THE CALL PSEi 6,071.06 ▲ 1.33% (+79.69 pts)

The PSEi rebounded +1.33% (+79.69 pts) to 6,071.06, reclaiming the 6,000 line as a blowout from Micron (+346% revenue, +$22B of customer commitments) reignited the global AI trade and powered an Asian tech surge (Nikkei +4.6%, KOSPI +5.4%). Services led +3.71% as ICT roared back (+5.2% to ₱895) and drew a massive +₱570M of foreign buying. Foreigners turned net BUYERS of ₱40.8M — but the breadth was poor (79 advancers vs 103 decliners) and Mining/Oil cratered -4.82% as gold and nickel names were dumped (PX - ₱103.6M, NIKL -₱34.2M).

Macro eased a touch: the PHL 10Y slipped back below 7% (6.956%) and the peso held ₱61.54, while oil firmed (WTI $71.60) as the Hormuz war-premium kept unwinding. The overhang: Fitch cut the PHL banking-sector outlook to “deteriorating,” pressuring BDO (-₱283M foreign) and the banks (Financials -1.47%).

Where we lean — ICT ACCUMULATE (foreign-flow leader, AI/tech tailwind, but extended); AC ACCUMULATE (+ ₱99M foreign, deep value); AREIT ACCUMULATE (10Y back under 7% helps). Monitors: banks (Fitch downgrade, rising credit costs), gold miners OGP/APX/PX (bullion broke $4,000).

Oil firmed (WTI +2.6% to $71.60, Brent $74.95) even as the Strait of Hormuz war-premium kept unwinding on US-Iran peace progress — supply is suddenly "awash" as cargoes resume. Nickel spiked +10.7%, lifting NIKL's price floor, while gold (~$4,035) sits just above the $4,000 line whose breach triggered the local gold-miner sell-off (OGP, APX, PX).

USD-CNY	6.8111	6.7972	-0.20%
EUR-USD	1.1339	1.1362	+0.20%

A modest relief on rates: the PHL 10Y eased ~7bps back below 7% (6.956%) and the US 10Y slipped to 4.392%, while the peso held flat at ₱61.54 (DQR conversion 61.552). Lower local yields are a small tailwind for equities and REITs after Wednesday's backup.

Foreign Flows — Slim Net Inflow, ICT Does the Heavy Lifting

Foreign buying ₱3.64B vs selling ₱3.60B for a net ₱40.8M inflow — the second inflow this week, but almost entirely ICT (+₱570.0M). Beneath that, the tape was two-sided: AC (+₱99.3M), JFC (+₱57.1M) and DigiPlus (+₱31.9M) were bought, while BDO (−₱283.2M), SMPH (−₱122.4M, on a block), SM (−₱110.5M), PX (−₱103.6M) and BPI (−₱97.3M) were heavily sold. June net selling moderated to ~$410M area; the bank exit reflects the Fitch downgrade.

CORPORATE & SECTOR NEWS

BANKS BDO ₱122 · BPI ₱94.30 · MBT ₱65.65 Fitch cuts PHL bank-sector outlook to “deteriorating”

Fitch Ratings lowered its Philippine banking-sector outlook to “deteriorating” from “neutral,” citing higher credit impairments from slower growth (Q1 GDP a five-year-low 2.8%), elevated inflation, and rapid expansion in unsecured consumer/credit-card lending (~8% of system loans). It cut system loan-growth to 9% (from 12%) and sees credit costs for BDO and Metrobank rising toward ~100bps, with BPI more exposed on lower reserves. Pressure is expected via higher write-offs/provisions rather than a spike in reported NPLs, with a recovery seen in 2027. Foreigns sold BDO – ₱283.2M, BPI –₱97.3M and MBT –₱25.9M; Financials fell –1.47%.

Analysis. This crystallizes the headwind we've been flagging: the rate backup plus a weaker macro now carries a formal outlook cut, and foreigners are voting with their feet (BDO's –₱283M was the day's largest single-name outflow). Margins still benefit from high rates and the big three retain capital flexibility, but near-term EPS faces provisioning drag. We move banks to MONITOR / accumulate-on-weakness — quality franchises at cheaper valuations, but no rush ahead of the 2027 recovery.

Stance: ● Banks — MONITOR / accumulate-on-weakness Outlook cut + foreign exit; provisioning drag near-term, re-rate into 2027.

ICT ₱895.00 (+5.2%) Foreign-flow leader as AI trade reignites; Rio expansion underway

ICT surged 5.2% to ₱895 on ₱1.94B turnover and a massive +₱570.0M of foreign buying — by far the day's largest inflow and effectively the entire market's net buy. The bounce rode the global tech/AI rally (Micron's blowout) and follows this week's expansion of ICTSI's Rio (Brazil) terminal capacity. The two prior sessions had whipsawed (+₱361M, then –₱386M); Thursday decisively reversed the selling.

Analysis. ICT remains the cleanest dollar-earning, globally diversified play on the board, and the return of foreign conviction (+₱570M in a single session) is a strong tell. The caveat is price — the stock is back near its highs after a sharp three-day round-trip, so we'd scale rather than chase. Fundamentals and flows both support accumulation on any pullback toward ₱860–₱870.

Stance: ● ICT — ACCUMULATE Foreign-flow leader + AI/tech tailwind; scale on dips, mind the extended price.

SPNEC ₱1.38 (+3.0%) Advances MGEN-unit merger; MTerra Solar Phase 1 ramping

SP New Energy is advancing a merger with an MGen unit, consolidating the group's solar platform. Its flagship MTerra Solar (2,500 MWp Phase 1) energized its first 250 MW in March 2026, delivering an initial 85 MW of baseload to the Luzon grid via a new 500-kV line; Phase 2 (1,000 MWp) targets 2027. SPNEC rose 3.0% to ₱1.38 on heavy ₱21.4M turnover (foreign –₱3.2M).

Analysis. MTerra is one of the largest solar-plus-storage build-outs in the region, and corporate consolidation with MGen simplifies the structure and funding path. Execution and grid-connection milestones are the key catalysts; the baseload delivery via the 500-kV line is a tangible de-risking step. A long-duration RE growth story for patient capital.

Stance: ● SPNEC — ACCUMULATE (speculative) Mega-solar build-out + MGen consolidation; watch Phase 2 execution.

MER ₱574.00 MSpectrum forms solar JV with Japan's Tokyo Century and JFE

Meralco's solar arm MSpectrum formed a venture with Japanese firms Tokyo Century and JFE to develop solar capacity, deepening MER/MGen's renewables push (after the recent VinEnergy MOU and a 600 MW supply bid). MER eased to ₱574 (foreign -₱19.2M).

Analysis. Japanese partners bring capital and project discipline to MGen's clean-energy expansion — strategically sound and capital-light via the JV structure. As with the prior MOUs, near-term earnings impact is limited; value accrues as projects reach financial close. The distribution franchise remains the steady core.

Stance: • MER — MONITOR / accumulate-on-weakness RE pipeline building via JVs; steady utility core, limited near-term EPS.

TEL ₱1,146.00 ePLDT partners with Vantiq to expand sovereign-AI platform

PLDT's ePLDT tied up with US software firm Vantiq to expand a sovereign-AI platform — real-time, data-resident AI services for government and enterprise — building on its data-center and (planned VITRO REIT) infrastructure. TEL slipped to ₱1,146 with foreign selling of -₱61.6M on the broad large-cap profit-taking.

Analysis. Sovereign AI plays directly to ePLDT's data-center moat and the national digitalization theme; it's a credible, higher-margin growth vector layered on the VITRO deleveraging story. The foreign selling looks like rotation on a risk-on tech day rather than a fundamental shift. We stay constructive on the data-center/AI-infra optionality.

Stance: • TEL — ACCUMULATE-on-weakness Sovereign-AI + VITRO REIT optionality; foreign selling is rotation, not thesis.

SECTOR WRAP Corporate & sector briefs

SM / BDO: SM Investments and BDO led Philippine companies in the Forbes Global 2000 ranking — a reputational marker of scale (SM ₱596, foreign -₱110.5M; AC closed +3.6% to ₱416 on +₱99.3M foreign buy). WEB: PhilWeb held ₱14.50 (foreign +₱5.3M) as the market kept absorbing the Gokongwei vote of confidence. PIZZA: Shakey's (SPAVI) formalized a restructuring — cost cuts, store closures, measured price hikes — against weak consumer spending. SEC / Maharlika: The SEC floated easier bond-issuance rules (capital-markets positive), and Maharlika aims to finish its first oil-storage phase within two years.

Analysis. A constructive corporate backdrop for the index names (SM/BDO global recognition, AC's foreign bid), offset by consumer caution (SPAVI restructuring, “buyers delay purchases” in real estate). The SEC's bond-market reform is a useful medium-term liquidity positive. AC's foreign buying stands out as a deep-value vote.

Stance: • Sector watch — NEUTRAL / AC ACCUMULATE AC foreign bid the standout; consumer names cautious.

GLOBAL Micron reignites the AI trade; oil's war-premium evaporates

Micron reported a 346% revenue jump to $41.46B and EPS of $25.11, plus $22B of locked-in customer commitments — rescuing the tech tape from its valuation-led sell-off and powering an Asian surge (Nikkei +4.6%, KOSPI +5.4%). Meanwhile Brent's wartime gains evaporated as the US and Iran logged peace progress and Hormuz cargoes resumed (“awash in supply”), even as a ship was struck in the strait. Bitcoin fell below $60,000 (lowest since Sep-2024) on option expiry and a weaker debasement trade; gold, silver and BTC are all testing supports. Hong Kong's IPO boom continued (72 listings, HK$154B/$19.6B, +41% YoY).

Analysis. The AI-trade revival is a direct positive for PSEi foreign flows — Thursday's +₱570M into ICT shows how quickly risk-on sentiment imports. But there are no pure-play AI names locally, so the channel is sentiment/flows, which can reverse on the next US tech wobble (Nasdaq's 4th straight down day is a caution). Softer-for-longer oil remains the cleanest macro positive for PHL inflation and the trade balance.

Stance: • Global tone — RISK-ON (tech) AI revival lifts flows; watch for reversal given Nasdaq's losing streak.

AREIT — TECHNICAL & STRATEGY NOTE

AREIT firmed to ₱37.15 (+0.68%) on ₱20.7M turnover, with foreign selling easing to ₱(3.1M) from Wednesday's -₱18.1M. The helpful macro shift: the PHL 10Y slipped back below 7% (6.956%), which restores a little of the yield-spread case for REITs. Price still bases below the Fibonacci retracements, but the tape and the rate backdrop both improved at the margin.

Fibonacci Map (from the prior swing)

Level	Price	Read
2.618 ext	₱53.55	Bull extension target
1.618 ext	₱48.60	Aligns with ₱48.06 house target

0.382	₱42.45	Near-term resistance
Spot	₱37.15	Below all retracements — base zone
Support	₱35.60	House accumulation floor

Strategy. We maintain ACCUMULATE — scale toward ₱35.60 support with a ₱48.06 objective (the 1.618 zone). The yield re-rating thesis gets a little breathing room with the 10Y back under 7%, but it remains rate-path dependent; a sustained move and a reclaim of ₱42.45 (0.382) would be the first technical confirmation. Easing foreign selling is an encouraging near-term tell.
