THE CALL PSEi 5,991.37 ▼ 2.20% (-134.85 pts)

The PSEi broke below 6,000, closing on its low at 5,991.37 (-2.20%) — and it did so even as the region stabilized (KOSPI +3.26%, Hang Seng +0.33%), marking a local, foreign-flow-driven decline. Foreigners sold a net ₱1.04B ($17.1M) — the week's heaviest outflow — led by Services (-4.21%) as ICT round-tripped (-6%, -₱386M after Tuesday's +₱361M) and Financials (-3.08%) as foreigners dumped banks (BDO -₱135.5M, MBT -₱76.5M, BPI -₱43.5M). Property (+0.53%) was the lone gainer on a local bid for ALI (+4.8%).

Macro turned hostile: the peso pierced ₱61.5 (61.541), the PHL 10Y pushed back above 7% (7.028%, +5bps), and commodities were routed (WTI sub-$70, silver -6.7%, gold -2.6%). Catalysts: Gokongwei's ₱2.0B PhilWeb stake; ICTSI Rio terminal expansion; First Gen's nuclear ambition; Meralco's 600MW bid; Emperador's ₱2.4B capex.

Where we lean — ALI ACCUMULATE (bucked the tape, deep value); AREIT ACCUMULATE-on-weakness (but 10Y>7% delays the re-rating); TEL ACCUMULATE-on-weakness (resilient, +foreign). Monitors: banks (yield backup + foreign exit), ICT (whipsawing flows), WEB (don't chase the Gokongwei pop at highs).

COMMODITIES

Commodity	Unit	Prev (6/24)	Latest (6/25)	% Chg

Cocoa	$/MT	4,645.00	4,973.00	+7.06%

Broad commodity liquidation: WTI fell below $70 (-4.2%), Brent -4.6%, and metals were hit hard (silver -6.7%, gold -2.6%, copper -2.5%). Soft oil is a PHL disinflation positive, but the metals rout pressures local miners (NIKL, APX, PX). Cocoa (+7.1%) remains the supply-squeeze outlier.

FX & FIXED INCOME

Instrument	Prev (6/24)	Latest (6/25)	Change
PHL 10Y Bond (%)	6.978	7.028	+5.0 bps

USD-CNY	6.7754	6.8111	+0.53%
EUR-USD	1.1432	1.1339	-0.81%

A clear local headwind: the peso weakened past ₱61.5 (61.541, -0.67%) on broad USD strength (EUR-USD -0.81%, yuan weaker), while the PHL 10Y rose 5bps back above 7% — pressuring equities and rate-sensitive REITs. The US 10Y eased ~7bps to 4.405%, a transatlantic divergence.

CORPORATE & SECTOR NEWS

Stance key: ● Accumulate/Buy ● Monitor/Neutral ● Avoid/Reduce ● Governance Watch ● Tender

WEB ₱14.48 (+6.5%) Gokongwei backs PhilWeb with a ₱2.0B strategic stake

Businessman Lance Y. Gokongwei — acting in his personal capacity, not via JG Summit — will invest ₱2.027B in PhilWeb through a strategic equity placement, subscribing to 159.53M common and 93.84M redeemable preferred shares at ₱8.00 each (a deep discount to the ₱14+ market). PhilWeb will raise its authorized capital to ₱3.6B from ₱2.6B. On completion Gokongwei holds ~10% of common shares, rising to ~15% if the preferred convert. Proceeds strengthen the balance sheet and fund AI-driven gaming technology and compliance systems (risk scoring, transaction monitoring, responsible-gaming tools). WEB jumped 6.5% to ₱14.48 — but foreigners sold ₱43.3M into the pop, and the stock sits on both the 52-week-high and RSI-overbought screens.

Analysis. A high-profile anchor investor is a strong endorsement of WEB's pivot to an AI/compliance gaming-infrastructure model; as systems administrator to Okada, Travellers, NUSTAR, Newport and Hann, WEB offers asset-light exposure to regulated gaming growth (Q1 swung to a ₱13.9M profit on +30% revenue). The ₱8 subscription is dilutive in count but additive to capital and credibility. The caveat is price: the name is extended (52-wk high + overbought) and foreigners used the rally to sell, so we would not chase here.

Stance: ● WEB — MONITOR Endorsement is real, but overbought and at highs — wait for a pullback to engage.

ICT ₱851.00 (−6.0%) ICTSI expands Rio terminal capacity

ICTSI is expanding capacity at its Rio (Brazil) container terminal, extending its global build-out. Despite the growth news, ICT round-tripped violently: after Tuesday's +3.6% / +₱361M foreign-buy surge, it fell ~6% to ₱851 on Wednesday with ₱385.8M of foreign selling — the single biggest drag on the index and the largest outflow of the day. Value was ₱1.84B.

Analysis. The dollar-earning, globally diversified port thesis is intact and the Rio expansion is incrementally positive long-term. But the two-day whipsaw (+₱361M then −₱386M) shows how concentrated and skittish foreign positioning is in the name right now. We move to the sidelines tactically — the fundamentals support accumulation, but we would wait for flow stabilization rather than catch the knife.

Stance: ● ICT — MONITOR / accumulate-on-stabilization Dollar-earner intact; flows whipsawing — let them settle.

FGEN ₱15.54 First Gen eyes nuclear as the Philippines targets a rollout

First Gen is studying nuclear energy as the government advances plans for a domestic nuclear rollout, positioning the Lopez-led generator for a potential role in baseload decarbonization. FGEN closed ₱15.54 near its 52-week low (foreign −₱2.5M).

Analysis. Nuclear is long-dated optionality — years of policy, licensing and capital ahead — so there is no near-term earnings impact, but it signals FGEN's intent to stay relevant in clean baseload as gas economics tighten. The stock is cheap and washed-out; we would treat any nuclear progress as a slow-burn re-rating catalyst rather than a trade. (Part of the broader Lopez-energy governance watch.)

Stance: ● FGEN — MONITOR Long-dated nuclear optionality; value but no near-term catalyst.

MER ₱573.00 Meralco launches bid for 600 MW under a 3,100 MW supply plan

Meralco launched a competitive bid for 600 MW of supply as part of a larger 3,100 MW power-procurement program, locking in capacity for its franchise demand growth. MER eased −1.21% intraday to ₱573 (foreign −₱36.8M).

Analysis. Securing long-term supply at competitive rates supports MER's distribution-margin stability and underpins MGEN's generation ambitions (following Tuesday's VinErgo RE MOU). Constructive operationally, though not a single-day price catalyst; the foreign selling reflects the broad large-cap risk-off rather than anything company-specific.

Stance: ● MER — MONITOR Supply security supportive; caught in the large-cap foreign exit.

EMI ₱15.34 Emperador sets ₱2.4B capex amid a spirits-sales recovery

Emperador earmarked ₱2.4B of capex as branded-spirits sales recover, funding capacity and brand investment across its brandy and Scotch whisky franchises. EMI closed ₱15.34 and was one of the few PSEi names to draw foreign buying (+ ₱7.1M).

Analysis. A recovery-led capex bump is a confidence signal after a soft patch in discretionary spend; soft oil and any eventual easing of rates would support consumer demand. The foreign buying into a down-tape is a mild positive tell. We would accumulate on weakness as a consumer-recovery play.

Stance: • EMI — MONITOR / accumulate-on-weakness Spirits recovery + capex; foreign buying bucked the tape.

SECTOR WRAP Corporate & sector briefs

GLO: Globe confirmed its ₱5B BDO term loan will fund capex and refinance debt (GLO +0.1%, foreign +₱0.9M). VVT: A Vivant unit acquired a Northern Samar wind project, adding to its RE pipeline (VVT ₱20.75). PIZZA: Shakey's (SPAVI) topped 3,000 outlets while closing underperforming stores — a network-quality clean-up (PIZZA ₱6.20). JFC: Jollibee ran share buybacks and closed +2.5% with foreign buying (+₱6.9M), a relative-strength standout.

Analysis. A mix of capacity adds (VVT wind, GLO funding) and disciplined housekeeping (SPAVI store rationalization). JFC's buyback-supported gain and foreign inflow stood out on a heavy day. None are index-movers, but the consumer/utility names offered pockets of resilience against the large-cap sell-off.

Stance: • Sector watch — NEUTRAL JFC relative strength; GLO / VVT / PIZZA incremental positives.

GLOBAL Asia steadies post chip-wreck; Hong Kong IPO boom

Regional markets stabilized after Tuesday's rout — Korea's KOSPI bounced +3.26% and Hong Kong firmed, while US indices were mixed (Dow +0.35%, S&P -0.10%, Nasdaq -0.43%). Hong Kong's IPO market is booming: 72 listings raised HK$154B ($19.6B) through June 24, up 41% year-on-year, with tech ~60% of proceeds and cornerstone investors in 84.7% of deals (40.5% of funds). Commodities, however, fell broadly (oil -4%+, metals -2% to -7%).

Analysis. The regional bounce removes some imported pressure, making the PSEi's -2.2% drop look distinctly local — a peso/yield and foreign-flow story rather than a global one. Hong Kong's IPO surge is a useful read-through for the regional capital-markets appetite that the PHL (GCash, VITRO REIT) hopes to tap. Softer oil stays supportive for PHL inflation.

Stance: • Global tone — STABILIZING Region steadied; PSEi weakness was home-grown (peso, yields, flows).
