Wall Street rebounded on Monday (Dow −0.07%, S&P 500 +0.41%, Nasdaq +1.11%), recouping about half of the Nasdaq's 572.99-point drop on Friday; it happened after the PSE closed, so it is the overnight signal for today. Asia was weaker: 9 of the 12 open markets, the PSEi excepted, closed lower. KOSPI (+1.76%) recovered from an early 3.2% drop and Shanghai (+0.39%) reversed morning losses (ChiNext −1.1%), while Nikkei (−0.62%) stayed negative off its lows and Hong Kong was shut for a holiday. Indonesia was the weak spot: JCI fell 3.64% after dropping as much as 5% intraday to its lowest since late 2020, following an MSCI caution on emerging-market classification risk (desk headline, not verified). Other desk items: China's 3Q26 GDP grew 4.5%, above expectations, which lowers the odds of more stimulus, while property-development capex fell 20.6% year to date to September; BOJ Governor Ueda said baseline inflation is nearing the 2% target; the Taiwan dollar is at its weakest since April 2025; and unrest over living costs hit French and Italian cities.

PSE read-through: Mining & Oil rose 0.21% (+40.00 points) on ₱127.5M, led by AT; higher crude keeps import bills and inflation risk elevated.

Yields edged higher. The PHL 10-year is at 8.012% (+3.3bp from the 7.979% of our last edition; the desk gave no change) and the US 10-year at 5.145%. No USD-PHP quote was supplied; the DQR reference rate is ₱62.985 per dollar (the Oct 16 rate used for Monday's report). The latest T-bill auction (date not stated) awarded 35-day bills at 5.278% (PHP 10.0B), 91-day at 5.992% (PHP 20.0B), 182-day at 6.229% (PHP 15.0B) and 364-day at 6.444% (amount not given); the 10-year yield sits about 157bp above the 364-day rate.

A quiet advance against a weaker region. The PSEi gained 0.26% on lighter turnover (₱5.87B, down from ₱8.51B), faded from its high and closed just above the low. Gains were broad (equal-weighted +0.34%), but foreigners were net sellers after two net-buy sessions, so the rise was not foreign-led. Wall Street's Monday rebound is supportive for today's open; the test is whether the index holds 5,796.18 (Monday's low) and Friday's 5,782.70 close.

What the tape shows

- Holding firms and banks led: Holding Firms +1.08% (SMC +3.12%, AEV +1.54%, SM +1.50%, AC +0.75%) and Financials +0.77% (MBT +2.16%, BDO +1.12%); TEL (+4.00%) carried Services until ICT's fall (−1.16%) pulled the sector to −0.42%.
- Foreign flows split by sector: the three big banks drew +₱126.8M and AC +₱88.1M, while property and consumer names were sold (SMPH −₱59.5M, URC −₱33.9M, MONDE −₱24.5M, ALI −₱16.0M).
- Standing house rule: banks stay on watch while the PHL 10-year is above 7% (8.012% today); bank stocks rose with foreign buying even as the yield edged up.

Risks to watch (desk items, not verified)

- Indonesia / MSCI: JCI's 3.64% fall and the MSCI caution on emerging-market classification could weigh on regional flows; the Philippines is not named in the headline.
- China and Europe: a stronger-than-expected China GDP (4.5%) reduces the odds of added stimulus while property investment keeps shrinking; unrest in France and Italy and a BOJ closer to its inflation target add to global caution.
- Rates and oil: Brent near $110, the PHL 10-year at 8.012% and T-bill yields from 5.278% to 6.444% keep funding costs high; a PHP 30B 8% 2031 bond auction is carried from the Oct 19 notes for today.

The concept. A company's market capitalisation values every share it has issued. Its free float counts only the shares outside investors can actually buy and sell, after setting aside stakes held by founders, parent companies or the government. When the float is small, few shares change hands and modest orders can move the price a long way, which is why exchanges set minimum public-float (public ownership) rules for listed companies. A company that falls short can sell more shares to the public to restore its float, and it can face trading action while the shortfall lasts (confirm the current thresholds in the PSE listing rules).

Desk headline, Oct 19	Plans a share offering after its public float falls (article not opened)

Why it matters today. A 50% jump on 3.57 billion shares at a single price, followed by a suspension and a reported plan to sell more shares, fits the pattern of a thinly held stock. The DQR gives no reason for the suspension and we have not read the article, so we cannot say the events are linked or what the size and timing of the offering would be. The same question applies to today's new listing: Mynt's first sessions will show how much stock is actually available to buy (listing date carried from earlier notes).
How to use it. (1) Before buying a small stock after a big jump, ask how many shares are in public hands, not only what the company is worth. (2) Treat a one-price session on huge volume as a liquidity warning rather than proof of broad demand. (3) When a company announces an offering to restore its float, read the disclosure for size, price and timing, and weigh the extra liquidity against dilution.
Takeaway: market cap says how big a company is; free float says how easily its shares trade. Further reading: search Investopedia for "free float".
