that Japanese government bond yields fell on safe-haven buying. Taiwan and Thailand are N/A because their pastes repeat Oct 22 exactly.

COMMODITIES

Oil jumped; gold and silver fell. WTI rose 3.82% to $103.27 and Brent 3.14% to $116.72; the desk calls it a rally toward multi-month highs unseen since April, amid US and Israeli military strategy on Iran and persistent inflation pressure (desk, unverified). Gold fell 1.29% to $4,007.90 and silver 1.92%, while COMEX copper rose 1.71% to 650.75¢. Nickel rose 0.65% to $7.2198 per lb (about $15,917 per tonne); a new Shanghai 1# spot nickel-cathode row fell 1.77% to 18,200.56, with its unit not stated, so it is not comparable with the per-pound row. Corn fell 0.98%, coffee 1.60%, while cocoa (+0.18%), sugar (+0.55%) and wheat (+0.04%) edged up. Several pasted changes imply priors that differ from last edition's levels, so the moves are indicative. Coal (150.70) came with only a −0.30% change.

PHILIPPINES STRATEGY

Rate-sensitive names lead the slide while foreigners keep buying. The PSEi lost a further 0.88% and broke the Oct 22 low, with Property (−1.88%), Holding Firms (−1.52%) and Mining & Oil (−2.12%) the weakest sectors. The desk argues BSP rate increases hurt rate-sensitive developers and REITs through higher capital costs and weaker demand, and help banks early on through wider net interest margins. The tape fits only in part: SMPH (−4.36%), RCR (−2.24%), AREIT (−1.76%) and CREIT (−1.05%) fell, but RLC (+2.41%) and ALI (+0.38%) rose, and Financials were flat (PNB +1.44%, BDO +0.26%, BPI unchanged, MBT −0.41%). Foreigners were net buyers of ₱684.3M for a third day, but ₱450.8M was GCASH; excluding it, issue-level nets were +₱233.5M, with buying in TEL, SMPH, URC and ICT. Regular main-board value was ₱4.53B (₱4.83B including blocks), against ₱8.21B on Oct 22.

What the tape shows

- Property and holdings: Property fell 1.88% (SMPH −4.36%, RCR −2.24%, AREIT −1.76%, CLI −1.53%), Holding Firms 1.52% (SM −3.37%, JGS −1.53%, SMC −1.59%); foreigners nonetheless bought SMPH (+₱66.7M) and sold SM (−₱15.3M).
- Standing house rule: banks stay on watch while the PHL 10-year is above 7% (8.119% today, up 6.4bp). Financials were flat at +0.03%, and foreigners bought BPI (+₱18.3M), PNB (+₱11.8M), MBT (+₱15.0M) and BDO (+₱6.0M).
- GCASH below its offer: ₱6.27 against the ₱6.60 offer price after four sessions, on heavy foreign buying (+₱450.8M) and no blocks; desk X posts cite retail selling after listing issues and elevated borrowing costs as a margin risk (single posts, unverified).

Risks to watch (desk and BusinessWorld items, not verified)

- Rates and the peso: the BSP's 50bp hike to 5.50%, a PHL 10-year at 8.119% and USD-PHP at 63.599 keep funding costs and property valuations in focus.
- Oil and geopolitics: Brent at $116.72, a multi-month high on Iran tensions per the desk, feeds the inflation risk behind the BSP's tightening.
- US earnings week: Amazon, Alphabet and Microsoft report in the week of Oct 26–30, with AI capex and cloud growth in focus after the recent tech retreat (desk).

LEARN — INTEREST RATES AND RATE-SENSITIVE STOCKS: WHY A RATE HIKE HITS SOME SECTORS MORE

The concept. When a central bank raises its policy rate, borrowing costs rise across the economy. Companies that carry heavy debt, or whose customers borrow to buy (developers selling homes, REITs refinancing property loans), tend to feel it first, and higher yields on safe bonds make dividend stocks less attractive by comparison. Banks can benefit early because they re-price loans faster than deposits, widening their net interest margin, but that edge fades if borrowers struggle or loan growth slows. “Rate-sensitive” simply means a stock’s value depends more than average on interest rates.

Rates and rate-sensitive names, Oct 23 (desk and DQR)	Value
BSP policy rate (desk, Oct 22)	5.50% after a 50bp hike
PHL 10-year yield (desk table)	8.119% (+6.4bp from 8.055%)
Property index (DQR)	1,797.00 (−1.88%)
SMPH / RCR / AREIT / CREIT (DQR)	−4.36% / −2.24% / −1.76% / −1.05%
ALI / RLC (DQR)	+0.38% / +2.41% (RLC included a ₱103.6M block)
Financials index (DQR)	1,799.58 (+0.03%)
PNB / BDO / BPI / MBT (DQR)	+1.44% / +0.26% / 0.00% / −0.41%

Why it matters today. The desk names developers and REITs as the losers from a rate hike and banks as early winners. Today’s tape matches that only loosely: most property names fell and Financials held flat, but ALI and RLC rose, so rates are one driver among several. Property was also hit by index-heavy SMPH (−4.36%), where foreigners were still net buyers (+₱66.7M), a reminder that foreign flow and price can disagree for a day.

How to use it. (1) Ask how much debt a company carries and how soon it must refinance. (2) For REITs and dividend stocks, compare the dividend yield with the 10-year government yield: a rising bond yield narrows the gap. (3) For banks, watch loan growth and asset quality, not only margins. (4) Do not expect every property stock to fall on a hike; check each name’s own balance sheet and news. Takeaway: a rate hike is a tailwind for margins at banks and a headwind for borrowers, but the effect varies by company and by timing.
