Oil rose; metals and softs fell. Brent gained 2.67% to $111.73 and WTI 1.66% to $98.76, though the pasted changes imply priors that differ from last edition's levels, so the move is indicative. Gold fell 2.09% to $4,063.30, silver 4.51% and COMEX copper 2.69%; cocoa dropped 4.19%, sugar 1.42% and coffee 1.41%, and corn slipped 0.16%. Nickel rose 3.11%, but it was pasted in dollars per pound ($7.1734, about $15,815 per tonne) rather than per tonne, so it cannot be compared with last edition's $18,253.79. Coal and wheat repeat yesterday's paste and are N/A.

The peso weakened to a historic low and the US yield dropped. The desk quotes USD-PHP at 63.521 (+0.27%) and, in a macro note, around 63.46 at 9:35 AM, "on track for a historical low"; the DQR conversion rate moved to ₱63.361 from ₱63.090. The PHL 10-year paste repeats Oct 21's 8.055%, so it is N/A; a desk macro line says the yield eased 7.52bp to 8.00% on Wednesday. The US 10-year fell 16.9bp to 4.980%. The BSP hiked to 5.50% on Oct 22 (desk).

A rate shock ends the winning streak. The desk reports the BSP raised its policy rate 50bp to 5.50% on Oct 22, signalled it may tighten further and kept its 2026 inflation forecast at 6.1% (a convergence to 3% is projected only by 2028), citing El Niño risks to food supply. The PSEi fell 0.72% and five of six sectors declined, but foreigners remained net buyers of ₱1.20B; excluding GCASH, issue-level nets were +₱180.4M, with buying in TEL, MBT, SM, MER and PNB. Regular main-board value was ₱7.54B (₱8.21B including blocks), of which GCASH's ₱3.78B was 46% of the day's total. The test now is whether the PSEi holds the Oct 22 low of 5,743.29 after a weak overnight tape abroad.

What the tape shows

- Broad declines: Services −0.83% (ICT −0.93%, TEL −0.83%), Industrial −0.78% (CNPF −4.27%, MER −1.21%), Property −0.51% (ALI −2.25%, SMPH −1.00%) and Holding Firms −0.44% (AC −1.46%, JGS −1.28%); Mining & Oil rose 0.16% on NIKL.
- Standing house rule: banks stay on watch while the PHL 10-year is above 7% (8.00% on the desk line, 8.055% on the repeated paste). Financials fell 0.66% (BDO −1.44%, BPI −1.37%), yet foreigners bought MBT (+₱56.1M), PNB (+₱22.9M), BDO (+₱18.8M) and BPI (+₱13.8M), and MBT (+0.98%) and PNB (+0.66%) rose.
- GCASH below its offer: ₱6.56 against the ₱6.60 offer price after three sessions, on heavy foreign buying (+₱1,058.4M) and no blocks.

Risks to watch (desk and BusinessWorld items, not verified)

- Inflation and the BSP: a larger-than-expected hike, a signal of more to come, a 6.1% inflation forecast and an expected Super El Niño in 2027 keep rate risk in focus; the peso is near a record low (USD-PHP about 63.5).
- Global risk-off: the Nasdaq fell 2.60%, the S&P 500 1.21% and most of Asia 1.5–3.5% on Thursday, with silver down 4.51% and Brent up 2.67% to $111.73; the cause was not given.
- Geopolitics: a desk X post claims Iran has nuclear-weapons capability (single post, unverified); oil is already elevated.

The concept. Commodity prices come from supply and demand and are quoted mostly as futures contracts, so two quotes of the "same" metal can differ by contract, exchange, unit and time of day. Industrial metals such as copper and nickel tend to follow the growth and supply outlook, while precious metals such as gold and silver tend to follow interest rates and the dollar. A miner's profit usually moves by more than the metal's price, because many of its costs are fixed, so mining shares often swing harder than the commodity they sell.

Metals and miners, Oct 22 (desk and DQR)	Value
Gold COMEX	$4,063.30 per oz (−2.09%)
Silver COMEX	$55.11 per oz (−4.51%); fell 2.2 times as far as gold (4.51 ÷ 2.09)
Copper COMEX	640.25¢ per lb (−2.69%)
Nickel (desk, per lb)	$7.1734 per lb (+3.11%); about $15,815 per tonne (× 2,204.62 lb)
NIKL (DQR)	₱3.96 (+4.76%); range ₱3.78–4.05
AT / PX / APX / OGP (DQR)	−0.65% / −1.70% / −0.12% / 0.00%
Mining & Oil index (DQR)	18,962.36 (+0.16%)

Why it matters today. Gold, silver and copper fell sharply on Thursday while nickel rose, and the desk ties NIKL's jump to rising nickel prices, shipments and foreign-exchange tailwinds. The other listed miners did not follow the metals' direction, which shows the link is not one for one. The nickel quote is also a reminder to check units: the desk's table moved from dollars per tonne to dollars per pound, so the price cannot be compared with last edition's until the contract and unit are confirmed. A weaker peso (USD-PHP 63.521, +0.27%) raises the peso value of metal sold in dollars.

How to use it. (1) Check the unit, contract and time of a commodity quote before comparing it with an earlier one. (2) Compare a miner's move with the metal's: a bigger move in the share is normal, a move in the opposite direction needs another explanation. (3) Note the currency: producers earn dollars and report in pesos. Takeaway: a metal's price is a signal for the miner, but costs, volumes and currency decide how much of it reaches earnings.
